SH! DEMOCRAT BIG WIGS ARE 'IN CONFERENCE'

Curry Here with Key to Nomination.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

By midnight last night nearly all the party big wigs who will determine the Democratic nomination for President in the Stadium next week—that is, unless the little wigs decide it for them—had arrived on the scene. Each one came in trailing clouds of mystery and, waxing still more mysterious, "went into conference" with assistant big wigs.

First came Al Smith, declaring himself for the nomination of Alfred Emmanuel Smith and the unqualified, equivocal repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and darkly suggesting that he may not support the ticket if Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York should be the nominee.

Al Hopes to Stampede 'Em.

Mr. Smith gave wistful utterance to the feeling that, with the country now catching up with his pioneer opposition to national prohibition, he deserves another try for the prize he prematurely sought in 1928. In the plans he disclosed for taking a prominent part in the convention proceedings it was evident he envisaged the possibility that by dramatic appearance and stirring speech he might stampede the convention into renominating him.

Next came William Gibbs McAdoo of California, former secretary of the treasury and son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson, staging a comeback in national politics as sponsor for the candidacy of Jack Garner of Texas, speaker of the house of representatives, for the presidential nomination.

Mr. McAdoo took up quarters in the penthouse atop the Hotel Sherman awaiting overtures from his ancient foe of Madison Square Garden, Al Smith, to go into a huddle on ways and means of beating Roosevelt.

For Progress with Garner.

"Will you support Garner to the death?" McAdoo was asked.

"We don't expect to die," he replied. "We expect to make progress. Mr. Garner will start out with Texas and California. John W. Davis had only 32 votes on the first ballot in 1924, and he ended with more than two-thirds of the convention. Mr. Garner also has a large support in uninstructed delegations."

Mr. McAdoo, one time uncompromising dry, said he didn't care to talk much about prohibition, but reiterated his belief that a popular referendum should be held at the expense of the government and asserted that if two-thirds of the congressional districts voted for repeal then congress must certainly submit a repeal amendment.

Asked about Gov. Roosevelt's map claiming enough votes to win on the first ballot, he said: "It is a very pretty map. It reminds me of Champ Clark's map in 1912."

Boss Curry Arrives.

Finally came Boss John F. Curry of Tammany hall, whose 49 Tammany votes in the New York delegation's 94 might easily bring the nomination within Roosevelt's grasp or enable Smith and the allied favorite sons to deadlock the convention and swing the nomination to a compromise candidate.

Mr. Curry brought the information that Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York City will be the New York member of the platform committee. He said that the New York delegation will not decide its course as to the nomination until it arrives and caucauses on Sunday. He denied that he would participate in any designs to "stop Roosevelt."

He Keeps Them Guessing.

The Tammany boss, who is commonly regarded as holding the key to the nomination, is keeping all interests guessing, for the reason, it appears that Mr. Curry himself does not know what he is going to do.

He has arrived thus early on the scene to survey the situation. If he finds that Roosevelt is so strong to begin with that he is going to be nominated by the little wigs, no matter what the big wigs do, Mr. Curry will lead his 49 Tammany braves aboard the Roosevelt bandwagon on the first ballot, pretending he was for Roosevelt all along.

If he comes to the conclusion that Roosevelt can be blocked, he will throw his votes to Smith. If he is in doubt, he will throw some votes here, some there, till he sees which way the cat is going to jump.

Farley Still Predicting.

Roosevelt Manager James A. Farley, continued to predict the nomination of the New York governor on the first ballot. He claims 682 of the 770 votes constituting the two-thirds necessary to nominate. As to 105 of

SENATE VOTES 'NO' AFTER PLEA FOR CASH LOAN

Lewis and Glenn Effort in Vain.

Bank Appeal Today

Mayor Cermak will return to Chicago today after his Washington quest for federal funds and will make a new appeal to Chicago bankers for added loans on Chicago tax warrants. (Details on page 8).

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—A stirring midnight appeal to the senate for federal aid for Chicago's unpaid employes was rejected tonight by an overwhelming vote.

But a few scattered "yeas" and a loud chorus of "nays" sent to defeat an amendment offered to the pending Wagner relief bill by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.]. In the amendment he sought to permit the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans to states for advances to municipalities and other subdivisions to be used in paying the back salaries of unpaid employes.

Recess Following Vote.

Soon after the defeat of Chicago the senate recessed after sitting continuously for thirteen hours. An agreement limiting debate to five minutes for each senator had been reached, insuring a final decision on the two billion dollar measure tomorrow.

The senate's negative answer was a response to dramatic appeals for help voiced by Senator Lewis and his colleague, Senator Otis F. Glenn, in which they declared that the Chicago situation might well prove the genesis of riot and revolt which would spread throughout the country.

Told Plight of Teachers.

The Illinois senators described the condition of the unpaid Chicago school teachers, telling how many had not been paid for fourteen months, and how more than one had been driven to sleep in the parks. They did not seek to excuse the part that lax and extravagant Chicago government had played in bringing the city to its present fiscal plight. Nor did they seek to excuse the delay in pushing the collection of taxes in Cook county.

"But those things are not the fault of the teachers, the policemen, the firemen, or the street sweepers," declared Senator Glenn. He promised repayment of any loans made.

"If anything is good in this country," he said, "then it is the credit of Illinois and Chicago. If it is not, then the country is doomed."

"That is what occurs to me," interposed Senator William E. Borah [radical Republican, Idaho]. "If Illinois and Chicago come begging, then, in all probability, the jig is up."

Chicago's Lesson Learned.

Senator Glenn was sure Chicago had learned its lesson from the book of extravagant government.

"Now pay time has come," he said.

Senator Lewis, too, pleaded that it was not the fault of those who now suffer, but the fault of the government. He deplored the necessity of overpassing the lines of distinction between governments, but, he said:

"There comes a time when all rules must have exceptions."

He told how unpaid, underfed teachers had helped feed the school children.

"If the time comes when we again see such a march of the teachers as was recently held in Chicago, and if there is no more money to pay the officers to maintain peace," he said, "then are you ready to carry out the threat of marching a federal army there, to create another Russia, Austria, or Spain?"

Norris Attacks Tribune.

Senator George W. Norris [radical Rep., Neb.] supported the amendment because "the crisis is such that it may include the entire United States government." He quoted Portia's appeal for mercy.

Certainly, he said, he did not speak as he did through any love for certain Chicago institutions, particularly its newspapers and particularly "that one calling itself the World's Greatest."

He attacked THE TRIBUNE bitterly for having insinuated that senators who opposed the elevation of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to the Circuit court were under the influence of Capone and gangsterdom. THE TRIBUNE, Senator Norris said, had "hurled epithets and indecent, malicious innuendoes" at senators for a stand that they had every conscientious right to take.

It was Senator David I. Walsh

County Jail Terrorized; 2 Die

Prisoner Gets Pistol; Slays Guard and Self

A convicted robber awaiting trial for murder ran amuck in the county jail last night, shot and killed a guard, menaced two others and after terrorizing fellow prisoners in their cells killed himself.

For nearly ten minutes he created a reign of terror in the jail, riding up and down an elevator, running up and down stairways, and eluding rifle armed guards. Finally, when capture appeared imminent, he turned the weapon on himself, in view of a guard.

Scheduled for Murder Trial.

The prisoner was Jack Lawrence, 23 years old, under a sentence of one year to life for robbery. He was scheduled to go to trial Monday for the murder of Policeman John Nerad of Cicero. The jail guard he killed was Leo Nicholas, 50 years old, 742 North Latrobe avenue.

Warden David Moneypenny immediately began an inquiry on how the gun was smuggled to Lawrence. An independent quiz was started by police, several squads of whom had been summoned to the jail, but were not admitted when they arrived.

Late last night Moneypenny, Sergt. Charles Reynolds of Coroner Walsh's office, and Lieut. Richard Barry questioned Mrs. Olive Lawrence, 21 years old, 3331 Walnut street, the killer's widow, who had visited her husband during the day. Sergt. Reynolds said she denied delivering the gun to him.

Asks to See Doctor.

It was about 7:30 o'clock that the prelude to the one man reign of terror started. His eye blackened in a fight with other prisoners, Lawrence sought medical aid. He was released from his cell into the corridor. Assistant Superintendent Edward McDonald examined him through a screened door and approved his request. He sent for Nicholas to take Lawrence to the doctor's office.

Nicholas was at the time on duty in corridor E-1, on the first floor, with Guard Mac J. Devlin. He walked over to the prisoner. Assistant Superintendent McDonald started back for his office.

Suddenly there was a shot, then two more. McDonald looked around. He saw Nicholas stagger, then fall. Devlin, unarmed and alone with the desperado, rushed for him, but Lawrence ran past him. McDonald hurried into the office and summoned armed guards.

Rides in an Elevator.

Lawrence, waving the pistol, ran towards the corridor elevator, a self-operating lift. Prisoners in their cell blocks on either side cowered in terror. Their cries added to the confusion. Lawrence got into the cage. He rode to the second floor—corridor C-2—and stepped out. Guard Fred Carruthers advanced upon him.

"Talk fast or I'll blow your head off," snarled Lawrence, pressing the gun against the guard. "How do I get out?" Carruthers motioned him toward the front, knowing that by this time the guards would be armed. As Lawrence turned around the guard darted into the elevator, shut the door, and barred this avenue of escape.

Momentarily bewildered, Lawrence ran up the stairs to the third floor, then down, then up again. While using the elevator he had followed similar procedure, riding to the basement, then to upper floors. On the third floor, in section D-3, Lawrence suddenly bumped into Guard Joseph Washington.

Turns Gun on Self.

"He held the gun at his hip, waving it as he swayed his body," related Washington. "He seemed in a daze. He took two steps toward me, paused, then took two more. I was unarmed; I thought I was done for. Then he put the gun to his left temple and fired."

By this time dozens of guards armed with rifles and tear bombs were posted at vantage exits. They had orders to "shoot to kill" once Lawrence showed himself. The single shot on the third floor ended the hunt.

Dr. Constantine Theodore, jail physician, examined Guard Nicholas. He found that he had been hit twice in the left side and once in the right. Lawrence died instantly. Dr. Theodore said that Lawrence had been under mental observation several times and once had gone on a two weeks' hunger strike.

Guard Shot Three Times.

Lawrence was known as a troublesome prisoner. His home was in Holland, Mich. Last fall he was indicted with Nicholas Birkonik for the killing of Policeman Nerad, and surrendered in Michigan shortly afterward. Prosecutors lodged a robbery charge against him in addition to the murder, and after numerous delays he was convicted before Judge Rudolph Desort on Jan. 23 and sentenced on March 14.

FRENCH SENATE TO VOTE ON VOTES FOR WOMEN AGAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 22.—The special police at Luxemburg palace, where the French senate sits, are to be reinforced and other precautions will be taken in anticipation of stormy scenes, created by French suffragettes. For the senatorial stronghold of conservatism, which has blocked votes for women for the last 10 years despite approval of the chamber of deputies, will once more vote on the question of women's suffrage.

It is anticipated that, although the fight will be closer than ever, the senators will once more turn down suffrage, and at the most might grant the right to vote in municipal elections.

Senator Louis Martin, father of the suffrage bill, will defend the measure with the same old arguments which were familiar in American life more than 15 years ago—"Why should the woman president of a normal school be refused a vote while her dull witted janitor possesses ballot rights?"

SHIFT IN WIND COOLS CITY AFTER MERCURY HITS 89

Chicago and suburbs enjoyed their first full day of summer yesterday, with real summer weather prevailing. The summer solstice occurred at 10:23 a. m. Tuesday, giving only an incomplete first day for the new season.

Warm winds from the southwest and west brought high temperatures to the city during the day, sending thousands to the beaches for relief. At 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon the maximum of 89 degrees was reached. A shift in the wind to the north early in the evening dropped the mercury nine degrees and brought relief. By midnight the breeze had sent the temperature down to 68.

Today will be cooler, W. P. Day, government forecaster, predicted last night. Skies will be generally fair. Moderate northerly breezes are expected. Tomorrow will also be fair with moderate temperatures.

Boy Spends Fare for Candy; Hurt Climbing "L" Pillar

Charles Fernandez, 9 years old, went visiting in the loop last night without the knowledge of his parents. When it came time to start for home at 909 South Paulina street he didn't have any fare. He had spent his dime for candy. To solve the problem Charles climbed an iron pillar leading to the elevated station at Randolph and Wells streets. Eighteen feet up he slipped and crashed to the street. He was taken to the county hospital with leg and arm fractures and internal injuries.

Hausner Back in U. S. After Rescue at Sea

Miami, Fla., June 22.—[Special.]—Stanislaus Hausner landed on American soil at 11:35 p. m. tonight describing for the first time his experiences during the eight days he clung to his plane before he was rescued June 11 by the British tanker Circe Shell.

The Polish-American flyer, who left his home airport at Newark, June 2, for an attempted flight to Poland said that 15 ships passed him during those eight days after he was forced down northeast of the Azores before the British tanker sighted him.

Despite his miraculous escape from death Hausner asserted he is eager to attempt another trans-Atlantic flight and would be ready to start tomorrow if a plane were ready.

Willing to Try Again.

Mrs. Hausner, who greeted him as he was transferred from the Circe Shell to a tugboat from Miami, 20 miles off shore tonight, smiled as he made this statement. "Would you let him try again?" newspaper men asked.

"Yes," his young wife answered readily. "If he wants to I wouldn't object. I can truthfully say that I never lost faith in his return during all the days he was missing on the flight."

After leaving Newark, Hausner said, he had flown an estimated 2,800 miles before trouble developed, and it became apparent that he faced a landing at sea. He declined to discuss the nature of this trouble, but said he succeeded in landing without injury to himself or to his plane.

For an hour before the landing, he added, he had been making slow progress fighting difficulties.

Drifts Miles Clinging to Plane.

Then came the long struggle to keep afloat, with a grip on the plane, until a ship should sight him. He estimated that he had drifted from 200 to 350 miles while clinging to his plane.

Rain, squalls and fog added to the discomfort of hunger and exposure but enough of the plane remained afloat to support him.

Of all the 15 ships he saw during the eight successive days he fought grimly against the sea and weather, he said he felt sure none sighted him before the Circe Shell came alongside as night was nearing June 11.

ONE-THIRD FARE OFFERED TO VETS BY 2 RAILROADS

Washington, D. C., June 22.—(AP)—Two railroads offered tonight to transport the bonus army home at a special minimum fare. In response to a request by Washington police, the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio set a rate of one cent per mile—less than one-third of the regular fare. Other railroads are considering similar fares.

Since no public funds are available, Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, hopes to obtain contributions from the home communities of the thousands of war veterans encamped in the city. He believes that the offer of rail transportation will induce more former soldiers to leave than are now going by truck.

Today in the house Representative Baldridge [Rep., Neb.] urged congress to consider using the railroads to return the veterans. He said special rates were provided by law for this type of passenger.

"My city of Omaha," Baldridge said, "could raise the funds to send back the fifty-four men here. "I think they soon will be in the frame of mind to return home."

HOOVER URGES WORLD CUT IN ARMIES, NAVIES

Proposes Reduction of One-Third.

How World Eyes Plan

The Hoover arms reduction plan met a mixed reception at the disarmament conference at Geneva, but late last night the American delegation declared delegates of 26 nations had endorsed it.

France openly attacked the plan and styled it an "ultimatum." Great Britain was cool toward it. Japan's chief delegate showed a prompt dislike for any further naval reductions. Italy, Germany, and soviet Russia openly praised the plan.

Premier Herriot of France will appeal by radio to Americans today to keep faith in France and will seek to explain that the difference between the French and American programs is one of method rather than principle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—In a sudden dramatic move to save the faltering league arms conference at Geneva, President Hoover today proposed that the nations of the world adopt a drastic program calling for the reduction of their armies and navies from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent.

The President, in a hastily arranged talk with newspaper men and again through his spokesmen at the Geneva arms conference, promised that such a step as he recommended would result in a world savings of between ten and fifteen billion dollars during the next ten years. The American savings, he estimated at two billions over the same period.

Offered with startling suddenness as the conference was about to expire, the Hoover proposals struck French objections. Indications tonight were that the conference would adjourn without taking action on the Hoover plan. In diplomatic circles the view was expressed that the American move today was either political, or an attempt to force the European powers to cut armaments prior to asking for revision of the war debts to this country.

Hoover's Recommendations.

The major recommendations of the Hoover proposals were:

Abolition of all tanks, chemical warfare units, and large mobile guns.

A reduction of one-third in the strength of all land armies over and above the strength needed to maintain internal order. [This would not mean a cut for the United States.]

The abolition of all bombing planes and "the total abolition of all bombardment from the air."

A reduction in the treaty tonnage and number of battleships by one-third. This would cut British and American battleships from fifteen to ten each, leaving Japan six or seven.

A reduction in the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers, and destroyers by one-fourth and of submarines by one-third, with no nation having more than 35,000 tons of submersibles.

Might Include New Cruisers.

The total tonnage to be reduced, counting under and over age ships, would run well in excess of a million tons. The United States would scrap 306,860 tons, Great Britain 385,848, and Japan 266,783. Of the United States tonnage only 105,400 tons [battleships] would represent under age and useful tonnage. The possibility existed, however, that the United States might be called upon to scrap two of its newest and most powerfully designed 8 inch gun cruisers, now building, to get within the new cruiser tonnage limits.

In announcing the proposals, President Hoover said no cuts would be made by the United States unless proportionate cuts were made by other powers. He said also that the American and British fleets would be reduced just alike to absolute tonnage parity in all categories.

Hoover Reads Proposals.

President Hoover summoned newspaper men to the White House this morning. Then with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson standing beside him, Mr. Hoover read his proposals to the handful of reporters his telephone operators had been able to find.

"The time has come," said the President, "when we should cut through the brush and adopt some broad and definite method of reducing the overwhelming burden of armament which now lies upon the toilers of the world. This would be the most important world step that could be taken to expedite economic recovery.

"We must make headway against the mutual fear and friction arising out of war armament which kill human confidence throughout the world. We can still remain practical in maintaining an adequate self defense among all nations; we can add to the assurances of peace and yet save the people of the world from ten to fifteen billions of wasted dollars during the next ten years."

Sees Security for U. S.

The President described his proposals as simple and direct and of such a nature they would leave the United States more secure in defense "than we are today."

"They call upon all nations to contribute something," he said. "The contribution here proposed will be relative and mutual. I know of nothing that would give more hope for humanity today than the acceptance of such a program with such minor changes as might be necessary. It is folly for the world to go on breaking its back over military expenditure and the United States is willing to take its share of responsibility by making definite proposals that will relieve the world."

Although both the White House and state department denied that war debts and disarmament were correlated in the current negotiations, reports persisted that the Hoover administration was ready to offer debt revision in exchange for disarmament.

Pacifists Enthusiastic.

The news of the White House bid for drastic disarmament met with such an enthusiastic reception in pacifist circles that it led to reports that President Hoover had made his apparently hopeless move for arms reduction as a bid for the support of the pacifist and peace groups of the country in the fall elections.

As the American fleet is largely underbuilt, the major effect of the proposals would be to stifle the navy's future chances of building up to the strength the leading admirals believe necessary for the protection of America's coast lines, her trade, and her outlying possessions. The fact that President Hoover made no suggestion that in the new disarmament deal Great Britain and Japan turn over to the United States a number of badly needed naval bases or at least allow the United States to fortify Guam and the Philippines also served to add to naval discontent.

Would Leave Japan Strong.

The reduction in carriers as well as other ships would leave Japan in complete control in the Asiatics and the United States virtually helpless to enforce the open door policy. It would also greatly increase the value of Japanese naval bases.

The President also laid down the principle that the ratio of armed forces assigned to Germany and the other central powers for defense purposes by the Versailles treaty should be used as the yardstick for measuring the police and defensive needs for other nations of the world. On this basis, the United States could increase its army. France would have to make a tremendous slash in her land forces.

Outlines Guiding Principles.

"I propose," the President said in enunciating the principles which had been forwarded to Geneva to be read at the arms parley by Hugh Gibson, American chairman, "That the following principles should be our guide:

"First: The Kellogg-Briand pact, to which we are all signatories, can only mean that the nations of the world have agreed that they will use their arms solely for defense.

"Second: This reduction should be carried out, not only by broad general cuts in armaments, but by increasing the comparative power of defense through decreases in the power of the attack.

For Relative Reductions.

"Third: The armaments of the world have grown up in general mutual relation to each other. And, speaking generally, such relativity should be preserved in making reductions.

"Fourth: The reductions must be real and positive. They must effect economic relief.

"Fifth: There are three problems to deal with—land forces, air forces and naval forces. They are all interconnected. No part of the proposals which I make can be disassociated one from the other.

"Based on these principles, I propose that the arms of the world should be reduced by nearly one-third."

The President said that he proposed the abolition of all tanks, all chemical warfare and all large mobile guns, "in order to reduce the offensive character of all land forces as distinguished from their defensive character."

"This," the President continued, "would not prevent the establishment or increase of fixed fortifications of any character for the defense of frontiers and sea coasts. It would give an increased relative strength to such defenses as compared with the attack.

"I propose, furthermore, that there should be a reduction of one-third in strength of all land armies over and above the so-called police component.

"The land armaments of many nations are considered to have two functions. One is the maintenance of internal order in connection with the regular peace forces of the country. The strength required for this purpose has been called the 'police component.' The other function is defense against foreign attack. The additional strength required for this purpose has been called the 'defense component.'

German Limitation Cited.

"While it is not suggested that these different components should be separated, it is necessary to consider this contention as to functions in proposing a practical plan of reduction in land forces. Under the treaty of Versailles and the other peace treaties, the armies of Germany, Austria, Hungary, and Bulgaria, were reduced to a size deemed appropriate for the maintenance of internal order, Germany being assigned 100,000 troops for a population of approximately 65 million people.

"I propose that we should accept for all nations a basic police component of soldiers proportionate to the average which was thus allowed Germany and these other states. This formula, with necessary corrections for powers having colonial possessions, should be sufficient to provide for the maintenance of internal order by the nations of the world. Having analyzed these two components in this fashion, I propose, as stated above, that there should be a reduction of one-third in the strength of all land armies over and above the police component."

Would Bar Bombing Planes.

The President proposed that all bombing planes should be abolished.

"This," he said, "will do away with the military possessions of types of planes capable of attacks upon civil populations and should be coupled with total prohibition of all bombardment from the air."

As for naval forces, President Hoover said:

"I propose that the treaty number and tonnage of battleships shall be reduced by one-third; that the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers shall be reduced by one-fourth; that the treaty tonnage of submarines shall be reduced by one-third, and that no nation shall retain a submarine tonnage greater than 35,000.

"The relative strength of naval arms in battleships and aircraft carriers, as between the five leading naval powers, was fixed by the treaty of Washington. The relative strength in cruisers, destroyers and submarines was fixed, as between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, by the treaty of London.

Technical Plan Presented.

"For the purposes of this proposal, it is suggested that the French and Italian strength in cruisers and destroyers be calculated as though they had joined in the treaty of London on a basis approximating the so called accord of March 1, 1931. There are various technical considerations connected with these naval discussions which will be presented by the delegation."

The President said that his proposal would not interfere with current naval construction. He denied that his proposal was linked with the war debts discussions.

Sees Arms Parley at Stake.

"The President's proposal touching the reduction of land and naval forces probably will have the effect of disclosing whether the Geneva disarmament conference is to finally fail," said Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.]. "Manifestly little progress is being made and the published proceedings do not indicate that substantial reductions in either land or naval armament are in prospect. President Hoover's suggestion, as I interpret it, does not look to any cutting down of the land forces of the United States, since they are probably now below the standard which he suggests.

"The question of practical importance is, What will be accomplished? Must mankind stagger on indefinitely bearing the crushing weight of present armament? To say that this is unavoidable is to impeach world statesmanship."

A hasty survey of the President's proposal, said Senator William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, gave him the impression that it was "fair and sound."

"I am for drastic reduction," said Senator Borah, "and so long as all nations are treated fairly, I do not care much how it is brought about."

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, declared:

"The chief hope of relief for the overburdened taxpayers of the world lies in disarmament. I hope, therefore, that the President's proposal will be accepted by the other nations."

Walsh Favors Large Cut.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], member of the foreign relations committee, said:

"I would like to see a cut of one-third or, for that matter, of one-half, but many difficulties will arise when an attempt is made to put the President's proposal into practice."

Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], also a foreign relations committee member, saw the proposal as an attempt to get back to one of the early propositions at the conference—that the world's armed forces should be pared down with the present German establishment as a standard.

Senators Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] and William H. King [Dem., Utah] were for disarmament, but foresaw difficulties in working out the President's suggestion.

Vinson Expresses Views.

Chairman Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.], of the house naval affairs committee:

"I am heartily in accord with the universal reduction of all armaments by any amount. I am in accord with the proposal to reduce armaments by one-third or more. The people should be relieved of the burden of taxation brought about on armaments. All we desire is parity."

Representative W. Frank James [Rep., Mich.], ranking minority member of the house military affairs committee:

"Didn't Mr. Hoover in his message to congress on economy say that the army and navy strength should not be reduced? And didn't the Republican platform adopted at Chicago say the same thing?

"Since we have to maintain adequate police forces in Panama, Hawaii, the Philippines, and Porto Rico, I do not see how the personnel strength of the army could be reduced unless we took men away from the army schools, the R. O. T. C., C. M. T. C., and the National Guard."

Figures on Proposed Naval Cuts

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—Charts showing how the three major sea powers—the United States, Great Britain, and Japan—would be affected by the adoption of the Hoover arms reduction proposals were made available for publication tonight. They disclosed that the Hoover plan, if adopted as offered, would give the United States theoretical tonnage parity with Great Britain. Actually, however, this parity would not come about for several years.

In one way the charts are misleading in that they include among ships to be scrapped many American destroyers and submarines which have lost virtually all military value. The charts also show the theoretical cuts which would be made rather than the actual cuts. Take the battleship class for instance. Theoretically the United States would scrap five ships of a tonnage of 105,400. Actually this country does not have five ships of that tonnage. The five ships to be scrapped would total 138,100 tons. Eventually, when all battleships were rebuilt as 35,000 ton vessels by Great Britain and the United States, each country would have 350,000 tons.

DEADLOCK GRIPS WAR DEBT MEET; WALKOUT LOOMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 22.—The French delegation to the Lausanne conference on reparations and war debts tonight heard intimations of a possible walkout. This came in a fifteen minute interview between Premier Edouard Herriot and Prime Minister MacDonald in which the latter pleaded fatigue, then trotted off to the British colony's garden party.

Herriot had shown MacDonald details of the French plan for suspension of reparations for a few years but rejecting cancellation of them. He elaborated last night to get under the tape before the Hoover disarmament plan. MacDonald reciprocated with the British memorandum, which demands a final settlement now of the reparations and debt problem.

The Germans earlier produced a memorandum in which they stood firm on their refusal to pay and balked at future payments after a moratorium, based on industrial or other kind of mortgages. They said the German railways have no reserves and have lost half their receipts since 1922. The Germans also proposed a five year economic truce for all Europe, with special trade advantages to France.

The French delegation tonight confessed that they had found the British note the harsher of the two. They admitted that the pressure put upon them is tremendous.

Whether the MacDonald hint of returning to London was strategic or a real threat cannot be determined. The deadlock, however, is complete.

26 NATIONS BACK HOOVER SCHEME; FRANCE BALKS

Insists She Must Have Security Guarantee.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, June 22.—The disarmament conference, hurriedly assembled for the purpose after a vacation imposed by the necessity of heart to heart talks between the members, was this afternoon converted into a Hoover field day.

American Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson read President Hoover's proposal for a reduction by one-third in all military arms and elaborated on their vast potentialities. Thereafter for some three hours the representatives of the great powers rose and did their acts.

They ranged from the gleeful embrace of the Italians to the sour acknowledgement by the French—sour, but not as ominous as certain rumblings behind the scenes tonight. Up to 9:30 o'clock tonight, 26 nations of the 40 odd represented here had sent emissaries to Gibson to declare their enthusiasm for the plan.

Britain Spreads Wet Blanket.

Each act today had its special quality. Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, with all the elegant agility of a London barrister went through the motions of spreading something that looked like a wet blanket on the Hoover proposal.

"The report will receive careful attention," he said. "The object of this conference is to induce agreement; agreement is not attained by an unilateral statement, but by coöperation.

"I doubt whether this proposal is adequate in some respects, and in others appropriate to the varying circumstances of the different naval powers. I say boldly for Great Britain that we want more disarmament than appears here. We want submarines abolished."

France Demands Security.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, French minister of war, did his act with politeness in the grand French manner and at the same time said the proposal would not do at all, since it is based on the wrong hypothesis that the nations would use their arms for self-defense alone.

"Reduction of armaments is inseparably bound up with security," he declared. "Mr. Hoover's plan for mass reduction will be welcomed in France if it is combined with international provisions for security. We are willing to study the Hoover proposals if the Americans will study the requirements of French security. Who is to guarantee that weapons shall be used only for the purposes of defense?"

The French delegation intimated tonight that it will make at least one effort to skirt the Hoover plan with an offer to cut military budgets,, say as high as 20 per cent. The French find the American plan "too simple for the complex situation."

Herriot to Talk to U. S.

Premier Herriot, in an appeal to the American public tomorrow night, will ask that France's good faith be not doubted. He will plead that the difference of the French and American theses is one of method rather than principle.

The soviet Russian bear, impersonated by Maxim Litvinov, foreign commissar, embraced the American proposals as being, he said, in their essence Russian born.

The Germans indicated gravely that they were pleased and expected still more and the Japanese just as gravely indicated that they were not pleased. Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to London, quietly laid under Gibson's eyes a large sized mine in the path of the President's naval propositions.

Hints at New Naval Parley.

"Japan accepted her tonnage allotment at the London naval treaty on condition it would be of short duration," he observed. "To modify the figures of the Washington and London treaties it would be necessary to have an exchange of views between the powers concerned."

He is thought to have implied practically another naval conference, at which the Japanese would reopen the whole question.

The session ended at 7:30 o'clock with what is being called in Geneva tonight a Grandi finale. Premier Mussolini's foreign minister, after a long telephone talk with il duce, said the American proposal was great and that it duplicated the whole Italian program.

There is reason to believe that the British delegation, while embarrassed by the suggestion that a goodly number of his majesty's battleships and cruisers should be scrapped, entertains friendlier feelings for the proposal than Sir John Simon's speech indicated.

Delegates Are Bitter.

Despite the politeness of the various delegates at today's session, in the conference corridors tonight many of those same delegates are waxing exceedingly bitter. The say the plan may sound very well at Washington, but they brand it as demagogery. One member of the French delegation said:

"Hoover must think the conference is nearly dead and therefore he is willing to try such drastic surgery. While it is good propaganda, it might kill the conference for sure. His naval proposals are beaten—possibly by the British and surely by the Japanese—to begin with, and without our raising a finger to protect our submarines."

PARIS ATTACKS PLAN

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 22.—The entire right press, commenting on President Hoover's disarmament proposal, today attacked what it calls "American interference" and proclaimed the plan an attempt to barter armament reduction against a possible revision of war debts without allowing the Europeans the full assurance that debt cancellation will take place.

Several left wing deputies tonight contended, however, that the proposal called on all countries to make equal sacrifices and that it offered the only peaceful solution for world difficulties, financial and political.

The Journal des Debats called the Hoover proposal "an American ultimatum" and attacked what it called the presumption of Washington's manner in exerting pressure on France as "extraordinary as it is inadmissible."

Rome Is Enthusiastic.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ROME, June 22.—President Hoover's disarmament proposal was received enthusiastically in Italy. Particular satisfaction was expressed because it closely follows the lines of Foreign Minister Dino Grandi' proposal for a qualitative system of disarmament—namely, the complete abolition of certain types of armaments such as bombing planes, tanks and heavy artillery.

Germany Sees Link with Debts.

BERLIN, June 22.—The Vossische Zeitung is impressed by the "transcendent political importance" of President Hoover's disarmament proposal.

"Even if the war debts and reparations are not mentioned in President Hoover's message," the Vossische Zeitung says, "yet the connection between today's démarche and the discussions with Premier Herriot of France are unmistakable."

Chicago Peace Leaders Praise Arms Plans; Others Doubtful

Thirty-five leaders of the peace movement gathered yesterday at a meeting of the Chicago Disarmament council in the City club and praised President Hoover for his proposal that international armaments be cut one-third as a means of lifting the world from depression. The council went on record as favoring the plan and dispatched a wire of thanks to the President.

The council is a federation of 35 Chicago peace seeking organizations. Among those who attended the meeting yesterday were Miss Amy Wood of Boston and Miss Dorothy Detzer of Washington, observers at the Geneva conference; Fred J. Libby of Washington, secretary of the national conference for the prevention of war; Miss Jeannette Rankin of Montana, first woman member of congress, and Harry Terrell, secretary of the Iowa council for prevention of war.

Urge Views on Democrats.

The council resolved to attend the informal meeting of the Democratic platform committee in the Congress hotel and will urge the committee to declare for disarmament, closer coöperation with the league of nations, entrance to the world court, reduction of tariffs, and reparations to stimulate prosperity.

Those attending the meeting were urged to participate in a peace parade scheduled for Monday. The procession, headed by Jane Addams, will form in Grant park at noon and proceed westward to the Stadium. Miss Addams will ride in the official car of City Greeter George Gaw.

Some leading Chicagoans, however, were inclined to skepticism concerning the Hoover proposal.

"How can we be assured that all the nations will keep faith in a disarmament agreement?" asked Milton J. Foreman, retired lieutenant general of the National Guard. "If such an agreement will be kept it might be good, though European nations which have enforced military training would have an advantage over the United States. We woud have to start training after the trouble started and consequently be at a disadvantage."

Hard to Work Out.

"I am in favor of any world-wide disarmament plan," said Robert Isham Randolph, "although I am very skeptical that it can be worked out."

"It would be all right if it does not mean an unsound military policy for this country, said Graham Aldis, former president of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. "My impression of such conferences is that usually too many concessions are expected from this country."

"If all nations disarmed we would be in the same position as now in military strength," said Henry Barrett Chamberlin, director of the Chicago Crime commission. "It is a big job. I should think that we should be sure that we are protected before we let go."

AUSTRIA CEASES TO PAY FOREIGN CURRENCY DEBTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, June 22.—"Make no more payments in foreign currency," Viktor Kelnhoeck, managing director of the Austrian National bank, ordered today. The semi-official Christian-Socialist newspaper Waltblatt said that this means a transfer moratorium, which, though not yet declared, is practically in force. It is a question of but a few days until Austria follows officially the example of Hungary, Bulgaria, and Greece in doing so.

"A dark cloud is over central Europe. It is impossible to wait until the Herriot plan is fulfilled. We will have to save ourselves," another newspaper, the Extrablatt, stated tonight.

It was declared that the national bank has decided, in event of a loan being granted, to abandon the present fictitious inland rate of the schilling and allow currency to sink by stages to the real value as estimated abroad, where it is at a discount of 20 to 30 per cent. The National bank, however, declines to confirm the report.

SLATE HITCHCOCK AS CHAIRMAN OF PLANK FRAMERS

Committee Begins Work on Platform Today.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska was decided upon last night by the Roosevelt forces as their choice for chairman of the resolutions committee of the Democratic national convention. The action came on the eve of the meeting of the resolutions committee today for informal and unofficial discussion of the planks to be written into the platform.

Hitchcock, who was spokesman for President Wilson in the senate, conferred last night with the Roosevelt board of strategy and will take an active part in the meetings of the committee starting today. Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee, a leader in the party, had been prominently mentioned for the committee chairmanship, but announced yesterday that he preferred to remain in the ranks. With the Roosevelt forces in control, the selection of Hitchcock is practically a certainty.

Consider Economic Issues.

Among the issues to be considered at the session today are the high cost of government, the mushroom growth of bureaucracy and the army of tax eaters, and unemployment relief.

Prohibition, of course, is the overshadowing question, as it was last week with the Republicans, and the coming controversy, as it is now shaping itself, bids fair to be between the advocates of a plank calling on congress to submit repeal of the 18th amendment to the states and the proponents of a plank indorsing repeal itself and calling for immediate repeal or revision of the Volstead act to permit light wines and beer.

The Bingham minority repeal plank which was tossed out of the window by the Republicans is to be introduced to the preliminary platform makers right off the bat today as a model liquor plank for the Democrats. Joseph K. Carson Jr. of Portland, Ore., member of the resolutions committee, announced last night that he would submit the Bingham plank and press for its adoption.

Liquor Not Only Issue.

But the Democratic chieftains say that the liquor question, paramount though it is, is not going to shove other national questions out of the picture.

Senator Hull on arriving yesterday said it would be a "damnable outrage" and the delegates should be "kicked into the lake" if the Democrats followed the lead of the Republicans and gave silent treatment to grave economic issues.

"As to a prohibition plank," said Senator Hull, "it seems to be the consensus among most drys and wets alike, where I have recently traveled, that there might well be a submission of this question in such direct, unequivocal form as would enable the voters of the different states to express their choice between retention and repeal.

"I feel justified in saying that it would be a damnable outrage, bordering on treason, if this Democratic convention, like the recent Republican national convention, should meet and adjourn without serious thought or mention of the unprecedented panic conditions which have thrown nearly ten million wage earners out of employment, bankrupted millions of business men and wrecked American agriculture.

Favors Far Reaching Economy.

"Many of us have been urging what are deemed adequate remedies, which include the most ruthless program of far reaching economy and retrenchment, federal, state, county, and municipal, that it is humanely possible to carry out. I am talking about the reduction of 4 to 5 billions of federal, state, and local taxes and expenditures. This would leave some money in the hands of the people with which to proceed to business and all other private undertakings.

"Secondly, there must be a restoration of commodity prices which reassures a restoration of confidence, and this requires some degree of concerted action by this and a few other important countries to rehabilitate the international credit, exchange, and trade situation, so that this and other countries can dispose of their present dammed up surpluses."

As to an agricultural plank, incoming party chiefs and delegates said yesterday that the operations of the federal farm board will be denounced as a costly government failure.

James A. Reed's Ideas.

The managers of James A. Reed, ex-senator of Missouri, a pioneer leader of the liberals, got into action yesterday. Mr. Reed is to arrive this morning. His manager, Ed S. Villmoare of Kansas City, yesterday distributed Mr. Reed's latest utterance on prohibition and on economic issues.

On the "farm relief" operations of the farm board, Mr. Reed, who has the Missouri delegation for the nomination for President, says:

"We gave 500 million dollars to a board dominated by the secretary of agriculture. The money has been largely expended, farm prices have been destroyed, and wheat and live stock driven to the lowest prices known in the last hundred years.

"The accumulation of 300 million bushels of wheat by the farm board, with the threat to dump it on the market, necessarily broke the price of wheat throughout the world."

Stand on Economic Issues.

On the issue of economics and government, the appeal which Mr. Reed is presenting is summarized as follows:

"I appeal for the return of common sense in government.

"For the rejection of all revolutionary, socialistic and bolshevistic doctrines and remedies.

"For employing the authority of the government to protect the liberties of the people.

"For the abolition of boards and bureaus which devour the substance of the people.

"For the return to the states of the powers and duties originally there lodged by the constitution of the United States."

MRS. AL DOES SOME CHEERING FOR THE MISTER

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

While Al Smith was advocating the nomination of Al Smith for President yesterday, Mrs. Al Smith was doing a little cheering for her husband in their suite in the Congress hotel.

It was modest cheering, however. Mrs. Smith made it plain that her place during this convention is right with Al and not out in the hotel corridors where the politicians mill about. What's more, she doesn't intend to make a single exception to her rule that no social invitations will be accepted.

"I want to be right here with my husband all through the convention," Mrs. Smith announced with some pride. "That is the best way for me to help him win his nomination."

Certainly She Wants Him to Win.

When a reported asked if she was very desirous that Mr. Smith win the nomination she replied: "Of course I want him to win."

On another floor of the hotel the women who came ahead of time to get things in order for their share in making convention history, were on the job with a will. At least eight national committeewomen had put in an appearance, including Mrs. Grace H. Westerhouse from the Philippine Islands, and Mrs. Anna C. Struble of South Dakota. Both women brought tidings of interest to the prohibition repeal camp.

Mrs. Westerhouse a Liberal.

Mrs. Westerhouse expressed her surprise at finding, during an extended stay last winter in California, a vast number of speakeasies and widespread racketeering due to prohibition. She announced herself as a "complete liberal." The Philippines, although there is no prohibition law, she added, is more temperate than this country.

"South Dakota is still dry, but it is becoming more liberal," Mrs. Struble declared. "This is because our people realize we can't go on as we have on the prohibition question. The Democrats, I sincerely trust, will not straddle on the prohibition issue. We must take a definite stand."

DIES OF SELF-INFLICTED WOUND.

John Medved, 56 years old, 1708 Cuyler street, Gary, a steel worker, died yesterday in Mercy hospital, Gary, of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head. He was the father of six children.

HORSE ILL, CAN'T PAY ATTORNEY, HE TELLS COURT

Joseph Bertalin of Downers Grove explained yesterday to Superior Judge Harry B. Miller why he should not be held in contempt of court for failure to pay $150 solicitors' fees to Attorney John A. Packenham. The lawyer represented Bertalin's ex-wife, Ruth, last month when she obtained a divorce decree.

"Your honor," Bertalin began, "my best friend is my horse Ruddy Sir. I race him at Sportsman's Park. During the last two weeks he has been sick and I've had to buy special feed for him. I can't support my sick horse and pay attorney's fees."

"Well," said the judge, "you couldn't take your horse to alimony row with you. Just think what would happen to him if you went to jail. I'll give you two weeks more. Maybe your horse can win you the money."

BURNS NAPHTHA; KILLED.

James C. Heilig, 62 years old, a Negro, was burned to death yesterday when he sprinkled naphtha on kindling in a stove in the kitchen behind his grocery at 1325 West 14th street and lighted a match.

WOMEN INVADE NEW SPHERE OF MEN; GET SCOTLAND YARD POSTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 22.—Women have invaded a new sphere of public work after breaking down strong barriers of sex opposition. Three members of the women's police force—against whom there always has been strong opposition from the male force—have been permanently appointed as detectives in Scotland Yard.

It is the first time in the history of Scotland Yard that female detectives will work in plain clothes. The appointments are the result of a year's experiment in employing women in cooperation with men detectives, under whom they have been trained.

It is expected that other women, probably 20 or 30, will complete their training shortly and will also be appointed to Scotland Yard.

RAIL EMPLOYE DROPS DEAD.

Arthur Barnett, 48 years old, of Springfield, Ill., an employe of the Chicago and Alton railroad, died yesterday of heart disease while working in the yards at 38th street and California avenue.

PROVISIONAL MAKE-UP OF THE RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE GIVEN

The advance sessions of the Democratic resolutions committee, which will have no official standing until the convention meets and creates its committees, will be opened this morning by Jouett Shouse, national executive chairman. Delegations have picked their members of committees in advance in thirty-three states and the five "provinces" and the advance meetings are expected to get the more important issues defined well before the convention meets. The members of the resolutions committee, which writes the platform, so far picked, were made public last night, as follows:

Arizona—Dr. John E. Bacon, Miami.
Arkansas—Hon. Harvey Parnell, Little Rock.
California—William G. McAdoo, Los Angeles.
Colorado—Philip Hornbein, Denver.

9 FLEE DEVIL'S ISLAND PRISON; SAVED FROM SEA

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, June 22.—Nine survivors of a dash for liberty from Devil's island, French penal colony, were rescued today by the small British coastal steamer Tarpon five miles off the British Guiana coast after a five day deep sea ordeal in a frail open boat in a vain attempt to reach sanctuary in Venezuela.

The survivors told of the death of a comrade during a battle with storms and high seas during which they lost the sail of their waterlogged craft. The dying man's last words were: "Bury me ashore; don't give me to the sharks. I shall never see my friends again, but they may see my grave."

The man's body in the boat lured sharks, but the survivors clung gallantly to the corpse of their dead comrade until they ran ashore on Pomeroon beach, in British territory, where the body was buried in a shallow grave on the beach. The men put to sea again, but a tempest threatened the craft, and finally, when all hope was abandoned, they sighted a steamer, waved their shirts, were rescued and taken to British Guiana.

French President Receives American Legion Leader

PARIS, June 22.—(AP)—Commander Henry L. Stevens Jr. of the American Legion, who arrived for a visit in France last week, was received today by President Albert Lebrun.

DRYS WILL DEMAND A DRY DEMOCRATIC PLANK, CANNON SAYS

The prohibition board of strategy will demand a strict law enforcement plank of the Democratic national convention, Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal church south declared yesterday.

If the Democrats reject the plank, as the Republicans did, the drys are willing to see the issue carried to the country, the bishop said. He indicated that Dr. E. H. Cherrington of the Anti-Saloon league probably would be spokesman for the board before the Democratic resolutions committee tomorrow.

"The drys are as willing as the wettest of the wets to have the people speak on prohibition," the bishop declared. "If the enforcement plank is rejected the fight will be taken to the country. You will find that the country is not controlled by the wet cities. The result will be surprising."

The Allied Forces Supporting Prohibition yesterday announced plans for two preconvention rallies intended to hold the Democrats in line for enforcement and against repeal.

The first will be a luncheon on Saturday at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street, under direction of Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch. The second rally will be held at 8 p. m. Sunday in Orchestra hall.

POLICE CHIEF'S SON MISSING.

Chief of Police Arthur Terry of Midlothian asked the Chicago police last night to hunt for his son, Arthur Jr., 17 years old, who disappeared from home yesterday.

DEPORTATION ACTION BEGUN AGAINST EIGHT

Warrants were served last night on eight prisoners in the Lake county jail at Waukegan ordering them to show cause why they should not be deported as aliens interested in overthrowing the government. The men are John Scholin, William Lehto, Ralph Peterson, John Kansol, Charles Koski, Emil Seihvala, Birger Hallstrom, and Vaino Hongisto.

They will be brought to the federal immigration office in Chicago for questioning this week, B. C. McAdoo of the immigration bureau told Sheriff Lester Tiffany.

3 GUNMEN FIGHT BATTLES WITH 2 POLICE SQUADS

Three gunmen exchanged shots with two detectives bureau squads in two different pursuits on the south side early this morning and escaped. No one was wounded so far as is known. The hoodlums were first sighted at 69th and Halsted streets by Sergt. William McGuire and his squad.

A long chase and gun fight ended when the fugitives outdistanced the pursuers in Marquette road. At 67th and State streets Sergt. Frank Miller's squad gave battle and chase to them, unaware of the previous pursuit. The gunmen finally escaped west in 79th street.

SH! DEMOCRAT BIG WIGS ARE 'IN CONFERENCE'

Tammany Boss Arrives; Keeps 'Em Guessing.

With these 105 excluded, Roosevelt still has 588 instructed, pledged, and claimed delegates; Smith, 94 instructed and pledged; Garner, 90 pledged; Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, 58 pledged; Gov. George O. White of Ohio, 52 pledged; former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, 36 instructed; former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, 24 instructed; Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma, 23 instructed and pledged; and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, 16 pledged.

The Roosevelt Delegates.

Michigan	38	South Dakota	10
Georgia	28	Oregon	10
Iowa	26	North Dakota	9
North Carolina	26	Utah	8
Kentucky	26	Montana	8
Wisconsin	26	Vermont	8
Tennessee	24	New Hampshire	8
Alabama	24	Idaho	8
Minnesota	24	New Mexico	9
Kansas	20	Wyoming	6
South Carolina	18	Arizona	6
West Virginia	16	Nevada	6
Nebraska	16	Delaware	6
Washington	16	Dist. of Columbia	6
Florida	14	Hawaii	6
Colorado	12	Alaska	6
Maine	12	New York	2

Indiana	25	Philippines	6
Mississippi	20	Porto Rico	6
Louisiana	20	Canal Zone	6
Arkansas	18	Virgin Islands	2

Smith's 94 instructed and pledged delegates comprise:

Massachusetts	36	Connecticut	16
New Jersey	32	Rhode Island	10

Garner has the 46 delegates of Texas and the 44 of California.

Rumor on Young Unconfirmed.

Much interest in convention circles was aroused by the report from New York that Smith and Roosevelt have agreed that in the event neither can be nominated they will combine to nominate Owen D. Young, despite his recent statement that he could not accept if named. It was stated that there is reason to believe Mr. Young could be persuaded to accept after all. At neither Roosevelt nor Smith headquarters could the report be confirmed.

At a conference of Roosevelt managers, including Mr. Farley, Arthur Mullen, who is to be floor manager, and W. W. Howes of South Dakota, the question of moving the abrogation of the two-thirds rule governing nominations was discussed. Despite the fact that Mr. Farley claims 693 votes, which would be only 77 short of the number required to nominate, the Roosevelt managers betray an eagerness to get rid of the two-thirds rule whereby nomination by a simple majority, 578, would be authorized.

Avoid Deadlock, Is Plea.

The Roosevelt managers say that their object in suggesting the abrogation of the two-thirds rule is to obviate a prolonged deadlock. But by the time a deadlock develops the two-thirds rule would have been adopted by the convention and it would take a two-thirds vote at that stage to get rid of it. A suggestion under consideration is that a special rule be brought in by the rules committee providing that at any time during the convention the two-thirds rule could be suspended by majority vote.

The anti-Roosevelt forces and a good many of the southern delegations, including some committed to Roosevelt, are opposed to abolition of the two-thirds rule. Former Gov. Byrd of Virginia stated the southern opposition to the move during the day. It was contended that the two-thirds rule cannot be abrogated without abrogation of the unit rule governing many delegations. Any change in the unit rule could apply to the next convention but not to this one.

Put the Screws On.

The Roosevelt managers have put the screws on all Roosevelt delegations to vote for Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana for permanent chairman instead of Jouett Shouse of Kansas who is chairman of the national executive committee. This applies even to Kansas which is committed to Roosevelt.

Mr. Shouse is a Kansas delegate at large but under the unit rule his vote will be cast against himself by the chairman of the Kansas delegation if the orders to vote for Walsh are complied with. Gov. Woodring, also a delegate, has evinced a desire to have the delegation vote for Shouse because, 'tis said, of threats of the Shouse faction to knife him for reelection if Kansas supports Walsh. Mr. Farley, however, has demanded the Kansas vote for Walsh, saying he could not afford to take any chances.

Al Meets the Reporters.

More reporters than customarily appear at the President's press conference were on hand at the hour appointed for the interview with Al Smith after his arrival at the Congress hotel. Freshly barbered and tonsured, his sleek brown hair smoothed back on either side of its center parting, an unlighted cigar standing out against his ruddy countenance, Mr. Smith swung into the room with a general and comprehensive "howdy" and seated himself behind a table.

He was wearing a dark suit and a blue tie a shade darker than his eyes. When the platoon of photographers had snapped him the questioning began, whereupon it developed that Mr. Smith had a prepared statement to issue by way of a starter.

Here's His Statement.

His secretary distributed copies of the following:

"The 18th amendment should never have been put into the constitution. It is unworkable. I attacked it from the time it was first proposed and prophesied its failure and stated that it would be proved to be the greatest curse ever put over on an unsuspecting people. I fought it when it was unpopular to take that side of the issue in many parts of my own state and in many other states of the Union and when every weapon of narrow-minded intolerance was turned against me. I carried the banner when the army was small, the stragglers numerous and the opposition bitter. I was then, and I am now, for the unconditional repeal of the 18th amendment.

"The Volstead act should at once be amended by a scientifically correct definition that will permit the sale of beverages of reasonable alcoholic content. The people of the United States are entitled to this relief which would divert the profits of the bootlegger into legitimate taxes."

Favors Volstead Act Revision.

In response to a question Mr. Smith said he favored a platform declaration for revision of the Volstead act, remarking that the one-half of one per cent limit on alcoholic content "is wholly arbitrary and was put in the law by the Anti-Saloon league."

The distinction that is being made by Democratic platform framers between a plank declaring for repeal and one declaring merely for submission of a repeal amendment, the former committing the party to repeal, was contemptuously dismissed by Mr. Smith who said the party ought to espouse repeal without equivocation. Such a declaration, he said, he would submit to the resolutions committee and would carry to the floor of the convention if necessary.

"Who will be the nominee of the convention?" Mr. Smith was asked.

"The convention will decide," he replied.

"Who's your preference?"

"Alfred E. Smith," barked the candidate in that well known raucous voice. He was in deadly earnest. No grinning, no smiling on his part as a shout of laughter went up from his questioners.

Mr. Smith said he favors Shouse for permanent chairman of the convention and will fight for his election over Senator Walsh. He thought Shouse would be chosen, but if necessary he would take the floor of the convention in behalf of Shouse.

Roosevelt Claims "Ballyhoo."

"Who's to be your running mate?" Mr. Smith was asked.

"I haven't got that far," this time with a smile.

"What about the claims of Roosevelt's nomination on the first ballot?"

"O, that's just ballyhoo."

"Didn't you call it bedtime stories?"

"Yes, just a sort of modified ballyhoo."

The candidate said he is for a short, concise platform, that everybody will read and understand.

"It is said you are organizing to stop Roosevelt," Mr. Smith was reminded.

"Nothing to that," he snapped. "I am combatting a 'stop Smith' movement that started one and a half years ago."

"Why are you against Roosevelt?"

"Because I want myself nominated."

This One Slows Him Up.

"Will you support the nominee of this convention?"

This was the only question Mr. Smith failed to answer instanter. He paused and considered for a period that became embarrassing, and finally he said:

"I don't think it necessary to talk about that at this time."

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City will be the Smith floor manager.

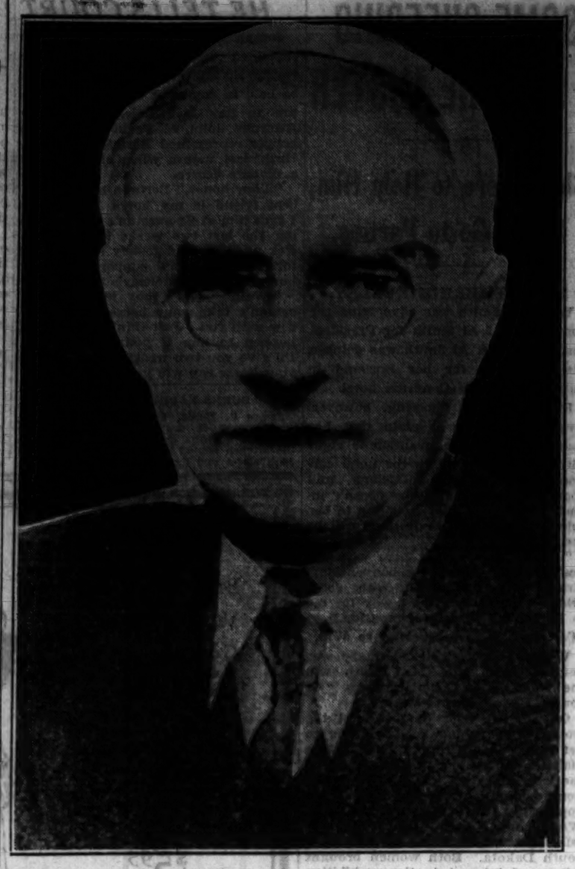
"He will lead the grand march," said Mr. Smith with a grin.

"What is it necessary to do to insure Democratic success at the polls?" was another question.

"To write an earnest, straightforward platform and to nominate me," the candidate flashed back.

The interview ended with Mr. Smith saying he needed about five hours to get cleaned up, after which "I might play me a little round of golf."

The Democratic Candidate



Eleven Photos Used

Eleven candidates for the Democratic nomination for President appear in the above composite picture. All those already mentioned as possible standard bearers for the party are depicted. The spectacles reveal a hint of the angular lenses of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, but are tempered by the circular ones of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

The "pink whiskers" of the Illinois solon are not perceptible on the composite chin, the majority of the eleven being smooth shaven. Those whose features are incorporated, in addition to the trio mentioned above, are former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, former Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia, Speaker John N. Garner of Texas, Gov. Bill Murray of Oklahoma, Newton D. Baker, Gov. George White of Ohio, Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago, and James Reed of Missouri.

Raskob, Shouse, Michelson Put Pep in Party.

The Democratic national convention, that quadrennial political extravaganza which even seasoned critics regard as one of the greatest shows on earth, opens for an indefinite run in the Chicago Stadium next Monday. What of the producers and the cast in the drama?

Inasmuch as Democratic senators, governors, and other orators of the party will be out in front roaring their lines in full view of the audience, attention may be directed first to the men behind the scenes—John J. Raskob of New York, Jouett Shouse of Kinsley, Kas., and Charles Michelson of Washington, D. C.

Raskob, as chairman of the Democratic national committee and financial backer of the party for the last four years, may be rated the producer of the show. Indeed, some Republicans have gone so far as to suggest that he holds a mortgage on all the props and scenery.

Shouse, whom Raskob appointed chairman of the executive committee, a sort of head man under the producer, has earned the title of stage manager even though the Roosevelt forces may displace him before the curtain rises.

Director of Ballyhoo.

Michelson, a former Chicago and New York newspaper man, whom Shouse brought in as publicity director, spread his ballyhoo so well that he earned a denunciation from the keynoter at the recent Republican convention. Washington correspondents call him "Herbert Hoover's gadfly."

Of the three Raskob is the least colorful personally and the most prodigious in accomplishments. He is 53 years old, stands 5 feet 5 inches in height, and is the father of twelve children.

In a gathering he is shy and self-effacing. But in the 1928 campaign, fighting for his candidate, Alfred E. Smith, he blasted out boldly against Republican leaders, accusing them of raising the religious issue. He neither hesitated to praise President Hoover's campaign speeches nor condemn other Republican leaders for bigotry. Mr. Raskob is a staunch Roman Catholic and has had an audience with the pope.

Works as Conductor.

Born in Lockport, N. Y., he went to Lorraine, O., in his youth and was working as a street car conductor, according to one story, when Pierre S. du Pont, then heavily interested in the Lorraine Traction company, gave him a five dollar note for fare one day and stepped off the car without claiming change. A year later, the tale goes, Mr. du Pont boarded the same car and was handed back $4.95 by young Raskob.

The Democratic chairman gives another version of his start. He says he was clerking in a Lorraine bank and wrote the du Pont powder works at Wilmington, Del., for a job at $1,000 a year. In any event, he was hired by the du Ponts and, when America entered the war, was treasurer of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., with an estimated fortune of $7,000,000.

Raskob is credited with being the first to interest the du Ponts in General Motors, of which Lammot du Pont is now chairman of the board and of which Raskob was chairman of the finance committee until he joined the Democratic party organization, at Smith's request, in 1928. He and Pierre du Pont both resigned their General Motors posts when they decided to work actively for Smith.

Following Smith's defeat Raskob dedicated himself to restoring the moribund Democratic party. Aside from the personal loans of $325,000 which he has advanced the party, he is said to have privately expended at least $1,000,000 to achieve his aim.

A tyro in politics, his efforts drew only amusement from the Republican opposition until, early in 1929, he appointed the tried campaigner and experienced politician, Shouse, to head the executive committee. While Raskob was wringing wet and a Smith man, Shouse was a dry who had won prestige as one of William G. McAdoo's floor leaders in the deadlock between McAdoo and Smith in the New York convention of 1924.

The Republicans sat up and took notice. Shouse, they conceded, seemed to be putting energy into the party. About the time the stock market crashed he acquired the title of "the Flying Dutchman," making airplane trips throughout the country to pump up Democratic enthusiasm.

Born in Kentucky.

Shouse rates as one of the best "rabble raisers" in his party. Born in Lexington, Ky., he was editor of several racing sheets there prior to his marriage to a Kansas girl. The couple remained in her state, where Shouse was a farmer and cattle breeder until 1913. He was elected to the Kansas state senate, then to congress, and was assistant secretary of the treasury in the later part of the Wilson administration.

It was Shouse who brought Michelson, the "Hoover gadfly," into the Democratic organization. Michelson is a former managing editor of several Chicago newspapers. As Washington correspondent of the Democratic New York World, he blistered the Republicans sorely in his dispatches in the 1928 campaign.

Shouse Was Right.

Mr. Shouse thought he was the man the party needed. The Republicans ruefully concede that Mr. Shouse was right. Michelson became so successful that Representative Wood of Indiana, on the floor of the house, brought up in debate the question of Michelson's "malicious maligning" of President Hoover.

Mr. Michelson has little to say but has been making copy blithely on his typewriter right up to now. He is a brother of the renowned University of Chicago physicist, the late Prof. A. A. Michelson, and of Miss Miriam Michelson, the writer.

HENCHMEN JOIN HUEY LONG FOR DELEGATE FIGHT

Kingfish's Leadership at Stake Today.

A comedy-drama involving the leadership of Senator Huey P. Long in the state of Louisiana is scheduled for presentation this morning and tomorrow in the Congress hotel when three rival delegations from Louisiana present their claims for seats at the Democratic convention to members of the Democratic national committee.

SEN. HUEY P. LONG

The contest had hitherto been grimly serious with the delegation headed by former Gov. J. Y. Sanders of Louisiana disputing the claims of the delegation led by Senator Long. The farcical element was added yesterday when a third delegation arrived with former Lieut. Gov. Fernand Mouton at its head.

This third delegation is composed of Long henchmen. They were brought to Chicago by "Call Me Kingfish" Long, according to his opponents, to ridicule the Sanders delegation and distract attention from the main issues. Their announced slogan was "Gin Fizzes, No Beer" and they loudly and laughingly proclaimed themselves "unterrified Democrats."

Hearings Begin Today.

Whether the main battle will be staged today or tomorrow was undecided last night. J. T. G. Crawford, appointed chairman of a subcommittee of the national committee, is scheduled to hold hearings this morning to pass upon contests of delegations and report to the national committee.

However, the Kingfish, joined by Joseph Wolf, national committeeman from Minnesota, and Mrs. Jean Springstead Whittemore, national committeewoman from Porto Rico, where there are also contests, yesterday sent a letter to John J. Raskob, chairman of the national committee, and Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the national committee, notifying them that they would not recognize this subcommittee on credentials but would appear before the full committee tomorrow.

Procedure of 1928.

The letter declared the appointment of a subcommittee without precedent. Mr. Shouse replied that the same procedure was followed in 1928 and that the subcommittee would go ahead with its hearings this morning.

Senator Long also challenged the agreement among members of the national committee under which Mr. Shouse is to be recommended as permanent chairman.

The Long delegation will vote for Roosevelt, its leader said. The Sanders delegation is not pledged to any candidate nor any definite platform, it was stated. The Mouton delegation, hewing to its humorous line, announced it is for State Senator Jules Fisher of Louisiana for President.

Open to Propositions.

"If Fisher doesn't win on the first vote we are open to propositions," said Mouton. "Or perhaps you'd better change that to read 'open to suggestions.' The word 'propositions' has an unseemly sound."

The Sanders delegation, which elected a delegation at Shreveport following the action of Senator Long in appointing a delegation through the state central committee without a convention, issued the following statement:

"The case of the Louisiana delegation chosen by the Shreveport state convention will be presented by ex Gov. Sanders with Howard B. Warren of Shreveport and Edward Rightor of New Orleans. The salient facts in the Louisiana situation are these:

"For half a century and more, in accord with state law and Democratic precedent, delegates from Louisiana to the national convention had been chosen by state conventions, delegates to which were elected by massmeetings in counties and wards.

Contest in 1928.

"This precedent was departed from in 1928 and delegates to the Houston convention were chosen by the state central committee. Their seats were contested, but they were finally seated for two reasons.

"First, the contestants themselves were not chosen by state convention and, second, it was stated to the national committee that there was pending in the Louisiana legislature a bill to compel, thereafter, the selection of national delegates by state convention. This bill was passed unanimously by both houses, but was vetoed by Gov. Long because it was not strong enough.

"Notwithstanding this, Senator Long this year, over the protests of several members of the committee, had the state central committee choose his delegation to this convention. Thereupon four members of the committee and ten chairmen of county committees called a Shreveport convention and some 300 delegates thereto chose the delegates headed by former Gov. Sanders.

A Burlesque Convention.

"Within twenty-four hours Senator Long called a burlesque convention at Baton Rouge, the call being written in Senator Long's own hand. This burlesque convention was repudiated by men prominent in Louisiana whose names were used without authority. That convention, headed by ex-Lieut. Gov. Mouton, was a farce. Ten of the eleven daily newspapers in Louisiana have indorsed the Shreveport convention. The eleventh, Senator Long's official journal, recognized the farcical nature of the Baton Rouge convention by reporting a speech of Mr. Delesdernier, the candidate for vice president, in which he jokingly declared:

"If elected I will graft every dollar I can."

"Of course, he was not serious. Senator Long stood by, laughing, while this convention was in session. It was one of his typical political stunts."

LEADERS OF JERSEY DELEGATION BOARD TRAIN FOR CHICAGO

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—Leaders of New Jersey's delegation to the Democratic national convention left for Chicago today, with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City predicting a Democratic landslide in November. Mayor Hague, before the departure on the Broadway limited, said:

"We may have our differences in the convention, but these differences will be aired in the open, and when the fight is over, and the national ticket is nominated, it will be a ticket that will prove victorious in November."

Mayor Hague, who has been regarded as the mainspring of the Al Smith forces in the preconvention activities, was noncommittal on what course the New Jersey delegation, pledged to support Smith, would do in the event the convention is deadlocked.

SOUTH CAROLINA DELEGATES FOR RESUBMISSION

Columbia, S. C., June 22.—(AP)—Claude N. Sapp, chairman of the South Carolina delegation to the national Democratic convention, today announced the delegation, with 18 votes, favors resubmission of the prohibition question.

The delegation will be bound by the unit rule. Fay Desportes, designated as a member of the national platform and resolutions committee, yesterday issued a statement advocating outright repeal of the 18th amendment.

Moscow Endows "School" to Teach Social Disorder

ASUNCION, Paraguay, June 22.—Investigations of communist activities in Paraguay have revealed that Moscow has endowed a number of communist "scholarships" among workers. The winners will go to Montevideo headquarters in groups of four to get finishing touches in the art of disrupting social order, after which they will return to Paraguay to organize a campaign of "social sapping."

Extra Lights Are Refused to Convention Cameramen

Bright convention news pictures, such as were taken at the Republican gathering last week, will not be possible at the Democratic convention, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee, having refused to pay $5,000 for the necessary lights. Twenty lights on two platforms jutting out from the mezzanine provided illumination for the movie and "still" cameras last week. They were used only when activity on the floor or the chairman's rostrum furnished excitement.

WALKER TOLD BY ROOSEVELT TO ANSWER CHARGES

Sent Seabury Testimony; Asked to Reply.

Albany, N. Y., June 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt today called upon Mayor James J. Walker of New York City to reply to charges which have been made seeking his removal from office.

The governor sent the mayor a copy of the analysis of the testimony before the Hofstadter committee which Judge Samuel Seabury said indicated Walker was unfit for office.

JAMES J. WALKER. [Underwood Photo.]

He also sent him copies of charges filed by the committee of one thousand and by the No Deal party leaders of Brooklyn.

The letter to the mayor was brief, concluding with the direction that an answer be made to the charges.

The Governor's Letter.

"I am sending you herewith certain charges and an analysis filed with me containing allegations relating to your conduct as mayor of the city of New York," said Mr. Roosevelt's letter.

"The documents I inclose are as follows:

"[1] A letter and an analysis filed by the Hon. Samuel Seabury. [2] Copy of petition filed by William Jay Schieffelin, chairman, and on behalf of the New York Committee of One Thousand. Copy of letter from James E. Finnegan and petition from him and others.

"I have only one copy of the eight volumes of testimony sent to me by Judge Seabury. I am requesting him to send you another copy for your convenience. Will you please let me have a reply to these charges?"

In sending the charges to Mayor Walker for an answer, the governor followed the procedure he has almost invariably employed in handling charges against public officials. While no time was specified in which the mayor must answer, a twenty day period has been regarded as customary.

The governor made no comment about the charges or his actions. He simply made public the letter to the mayor.

Mayor Walker, in a statement at his office in city hall, New York, today, disposed of any possibility that Gov. Roosevelt might act in his case before the end of the Democratic convention next week, declaring that his answer to the governor's letter would not be sent until after the convention.

"The governor's communication, with inclosures, has been received," said the mayor's statement. "Mrs. Walker's condition today is such that I intend to go to Chicago in a day or two. As a matter of fact, they tell me she is about forty-eight hours ahead in her condition. Upon my return I will immediately take up the matter of the governor's communication."

Church Leads Simpson by 50 Votes in Recount

At the close of yesterday's recount of the ballots cast in the April primary for Republican candidates for congress in the Tenth district, Ralph E. Church, who was declared the winner by 73 votes, had a lead of 50 over James Simpson Jr., who is contesting the election. So far 176 of the 345 Cook county precincts in the district have been recounted. When the canvass is completed in Cook county the votes of the Lake county precincts in the district will be counted. Mr. Simpson, who is the son of the new head of the Insull utilities, appeared yesterday at the election commissioners' office, where the recount is taking place.

William Jennings Bryan Jr., an attorney of Los Angeles, registered at the Congress hotel yesterday. He is not a delegate, he said, but is interested in a number of planks that are to be written into the platform of the Democratic party at the convention next week.

REVOLT FLARES IN CONGRESS ON STRADDLE PLANK

Swing Refuses to Run for Senate on It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—The congressional revolt against the Republican prohibition plank assumed the proportions of a stampede today as both wet and dry members of the house and senate announced their refusal to run for re-election on a straddle platform.

Out of a growing chorus of resentment over the Chicago convention's failure to take a definite stand one way or the other on the prohibition issue these developments stood foremost in importance:

Representative Philip D. Swing [Rep., Cal.] flatly withdrew his name from the California senatorial primary and, in a scorching statement issued at his office, denounced the party platform for straddling the wet and dry issue, disavowing federal responsibility for action to relieve unemployment, and restricting relief measures to palliatives "which do not go to the root of the cause of depression."

Plan Own Platform.

The two New Jersey senators joined the New Jersey Republican members of the house in calling a state caucus next week for the express purpose of scrapping the Chicago prohibition platform and adopting in its place one of their own demanding a test on outright repeal.

Members of the Republican Massachusetts delegation in the house announced that they would take the floor at the first opportunity, publicly renounce all responsibility for the party convention's stand on prohibition, and run their campaigns for reelection on an out and out repeal plank.

Confronted with this procession of developments and others of less pronounced importance, James R. Garfield, chairman of the committee on resolutions which drafted the Republican platform, issued a long statement intended to pacify the growing tide of resentment, but which only emphasized the facts that have drawn wet and dry fire alike.

Garfield Comes to Defense.

To repeal the 18th amendment without adopting a substitute, Mr. Garfield said, would leave the federal government only the limited powers it had to deal with prohibition before the amendment was ratified. The return of the saloon would be inevitable, he said, as there would be no federal power to force a state to legislate against it.

Mr. Garfield, who was accepted as President Hoover's spokesman, flew into the teeth of the Republican wets' strongest point of objection when he declared the platform plan restricted wet legislation by the states "to any plan the congress might decide upon."

"The nation, through congress," he said, "could control interstate traffic in liquor; use any method congress might choose to protect dry states against invasion from wet states; prevent a state from permitting the saloon and its old abuses to exist anywhere in the state, adopting whatever plan congress might decide upon."

While most of the seventeen Republican senators who come up for reelection in November remained under cover in the midst of the bombardment of the Republican platform, two announced flatly that they would ignore the party's prohibition stand and campaign as repealists. They were Senators Hiram Bingham [Conn.] and James J. Davis [Pa.].

Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] announced he would wage his campaign on the straight repeal plank adopted by the Illinois Republican state convention at Springfield. He took his stand with the majority of the Illinois delegation at the Republican national convention, which fought for outright repeal in place of a straddle.

Senator Glenn made known his own plans for meeting the prohibition issue in the Illinois senatorial campaign in response to questions by newspaper men. While not desiring to be put in the position of renouncing the national convention's plank, he said he preferred to run on the state convention's platform with respect to prohibition.

"I stand by the plank adopted at Springfield," he said. "It proposes submission of an amendment to the nation repealing the eighteenth amendment and in the meantime repeal of the sumptuary prohibition laws of Illinois. I agree with the majority of the Illinois delegation in the national convention, which voted for a repeal plank."

The rapid growth of sentiment throughout the nation for repeal or modification of the 18th amendment has left many senatorial and congressional candidates in uneasy seats.

CAREERS OF RITCHIE, BYRD, AND TRAYLOR

ALBERT C. RITCHIE

Albert Cabell Ritchie of Maryland is an advocate of government economy. He submitted budgets to the Maryland legislature which accomplished a 50 per cent reduction in state taxes between 1920 and 1930 and gave Maryland its lowest tax rate since 1912.

Gov. Ritchie was born in 1876, the son of Judge Albert Ritchie of Baltimore and Mrs. Elizabeth Caskie Cabell Ritchie of the Virginia Cabells. He was educated in private schools, Johns Hopkins university, and the University of Maryland law school. He entered the practice of law upon his graduation, and followed this profession until 1907, when he became professor of law at the University of Maryland. Here he remained until his first election as governor in 1919.

Wins Fight for Cheaper Gas.

In the meantime he had served as assistant general counsel to the public service commission, winning a noteworthy fight for cheaper gas and electricity; was attorney general for four years, organizing the first state law department, and was general counsel to the United States war industries board.

In November, 1930, Gov. Ritchie was elected for the fourth term by the largest majority ever received in his state. He is not only the first fourth term governor of Maryland, but the first ever to succeed himself.

Gov. Ritchie is a foe of federal prohibition, believes in repealing the 18th amendment and restoring control to the states, and is opposed to all federal centralization.

MELVIN A. TRAYLOR

Not an avowed candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, is nevertheless the subject of a decided boom, particularly among his southern supporters, who call him "the Homespun American."

The rise of Melvin Traylor since his humble birth in the limestone hills of Kentucky, in 1878, has been compared to the career of Abraham Lincoln by "Traylor for President" boosters. Two log cabins, set end to end, with space between for the washtubs, made up the home into which he was born at Breeding, Ky. He dried the dishes for his mother until his next brother grew old enough to dry them, and then young Melvin did the washing. Five months in the year he studied in a log schoolhouse, his term ending at corn shucking time.

He seldom wore shoes, so the stories go, until he was 18, and he bought his first "store clothes" at the age of 21 for a journey to Texas.

Rises in Banking World.

At Hillsboro, Tex., he worked as a grocery clerk in the morning, hotel clerk in the evening, slept at the fire station, and read law in his spare time. He entered banking with the Citizens' National bank, and later ran a bank in Malone, a nearby hamlet. His wide knowledge of cattle and farm loans took him to St. Louis in 1911 as vice president of the Stock Yards National bank, and in 1914 he became vice president of the Livestock Exchange National bank in Chicago. In 1919 he went to the First National, where he rose to the presidency.

Mr. Traylor is a wet and ardently advocates thrift and economy at home, in the local governments, in the state governments, and in the federal government. The question of taxation, he believes, is one of reducing expenditures rather than raising further revenue. His sound knowledge of business and finance commend him to his supporters as the logical candidate in a time of excessive taxation and economic troubles.

HARRY F. BYRD

Former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia has not only distinguished himself in politics, but as a gentleman farmer, the foremost orchardist in America. The Byrd properties embrace 21 orchards, with a total of 175,000 trees.

Born at Martinsburg, W. Va., in 1887, he was brought up at Winchester, Va., and began leasing apple orchards at 16 years of age. He had made a fortune by the time he was old enough to vote.

He entered politics at the age of 26, when he was elected to the state senate. Here he became famous as a state road builder, advocating and putting through the "pay as you go" plan. He headed the faction opposed to state bond issues, and with gasoline taxes and auto license fees Virginia's highway system was increased from 4,800 to 8,000 miles without incurring any bonded debt.

Reorganizes State Government.

Elected governor in 1926, he immediately set out to reorganize the state government, and Virginia emerged with 47 changes in its constitution, whereby 12 departments did the work of 100 formerly independent agencies. In 1926 there was a state deficit of $1,300,000; by 1928 there was a surplus of $2,500,000, and this had increased to more than $4,000,000 in 1930. The state has not increased a single tax this year.

Besides his economy in government program, the former governor believes in submitting the prohibition question to the people. His program is unique in that he believes the quickest way to settle the prohibition question is to amend the constitution so it would be possible for the people themselves, by popular referendum rather than by state legislatures or conventions, to determine it.

PLAN A PARADE TOMORROW TO GREET RITCHIE

Preparations for a parade and reception for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland when he arrives tomorrow morning on the Baltimore and Ohio were being made yesterday by the Cook county Ritchie committee. Headed by the Board of Trade American Legion band, delegations from the Federation of American Business men, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, the Board of Trade and kindred organizations will meet the governor at the train.

About 300 are coming in the Maryland deputation. It is planned for them to march behind the Ritchie car to the Congress hotel, with a parade of several hundred cars serving as escort. On his arrival at the hotel, Gov. Ritchie will hold a reception in the Florentine room.

2 Chicago Suspects Held to Grundy Co. Grand Jury

Dan Losee, 52 years old, 642 Woodlawn Park, and Charles McKinna, 45 years old, 4311 South Kedzie avenue, were held to the Grundy county grand jury yesterday by Police Magistrate W. O. Dixon at Morris, Ill., on charges of carrying concealed weapons. They had been arrested as suspects in a series of box car robberies. Each was held in $10,000 bonds.

FIELD OF IOWA TELLS HIS STAND ON LIQUOR ISSUE

Gives Wet-Dry Statement on Visit to Chicago.

Henry Field of Shenandoah, Ia., Republican nominee for United States senator, the amateur in politics who administered a beating to Senator Smith W. Brookhart in the Iowa primary, attended a seed marchants' convention at the Sherman hotel yesterday "as a citizen." In addition, he granted an interview and posed for pictures.

Although personally a dry, the 60 year old Shenandoah "radio merchant"—the title he drew by expanding his seed business into other lines through personal appeals over his own station—issued a written statement which many interpreted as a moist stand, qualified, however, by an adamant provision against the return of the saloon.

Evils of the Saloon.

"I have seen the evils of pre-prohibition days," said the tall, pleasant gay haired man, "consequently I will not vote to repeal the 18th amendment, nor favor any change in it, until or unless I am convinced that the suggested changes will absolutely and specifically guarantee that the saloon and all its attendent evils will never return; that the speakeasies, bootleggers and gangsters will be eliminated, and the cause of true temperance sincerely advanced.

"I have worked all my life for temperance. I am personally dry. The Republican platform plainly points out that the issue of prohibition is not a party question nor a test of party loyalty. There have always been wets and drys in both parties. We dry Republicans have always worked within the party for the cause of temperance. We can work most effectively within the party now for the good of this cause."

The real issue in the campaign, said Mr. Fields, "is jobs for workingmen, better prices for the farmer and food for the hungry."

Favors Mild Inflation.

Although offering no panacea for the world ills, the candidate leans toward the theory of a moderate price inflation—"something like that proposed by the Goldsborough bill," he said.

Mr. Field polled 51,361 votes more than Senator Brookhart in the primaries on June 6, carrying 73 of the 99 Iowa counties. He campaigned without the aid of professional managers and made 100 speeches in 80 counties in two weeks. He attributes his victory to his friends—the legion of contacts he has made in his years as a business man.

In November Mr. Fields will be opposed by Louis Murphy, Dubuque Democrat and a wet. Mr. Murphy was collector of internal revenue in Iowa during the Wilson administration.

Coldwater, Mich., June 22.—[Special.]—Robert Kunisbeck, 16, Toledo, is near death in a hospital at La Grange today as a result of injuries received while hitch hiking. The boy was riding atop a truck when he was caught under the chin by an electric light wire and hurled to the pavement.

BROOKHART ATTACKS G. O. P.; KICKED OUT FARMERS, HE AVERS

Washington, D. C., June 22.—(AP)—Senator Brookhart [Rad. Rep., Ia.] told the senate tonight agriculture had been "kicked out of the back door" by a Republican national convention dominated by the financial interests of the country.

Attacking his party's agricultural plank, Brookhart said "No convention in history was so absolutely dominated by the sinister financial interests as the recent Republican convention."

"This convention, this crowd of Wall street politicians headed by Ogden Mills (secretary of the treasury) entirely disregarded the rights of the farmers," Brookhart said. "It ran away from the Republican platform of four years ago.

"Agriculture was kicked out the back door and told to go hence for its relief and its rights."

Brookhart added that for the first time in history the Republican party had "thrown up the sponge" and not promised prosperity.

The Pendulum Swings

During times of limited income the tendency is to economize through buying either less or cheaper merchandise. Demand for lower prices has in many instances reduced quality, torn down established standards, and destroyed confidence. The repeated disappointment with inferior merchandise has convinced many that, after all, cheapness is not usually economy.

Men of broad vision appreciate the advantages of exceptional quality in Shirts, Neckwear and other distinctive Requisites not alone for their durability, but also because they reflect unmistakably good taste. While some are buying less at present, the preference for the best grades is now on the upward trend. Thus, the Pendulum of Business is swinging toward the return of better merchandise—a fact which is evidenced in our four shops, New York, Chicago, London and Paris.

MAYOR TO CALL ON BANKS ANEW FOR PAY FUNDS

Wants Them to Take More Tax Warrants.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Cermak, upon his return from the east this morning, will make another effort to obtain cash from local banks to meet some of the unpaid local pay rolls, now totaling $36,554,000. The mayor has said that he is concerned primarily with the $7,800,000 owed to city employes and the $23,035,000 due to school workers.

D. F. KELLY. [Matsene Photo.]

City officials believe the mayor will succeed—not in getting a large sum—but in obtaining several million dollars to relieve the distress of public employes temporarily.

Views on Relief Outlook.

D. F. Kelly, who returned yesterday after the appeal to Washington, appeared hopeful that congress would make funds available. His statement was given, however, before the senate had killed the amendment to the Wagner bill providing for direct relief to cities.

Others who returned were L. E. Myers, president of the school board; H. Wallace Caldwell, and Joseph Savage, school trustees; Thomas V. Sullivan, school attorney; W. R. James, president of the west park board, and School Auditor H. H. Brackett.

Belief that the local banks would have to furnish funds for any pay rolls in the near future was expressed by Trustee Savage and Attorney Sullivan.

President Myers held a similar view. "It doesn't look as though we would be able to get any direct relief," he said. Trustee James A. Hemingway asserted that he and his associates had painted a true picture of the situation in Chicago that had not been given before. "Washington officials think that the city should borrow from the R. F. C. through local banks," he declared.

Wants Banks to Buy.

In his orders to the city controller's office yesterday for the compilation of information, Mayor Cermak indicated the argument he will make to local bankers for money. It is his theory that they can afford to purchase more tax anticipation warrants because their stock of them is much lower than it has been in some previous years.

Under the present act the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation can, and will, accept Chicago tax warrants as security for a loan, if presented by a local bank, which will be asked to sign a note.

"I want to know why the banks will not take more of our warrants," said Mayor Cermak over the long distance phone. "I believe they can afford to invest in more of these warrants, which are better than many other securities which the banks have taken. I intend to talk frankly with the bankers."

The statement prepared by the office of City Controller Szymczak details the transactions between the city and the banks on tax warrants for the last three years.

Warrant Deals Listed.

It shows that during 1929 banking syndicates purchased a total of $92,275,000 of city and school board tax anticipation warrants, of which a considerable part was taken by Lehmann Brothers and the Pressprich company of New York. Of this sum there is still outstanding $4,870,000 worth, most of which is held by Lehmann Brothers, original purchasers.

Of the 1930 tax warrants, the banks purchased $79,110,000 worth during 1930, 1931 and 1932, according to the statement. Of this amount $14,085,000 worth was purchased in 1931 and 1932 in the form of reissued tax warrants, originally purchased by the city with its aggregate of funds. All of these reissued warrants have been paid, and there is now outstanding only $2,975,000 worth of the originally issued warrants purchased by the banks.

Of the 1931 tax anticipation warrants the banks have purchased a total of $551,000, all of which are still outstanding. The taxes to pay these are not yet in collection.

Speaks for Teachers.

Mrs. Marcella Neil of the Federation of Women high school teachers yesterday said that the recent bank failures have changed the attitude of teachers toward banks.

"Many teachers have thought that the banks were on a strike like many taxpayers," said Mrs. Neil, "but the recent number of failures shows that they have been having their troubles, and probably could not have helped us.

"But if the teachers are not paid by September, the temper of the teachers will be such that teaching will be very difficult, if not impossible."

Teachers Take Salaryless Jobs to Get Board and Room

Stories of need and want among Chicago's unpaid school teachers were told yesterday at the headquarters of five teachers' unions at 506 South Wabash avenue.

Mrs. Vinita Popple, 5804 South Park avenue, secretary of the Union Teachers' Credit union, told of the teachers' efforts to obtain cash.

"We have passed the stage of optimism and have quit hoping," she said. "We're down to bedrock. One teacher I know is acting as a nursemaid for a family this summer without salary, just to get her board and room. Another has, like most of us, given up all hope of going to college this summer for needed work, and has a job as a caretaker for the summer. It gives her a roof over her head, though no salary.

She Takes in Sewing.

"I'm taking in sewing myself. I learned to sew in order to make my own clothes, after the department store where I have an account refused to extend more credit. The treasurer of our credit union, A. B. Churchhill, of 1446 East 68th place, is trying to sell automobiles to keep going. Many of the teachers are making an attempt to sell magazines."

A gray haired kindergarten teacher spoke up:

"When I tried to explain to a friend recently why I couldn't attend some meeting, being short of carfare, the woman said, 'It just goes to show it pays to save.' I did save. I lost everything in a bank failure."

There was related the story of a teacher whose father has not worked in two years. Her mother, father, and her young sister and brother, 15 and 9 years old respectively, are dependent on her. She could not pay taxes on their home and they may lose it.

Down to Last $1.50.

"A man and his wife, both teachers, came in today to try to borrow $50," said Mrs. Popple. "They had $1.50 left. And our credit fund is down to the reserve we must keep.

"Another woman came in today to plead for a small loan. Her two younger children are 3 and 5 years old. She has a husband who has had tuberculosis for four years, and her daughter has contracted the disease. She borrowed carfare to come here. She has no money for medicine, and her youngest child has the whooping cough. I said, 'Call me tonight.' She replied, 'What with? I haven't a nickel.'"

Help Care for Relatives.

"My wife and I both teach," said a high school teacher who dropped in. "Therefore we've always been considered prosperous by our relatives. My brother-in-law's business recently failed and he and his wife, and their four children, came to live with us. A niece had been living with us, and she has lost her job. We have one child. The last cash I got I turned over almost entirely to a hospital for a penniless cousin of my wife who went there with pneumonia.

"I'm getting used to being hounded for current debts. Most of the merchants, landlords, and so on are remarkably considerate, however. I know one mother of four children whose husband is dead, who was allowed to run up a $150 milk bill because she was a teacher and the milk man trusted her."

SENATE DENIES CHICAGO AID BY MIDNIGHT VOTE

[Dem., Mass.], who led the opposition to the Lewis amendment. Before permitting the federal government to assist Chicago he wanted proof that the state of Illinois had exhausted its resources. The policemen and teachers, he said, were constitutionally state employes and should be taken care of by the state.

On that theory, interjected Senator Glenn, the police are federal employes since the federal government also has power to maintain order.

"And the federal troops have been in Chicago before and I don't want to see them there again," he asserted. "I am pleading not to save Chicago but to save the United States. This thing has got beyond the state. We can have a riot or revolution start that might spread beyond the state borders."

But his plea and that of Senator Lewis found only a feeble affirmative answer.

Act on Public Works.

Previously, during the night session, the question of including a public works program in the relief measure had been disposed of. The final settlement was agreement on the compromise appropriation of 500 millions now carried in the Wagner bill.

During the afternoon a motion to strike out the 500 million dollar appropriation had been defeated, 19 to 57. The motion was made by Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] and explained the wish of President Hoover to eliminate all additional federal construction proposals from any relief measure passed at this session.

Then Senator Robert M. La Follette [radical Rep., Wis.] offered his amendment to appropriate 5½ billion dollars to be dispensed for public works under the direction of a newly created public works administration.

He argued that a bond issue to pay for such a program could well be floated and that the emergency required such a public works expansion.

"You can't prime the pump of this depression with a medicine dropper," he shouted. "You've got to pour enough water into it to make the plunger work again."

But when the vote came the amendment of the senator from Wisconsin found only 12 advocates, with 56 senators voting against it.

Little Chance Remains.

The night session closed a day that had seen the relief situation—the principal matter now holding congress in Washington—reach a critical stage.

Chicago's chances of gaining federal help were narrowed down not only by the action of the senate tonight but by an announcement by Speaker John N. Garner and Representative Henry T. Rainey Dem., Ill.], house majority leader, that no action would be taken on Chicago's appeal in the house until the Wagner bill in the senate was disposed of.

It was made plain by the house leadership that the appeal for an amendment for the 500 million dollar direct relief bill pending in the house must wait until the leaders learn whether in their opinion the senate approves a sufficiently large public works appropriation.

The appeal in the house was made yesterday by the Chicago delegation headed by Mayor Anton Cermak, Fred Sargent, and D. F. Kelly.

Britten Charges Politics.

Upon the announcement by Speaker Garner and Representative Rainey that Chicago's request for aid would not be acted on until the senate had taken action on the Wagner bill, Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] charged that politics was at the bottom of the Democratic leader's move.

He declared it was an attempt to use Chicago's fiscal plight as a whip to drive Illinois members into line for the speaker's "pork barrel" construction bill.

Mr. Britten said that if the bill finally passed by the senate did not permit Chicago to receive the funds necessary to pay her long unpaid city employes he would demand further hearings and would bring Mayor Cermak and the rest of yesterday's delegation to Washington again.

Garner Bill Can Aid Chicago.

Mr. Rainey pointed out that under the original Garner bill no further legislation would be required to enable Chicago to receive such a loan as it desires. Under the Garner bill the Reconstruction Finance corporation would be empowered to accept municipal tax vouchers as collateral.

It is technically the Garner bill which is now pending before the senate, but with the house text stricken out and the Wagner bill substituted.

The Garner bill carries 1 billion and 90 millions for public works. The Wagner bill carries 500 millions.

It was that 500 millions which the Moses amendment sought to eliminate. He opposed an expanded public works program, Senator Moses asserted, because he did not believe it would furnish any great amount of employment. Contracts, he said, would be let to the usual specialists with their own crews. Inclusion of the public works section, he warned, would "endanger" the bill.

CONVICT BOOTLEGGER TO PRISONERS.

Carbondale, Ill., June 22.— (AP) —Allen Chappel, Carbondale Negro, was convicted in county court today of selling liquor to prisoners in the Jackson county jail. Chappell, a janitor's helper at the court house, took the liquor to the jail in garbage cans, testimony revealed.

CALLS ON PUBLIC TO PAY PLEDGES TO RELIEF FUND

An appeal to citizens who have not paid pledges to the 1931 campaign of the Joint Emergency Relief Fund to fulfill those obligations as promptly as possible was made last night by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the fund. Additional contributions will be welcomed, he added.

Pledges amounting to $194,400 are still outstanding and collectible, Mr. Ryerson asserted. This figure was contained in a financial statement of receipts and disbursements of the fund dating from Aug. 14, 1931, to June 15, 1932. In the statement, Mr. Ryerson praised the civic loyalty of those who donated.

"The high percentage of collections in the face of present conditions is truly remarkable," he said, "and is a splendid testimonial to the loyalty, self-sacrifice, and coöperative spirit of the people of Chicago."

Mr. Ryerson's financial statement shows that $18,140.38 was left over from the 1930 campaign and $10,123,554.92 has been collected in the 1931 drive. These amounts, plus $746.76 interest on bank balances, make a total of $10,142,442.06 in receipts. The following table shows disbursements:

Family relief	$ 9,081,907.74
Shelters	422,742.94
Health and hospitals	188,342.31
Social settlements	76,583.54
Children's homes	178,334.60
Garden project	584.41
Protective and miscellaneous	76,302.54
Total	$10,018,686.91

Interest of $5,093.33 was paid on money borrowed, and there was a balance of $123,881.81 on deposit. The fund, Mr. Ryerson said, has received in addition special gifts of $47,977.09 for unavoidable administrative expenses, of which $46,923.28 was expended, leaving a balance of $143.81.

To date, he said, the estimated total receipts from all sources amount to $10,336,842.05, and expenditures and commitments total $10,367,787.70. This leaves an amount of $30,945.65 still to be raised.

3 CENT STAMPS OF 3 VARIETIES READY JULY 6

New Design Is Based on Bicentennial Twos.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—The wheels and cogs of Uncle Sam's stamp making machinery have literally been burning up during recent weeks turning out 3 cent stamps to meet the requirements of the new revenue law, which, on July 6, raises the first class postage rate from 2 to 3 cents.

Four billion 3 cent stamps have been manufactured to meet the initial demand. This represents, in the opinion of postoffice officials, about a six month supply. About a billion have have already been shipped to postmasters throughout the country and another billion will be needed, when the new rate becomes effective, to meet the demands of individuals and corporations with heavy mailing lists who don't like the idea of putting a 2 and a 1 cent stamp on each piece of mail they send.

New Stamp Standard.

Although at first there will be three different 3 cent stamps in circulation, by September, it is thought, the demand will have steadied so that only the new standard 3 cent stamp will be needed.

This new stamp will be substantially the same as the present Washington bicentennial 2 cent stamp, with the exception of a few minor changes. Its color will be purple, instead of the present red. The numeral "2" will, of course, be changed to "3" and the dates "1732" and "1932," which now appear on the 2 cent issue, will be eliminated. It will continue to bear the Stuart portrait of Washington.

Another 3 cent stamp, known as the "Olympiad," is being issued in limited numbers in celebration of the Olympic games.

The 3 cent Lincoln stamp, which is the current 3 cent standard, will be continued at first, officials said. The 3 cent Washington bicentennial stamp will also be continued until the end of the year, when it had been intended originally to discontinue printing it.

The four billion stamps being prepared for the "initial demand" include not only the new 3 cent issue, but a large number of the Lincoln and bicentennial "threes." As the department's printing presses catch up with the need, however, they will be discontinued, leaving the new 3 cent issue as the standard of postage in this country.

The 2 cent stamp now outstanding, officials said, will be absorbed largely by postmasters in affixing large amounts of postage at the postoffice wind . Officials expect that the present 2 cent stamps will have disappeared by the end of this year.

Mrs. Bemis Suffers Slight Setback in Life Battle

There was a slight setback yesterday in the fight to save the life of Mrs. Gertrude Bemis, wife of Walter Bemis, consulting engineer, of Winnetka, who has been in a critical condition since Saturday when she was found unconscious from carbon monoxide fumes in a Winnetka garage. She is at St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Since Saturday Winnetka firemen have been administering oxygen to keep her alive. Yesterday noon physicians announced that she had rallied so well that the oxygen was no longer needed. This success was followed later with an announcement that symptoms of pneumonia had appeared. Dr. William G. Cummings, attending physician, said he believed, however, that Mrs. Bemis would recover.

Property Values Drop 18 Million in Indiana County

Evansville, Ind., June 22.—[Special.]—Property valuations have dropped approximately eighteen million dollars in Vanderburgh county this year, according to figures based on the new assessment of real estate and personal property compiled by Charles Atkins, chief deputy auditor.

BEGIN REPAIRING NORTH STRETCH OF SHERIDAN RD.

Workmen yesterday began resurfacing Sheridan road from Foster avenue to Devon avenue. Sheridan road will be linked with the new $400,000 segment of Lake Shore drive which the state will build between Montrose and Foster avenues, to permit a free flow of traffic through Lincoln park and northward.

Lake Shore drive will turn west on Foster avenue to meet Sheridan road. The city is expected to widen Foster avenue at this junction to prevent a bottleneck and provide a wide turn for traffic.

Meanwhile five boats are pumping sand daily to complete the lake fill between Montrose and Foster avenues. H. Otto Weege, superintendent of the Lincoln park system, announced that the work would take 30 days, after which the state will start on the extension of the drive. Completion of the fill will take two million yards of sand and will cost approximately $100,000.

Ex-Cashier of Investment House Held to Grand Jury

Roy F. Popp, 5328 Fletcher street, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 by Judge Francis B. Allegretti in the Felony court yesterday on charges of having embezzled $18,500 from Spencer, Trask & Co., 208 South La Salle street, for stock and race horse speculations. Popp had been employed by the investment company as cashier for 11 years.

FINDS 38 MILLION STILL HAVE JOBS, BUT HOARD CASH

Retailers Told They Must Fight for Business.

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—More than 38,000,000 persons are at work at good wages in the United States at present despite the depression, but they are not buying the things they need, John H. Fahey, Worcester, Mass., said today at the joint convention of the sales promotion and merchandise managers' divisions of the National Retail Dry Goods association.

JOHN H. FAHEY. [Bachrach Photo.]

The problem of the retailers is to make those still at work fill these needs, Mr. Fahey said.

The speaker is publisher of the Worcester Evening Post and his address was given at the sales promotion session of the concluding day of the two day convention at the Hotel Commodore.

Go After Business, He Urges.

"Too many business men fail to appreciate that in spite of the readjustment of the past two and a half years we have more than 38,000,000 persons at work at good wages in this country right now," Mr. Fahey said.

"They have needs and desires which are not being filled. Although they have means to supply their wants they are not filling them normally.

"Why wait for more persons to be employed? The way to speed a general return to work is to sell and distribute to those now at work and thus create the demand for increased production and employment.

"The only way to get business is by going after it with determination, not by waiting for it to appear," Mr. Fahey went on. "There is no method by which to overcome sales resistance except by exerting greater skill and power. In such an effort, honest, forceful, and persistent advertising, economically bought, is indispensable to success and the merchant cannot concentrate too much intensive thought upon it."

Lauds Canadian Sales Tax.

Mr. Fahey criticized the tendency of merchants "to buy circulation" in their newspaper advertising, stating that it encourages exploitation on the part of the papers in the building up of "phantom circulation." More important than mere circulation, the speaker said, is the confidence the reader has in a newspaper and the thoroughness with which he peruses it.

D. H. Gibson, vice president of the Robert Simpson Company, Ltd., of Toronto, Ont., another speaker at today's session, praised as a fair and workable method of taxation the Canadian sales tax, which, he said, produces 12 per cent of the dominion's revenue.

HIT BY STREET CAR; DIES.

FEDERAL ECONOMY MEASURE MAY REACH VOTE IN SENATE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—The badly battered government economy bill may end its tortuous journey through congress tomorrow.

Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], chairman of the senate conferees, asserted tonight that he will insist on a final vote on the bill tomorrow. Other senators, notably Senator Robert M. La Follette [radical Rep., Wis.], protested that the economy bill should not be voted on until the senate concludes its deliberations on the Wagner relief bill.

Only the senate's adoption of the conference report is needed to send the measure to the President for his signature. As it stands now, apparently on the threshold of enactment, the bill carries a reduction in the cost of government of only about 150 million dollars, about half of the savings it carried when it started its legislative career.

The principal stone in its path to the White House now is a house amendment to the senate's furlough plan providing that the salaries of those government workers not included under the furlough plan be cut 8 1-3 per cent. The senate conferees have agreed to recommend that the senate accept the amendment, and indications tonight were that the higher body will agree with the recommendation of its conferees.

'L' WORKERS GET PAY CUT DESPITE VOTES AGAINST IT

Although employes of the elevated lines twice have voted to reject a 10 per cent wage reduction, the cut went into effect June 1, it was revealed yesterday when the trainmen received their pay for that period.

"The company had threatened to hold out 15 per cent," said President John J. Bruce of the trainmen's union, "but we compromised on 10 per cent. The company threatens, however, to hold out 15 per cent for the next period unless the controversy is settled before the next pay day, July 7.

"The arbitration agreed upon by both sides has been temporarily halted by the illness of William D. Mahon, international president. The present understanding is that one man from each side will be directed to attempt an agreement. We expect to resume the arbitration before the end of the week."

Accidentally Shot as He Takes Gun from Golf Bag

Franc E. Gardner, 56 years old, president of a chemical company bearing his name, got his golf bag out of a closet in his home at 2102 Humboldt boulevard last night in preparation for eighteen holes today. Among the clubs was his shotgun. Mr. Gardner started to lift the gun out, it was fired, discharging part of the shot into his leg. He was taken to the West Side hospital.

EUCHARIST OPENS IN DUBLIN WITH POPE'S BLESSING

Hundreds of Thousands See Colorful Ceremony.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 22.—The 31st Eucharistic congress was formally opened here this afternoon by Lorenzo Cardinal Lauri, the papal legate, in a colorful ceremony at the Dublin procathedral.

Never in its history has this old church, which has itself been beautified recently, witnessed such a scene of color and beauty. On each side of the altar on a row of thrones sat the cardinals, native and visiting. In the center on the right of the altar was the legate, flanked by Msgr. Robinson, papal nuncio to Ireland, while opposite in the middle was Joseph Cardinal MacRory, archbishop of Armagh and a successor to St. Patrick.

A Colorful Scene.

The cardinals' scarlet vestments gave a high note of color to the scene. Facing the altar was Archbishop Byrne of Dublin on his own episcopal throne and Bishop Heylen of Namur, secretary of the congress.

Back of the altar was row after row of archbishops, bishops and monsignori in purple and behind them in the nave and on the sides were ranks of priests in white vestments.

Practically the entire accommodation of the church was reserved for the clergy, but the political "truce of God" now prevailing in Ireland was symbolized by two adjoining benches set apart, one for President Eamon de Valera and his cabinet and the other for former President William T. Cosgrave and the former ministers of his government.

Throngs Massed Outside.

Across the aisle sat Gov. Gen. James McNeill, surrounded by the diplomatic corps, and near him was the famous singer, John McCormack, in the scarlet uniform of a papal chamberlain.

Outside the church for at least a mile in every direction thousands of people were massed. They heard every word and every note of music in the services through loud speakers.

Great enthusiasm greeted the appearance of the legate at the head of a procession from the robing rooms to the procathedral. A cleared space was roped off by police. The legate went to the barrier and allowed hundreds to kiss his ring. This act of kindness made the opening ceremony nearly a half hour late.

Legate Speaks in English.

Inside the cathedral addresses were read in Latin by one of the cathedral clergy. They were translated into English by Bishop Heylen. The legate replied in English to the welcome by the archbishop of Dublin. He brought greetings and blessings from the pope and at the close of his speech celebrated mass and gave the congregation a blessing.

Tonight, from 9 o'clock until midnight, the Most Blessed Sacrament will be exposed for adoration in all Dublin churches. All churches will also have a pontifical mass and communion at midnight.

Tomorrow and Friday there will be masses in the procathedral and mass-meetings for men and women in Phoenix park. Many separate meetings and conferences are scheduled for priests in various parts of Dublin.

Mass for Children Saturday.

Saturday noon a pontifical mass for children will be held in Phoenix park, and Sunday noon will come the great culminatin act of devotion at an open air mass in Phoenix park. This will be followed by a procession of the Blessed Sacrament for six miles from the park to O'Connell bridge, where the legate will pronounce benediction.

Nearly 1,000 additional American pilgrims, headed by Cardinal Hayes of New York, reached Dublin today aboard a French liner. Two other liners, the Dresden, with 750 persons from Omaha, and the Sierra Cordova, with 1,000 from New York, also arrived, as did two ships with Dutch, German and other continental pilgrims. It is estimated that there are now half a million visitors in Dublin.

H. M. RAYMOND RESIGNS AS HEAD OF ARMOUR TECH

Because of ill health Dr. Howard Monroe Raymond yesterday resigned from the presidency of Armour Institute of Technology. He became ill in February and has been inactive since then.

Dr. Raymond's resignation terminated 37 years of association with Armour institute. He was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1893 and came to Armour institute two years later as an instructor in physics. In 1903 he became dean of engineering and did much to develop this department.

On the death of Dr. Frank Gunsaulus, first president of the institution, in 1922, the board of trustees, then headed by J. Ogden Armour, elected Dr. Raymond president. In confirming his resignation yesterday the trustees honored him with the position of president emeritus. His successor has not been named.

GERMAN NAVY VISITS DANZIG; FEAR TROUBLE

Charge Poland Plans Provocation.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DANZIG, June 22.—The expected arrival of the German battleship Schlesien, accompanied by two torpedo boats, to participate in the celebration of the 500th anniversary of St. Joseph's Seaman's hospital, has been made the cause of another incident in the long quarrel between Poland and Danzig. The warships are expected to dock at Danzig tomorrow morning. They will remain four days. Local authorities are taking extraordinary precautions to prevent incidents.

Although Poland was officially notified by Germany on May 17 of the intended German visit and, under her agreement with Danzig by which she handles Danzig's foreign affairs, should immediately have informed the Danzig government of the impending visit, such official notification has not been received from Warsaw. Danzig regards this as another insult from the Poles.

Fear New Provocation.

Danzig fears the Poles plan to repeat the provocation which was made during the recent visit of the British fleet, when a Polish warship, contrary to orders of the league of nations, entered the harbor unannounced, and the Danzig government has requested the high commissioner of the league stationed here to intervene. Count Manfred Gravina of Italy is the league representative.

Dr. Casimir Pappe, Polish commissioner of Danzig, today handed the Danzig senate Warsaw's latest note concerning the evacuation of Polish railroad officials living here into Polish territory as ordered by the league. The note said Poland had been contemplating such removal for some time and that the league's action has nothing to do with her decision. The note adds that the state of public order in Danzig is forcing her to remove her officials.

Danzig Denies Disorders.

Danzig police authorities report that there have been no disturbances for months between the Poles and Germans living here. This is confirmed by other authorities here, who declare that the Polish allegation is untrue.

While Danzig government officials are nervous because of the critical situation, foreign observers minimize the immediate possibility of either a Polish or a Hitlerite putsch, claiming that the league is strong enough to maintain order.

Rosendahl Ordered to Sea, Dresel Commands Akron

Lakehurst, N. J., June 22.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, in keeping with a navy department order directing him to a tour of sea duty on the U. S. S. Virginia, was relieved of command of the airship Akron today. Commander Alger H. Dresel, who had succeeded Rosendahl as captain of the Los Angles, assumed command of the larger ship.

17 Planes in Line

Seventeen planes of the Twenty-seventh pursuit squadron, first pursuit group, stationed at Selfridge field, Mich., yesterday gave Chicagoans their first glimpse of the air fighting tactics to be displayed at the George Washington bicentennial military tournament, which starts tomorrow night in Soldiers' field. The squadron gave a fifteen minute show of aerobatics over the loop at 12:30 p. m., and returned to give a second show at 2:30 p. m.

In the interval the squadron landed at Chicago airport, where the pilots ate lunch and refueled their planes for the return flight to Selfridge field. In landing one of the planes blew a tire, but skillful handling by the pilot averted an accident. The squadron was commanded by Capt. Rowland and C. W. Blessley, a Chicagoan and a world war ace, whose home is at 7100 South Shore drive. The planes are the latest type high altitude single place fighters, the Boeing P-12, powered by Wasp supercharged motors.

At noon today another squadron from Selfridge field, the Seventeenth, will visit Chicago. The Seventeenth is equipped with Curtiss P-6 low altitude fighters.

BARKER GRAVE BATTLE BARES A NEW RACKET

A new racket was discovered yesterday with the investigation of the early morning gun battle between four hoodlums and a caretaker at the grave of George [Red] Barker, slain labor racketeer, in Mount Carmel cemetery at Hillside. Organized gangs are said to be invading cemeteries to steal floral pieces in order to sell the wire frames to florists.

Twelve floral pieces were found 150 feet from the grave near the spot where the robbers parked their truck. The robbers were routed by Joseph Sobol, 50 years old, a caretaker of the cemetery, who exchanged shots with them.

Theft of the bronze coffin, at first believed the purpose of the thieves, would have been impossible, cemetery officials pointed out. The coffin is in a cement vault, airtight and sealed, they said. The vault would have to be raised by derricks and blasted open to get to the coffin, it was said.

YACHTS BURNED IN A $2,000,000 SHIPYARD FIRE

Quincy, Mass., June 22.—(AP)—The building shed of the $7,000,000 victory ship building plant was swept early tonight by fire which destroyed luxurious yachts and caused property damage of approximately $2,000,000. One-half of the huge glass structure, believed the largest of its kind in the world, was demolished. More than a half million dollars worth of yachts were consumed.

Among the larger craft destroyed were the 120 foot Diesel cruiser Amijean, constructed for Francis Whitten of Palm Beach, Fla., and worth $250,000 and the Sheila, yacht of George W. Loft, New York candy manufacturer, $200,000.

NAZI STUDENTS BEAT AMERICAN ON HEAD IN RIOT

13 Injured in Fracas at University.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Germany, June 22.—An American student was seriously injured about his head in riots which were staged here today by students allied with Adolf Hitler's National Socialists. Twelve other students were also beaten. The university was closed.

The American gave his name as Herbert Crowley of Illinois but he refused to give the name of his home town. A gang of uniformed Hitlerites set upon him with belt buckles, brass knuckles and rubber batons. Crowley was rushed in an ambulance to a hospital. Later he was able to return to his residence. The wearing of uniforms was prohibited yesterday by the rector who feared it would evoke conflicts. To show their contempt, some 300 Hitlerite students this morning assembled in uniforms in the precincts of the university.

Chase Opponents.

At a given signal Hitlerite storm troops broke into the university through a rear entrance. They trampled down the beadle at the gate who attempted to bar their entrance. Then they started a wild chase of their political opponents through the courtyards and corridors of the university. Their victims included a woman student who was injured about the head and back.

Restore Uniforms; States Ordered.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 22.—Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, minister of interior, today gave German states until the end of the week to restore to Adolf Hitler's brown shirt army the right to wear uniforms. If the states fail to acquiesce President Paul von Hindenburg will then issue an emergency decree against the refractory states, the chief of which are Bavaria and Baden, it was announced.

An emergency decree which was issued by the cabinet on June 16 lifted the ban on Hitler's "storm troops" and several other political organizations. Bavaria and Baden, however, refused to relinquish their right to control the activities of the various pseudo-military groups.

Feeling certain of the backing of the junker cabinet, Adolf Hitler today openly broke all relations with the Centrist party, although he needs Centrist support to form governments in Prussia and other German states. Small clashes occurred in many parts of Berlin today. Police patrols were increased to quell the trouble.

SLAIN BANDIT'S PAL IDENTIFIED IN MORE ROBBERIES

Herman Scazzia, 30 years old, 302 East 224 street, Chicago Heights, was arrested yesterday when he appeared at St. James' hospital in the suburb with Dominick Guzzino, 22 years old, who had been fatally wounded by Mayor George A. Hahn of South Chicago Heights earlier in the day when three bandits tried to rob the official.

Scazzia still denied he was one of the bandits yesterday afternoon when he was taken to the inquest into Guzzino's death. There Ernest P. Gerhardt, 3119 North Major avenue, confronted him.

"Say," Gerhardt told Lieut. Robert Seiter of the county highway police, "this fellow's wearing my ring. I lost it May 24 when I was held up on the old Sauk trail."

Gerhardt identified Scazzia as one of the bandits and the dead Guzzino as another. Similar identifications were made by Deputy Sheriff Alvin J. Lenz of Gary and his wife, who were robbed on June 13 on the road on which Hahn shot it out with the bandits.

The inquest was continued to July 1 after Chicago Heights police said they know where to find the third member of the bandit gang, whom Hahn believes he wounded. Hahn and Mrs. Court Kramer, a friend of his family, who was with him, escaped injury in the pistol fight.

40,000,000 MILES FLYING EXPERIENCE

MAIN STREET is a Thousand Miles Long

A. F. Christy, Denver, Colorado, tells Casey that correct lubrication is about as important as time in his work

IN the Rocky Mountains, Main Street is a thousand miles long and the corner stores are a hundred miles apart. A picture of the vast open spaces reduced to terms of simple transportation was given by A. F. Christy, promotion manager for Christy Sales Service, as we inspected his Ford coupe on a road in the Denver foothills.

"Oil is something more than lubrication to me," he said. "You might class it as time. The right oil means all the difference between getting places and not getting places."

"And the right kind of oil?" queried the reporter.

"Iso-Vis," answered Mr. Christy. "It's taken me 28,900 miles since I bought this Ford nine months ago. And, believe me, brother, I'll never use anything else.

"I don't run a car to make business for the parking lots. I drive it. My territory embraces all of Montana, all of Wyoming, Western Nebraska, Eastern Utah, all of Colorado, all of Arizona and all of New Mexico. And I cover the territory. Today you might see me in Butte or Missoula . . . Next week you could find me in Santa Fe or Las Vegas. My business doesn't permit me to take root."

"We were talking about oil," the reporter reminded him.

"Of course we were talking about oil . . . what else? If you're going to make that mileage and cover your territory two or three times a year it means you've got to write off engine troubles of all kinds.

"And another thing. If you're going to move long distances in a short time you've got to step on it. I find that Iso-Vis gives me five more miles an hour without motor strain . . . and that's worth buying. Not long ago I left Salt Lake City at a quarter to nine in the morning, came right straight up over the mountains 615 miles and was home in bed here by 12:15 that night.

"If you think you could do that well in a Ford on any other oil than Iso-Vis, try it. I haven't the time."

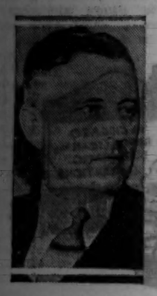
STANDARD OIL COMPANY

FIND BAIN GOT $1,751,602 FROM HIS BANK CHAIN

Crowded Courtroom Hears Receiver Testify.

John Bain borrowed $1,751,602 on unsecured notes from eleven of the twelve banks of which he formerly was the head. It was disclosed yesterday in the testimony of Irwin T. Gilruth, receiver for the now defunct bank chain.



IRWIN T. GILRUTH.

Bain, a south park commissioner and one time political power; his sons, John H. and Robert A., and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, are on trial before Judge John M. O'Connor, without a jury, charged with conspiracy to loot the banks.

Courtroom Crowded.

An audience that included many depositors of the Bain banks filled Judge O'Connor's courtroom when Receiver Gilruth was called to the stand late in the afternoon.

Defense Attorney Francis X. Busch objected at once to the introduction of testimony regarding the loans obtained by Bain, but he was overruled and Prosecutor Edwin Raber began his questioning of the receiver.

"Did you find any unsecured notes of John Bain in the twelve banks when the state auditor put you in charge?" Raber asked.

Gilruth then read a list of the borrowings of John Bain as an individual, the borrowings of John Bain, Inc., the company through which he operated, and the Lews company, a holding company organized and headed by him. The personal loans of Bain were $680,543, but collateral is held for several of these loans, the receiver testified, and the unsecured personal loans amount to $500,430. This, togetner with the unsecured loans of his subsidiary companies, totaled $1,751,602.

Eleven Banks Listed.

The loans, as listed by Gilruth, follow:

Armitage State..	$ 31,000	$ 10,566	$ 20,000
Elston State.....	15,500	16,214	.....
West Englewood.	127,282	552,467	28,000
Chi. Lawn State	93,640	79,354	26,750
West Lawn State	28,650	14,750	15,650
Ridge State.....	29,470	10,000	20,000
W. Highland St.	68,300	105,421	32,000
Brainerd State..	41,500	22,500	11,800
Bryn Mawr State	51,718	39,000	25,000
Stony Island.....	128,983	92,300	35,000
Chatham State..	64,500	51,000	44,000
Total	$680,543	$993,572	$257,600

The Auburn Park Trust and Savings bank, the twelfth Bain institution, held none of these notes, the receiver testified.

"Did you find any unsecured notes on which W. Merle Fisher (Bain's son-in-law, who was cashier of the West Englewood bank and one of the defendants) obtained loans?" Raber asked.

Fails to Bring Record.

"Yes," replied Gilruth. As the receiver had failed to bring records of these loans further testimony on Fisher's affairs was continued until today.

Gilruth was preceded on the witness stand by William J. MacAskill, 6138 South Hermitage avenue, a contractor, who testified that he signed numerous mortgages and receipts for the Bains in transactions which, Prosecutor Raber asserted, were for the purpose of defrauding the depositors.

MacAskill was on the stand most of the afternoon. He and John Bain are from the same town in Scotland and the former was a carpenter until he went into construction work with Bain, who had been a plumber. MacAskill frequently answered "I don't know" or "I don't remember" to questions involving many buildings. On other matters his memory was good.

He said Bain was a partner in his construction firm until May 5, 1930. His attention was then directed to a conversation in the middle of July 1931—a month after the Bain banks had closed. He told of John H. Bain son of the banker, saying to him:

"I signed your name on two receipts and I would like you to sign the originals."

Signs Receipts.

"I asked him who got the money and he didn't answer," the witness said. "I said to him, 'Johnny, you'll get me in a tough spot,' but he replied 'You have signed so many, one more won't hurt you.' I asked him if his father knew about the transaction and he said he did. Then I signed the receipts which, I understand, were for $40,000.

"Did you get the money?" Raber asked, and the witness said "No."

MacAskill then told of numerous building projects to which "I signed the bond issue" and under questioning said he didn't know whether he had title to the property, but assumed the Bains gave him title so he could sign. Asked whether he expected to pay notes for which he failed to receive the money, he said, "I have no money," but under questioning told of having equities in a number of buildings and bungalows.

At the morning session Prosecutor Raber called C. H. Baker, assistant cashier of the closed Bryn Mawr bank, who identified a statement which showed a deficit in the financial standing of John Bain, Inc., on April 30, 1931. It had been sent to the bank and Baker wrote a letter saying that such a statement would be severely criticized if found by the bank examiner, in view of the bank's loans to this company. In reply he received a new financial statement showing the Bain, Inc., was solvent.

Rubber Tired Railway Auto Shown

RUBBER TIRED RAILWAY AUTO DEMONSTRATED

Called Ideal for Short Haul Business.

A pneumatic tired railway auto—offered as providing a possible way for the railroads to recapture short haul passenger business lost to buses and private automobiles—was demonstrated before railroad men yesterday in the South Water yards of the Illinois Central by the Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

The car shown the railroad men was a standard type passenger automobile, but its principles could be easily applied to a coach more suitable for railway use, according to C. D. Smith of the Firestone company, who is in charge of the demonstration.

Tells Advantages of Coach.

"In the modern railroad coach weight is essential to comfort," Mr. Smith stated. "Should weight be reduced comfort decreases rapidly from the standpoints of vibration and noise. The peumatic rail tire permits a great reduction in the weight of the vehicle without sacrifice to comfort. Riding on a pneumatic tire provides an entirely new sensation—a ride such as one would expect from his first airplane ride, but actually doesn't get.

"The weight of a minimum passenger train is 130 tons, whereas the total weight of a stream lined coach of the type we propose is 8 tons.

"As to speed, rubber tired wheels enable greater speed in starting and quicker stops. With its low center of gravity, a comparatively high cruising speed can be maintained safely. To accelerate from rest to 50 miles an hour the average train requires 1,600 yards, while the pneumatic tired car requires 900 yards. To stop from a speed of 50 miles an hour the average train requires 1,100 yards and the pneumatic tired car needs but 110 yards."

Safety in Operation.

Mr. Smith said that the same safety in operation would apply to the pneumatic tired car as to the modern train. The tire is fitted over a block of hard, solid rubber. Should there be a blow-out or a puncture the deflated outer tube would rest on the hard rubber which would in effect form a hard rubber wheel. He said tests had been made running on this block at fifty miles an hour with no danger.

As to economy Mr. Smith said the light weight of the car he is demonstrating would result in a considerable saving in operating costs. Further, he said it would be much cheaper to make than a heavy engine and cars.

Good for Short Runs.

Mr. Smith asserted that the car would be ideally fitted for branch lines and feeders which have lost their business to buses. Among the runs on which it would be practicable, he said, are those between Chicago and Milwaukee, Philadelphia and Atlantic City, Cleveland and Akron.

In a test in Florida last March a car of this type traveled the 405.7 miles between Miami and Jacksonville in an elapsed time of 378 minutes and a running time of 347 minutes, with an average speed of 70.3 miles an hour on running time and 64.39 on elapsed time. The maximum speed was 87 miles an hour, with a cruising speed of 78 miles an hour.

STRAW 'BOATER' WORN BY WALES GOES TO ENGLAND'S HEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 22.—London hatters today waxed excited over the possibility that hat factories will be working overtime, for the prince of Wales has started a new "straw boater rage." ["Boater" to the British means a stiff straw hat ordinarily used in boating.]

When Wales sports a new idea in wearing apparel it is almost certain that most of the males of the world soon will be following in the same direction. Two days ago he appeared at a function in a sparkling new boater. A few hours later the "rage" was on and most of the big stores were displaying what stock of this headgear they possessed and urgently phoning for more.

The next day a sprinkling of boaters appeared in fashionable west end streets. Today they were numerous and even invaded the business sections. One store window was full of the straws and prominently displayed a notice. "The boater has come back." The women likewise are now boater addicts and several women's establishments are exhibiting millinery decorated with tricky sprays and flowers.

WOMAN KILLED AS AUTOMOBILE RUNS INTO TRUCK

Four Others Raise Year's Deaths to 523.

Mrs. William H. Novak, 1208 North East avenue, Oak Park, wife of a sporting goods dealer at 57 East Jackson boulevard, died in the Oak Park hospital yesterday afternoon from injuries incurred when her automobile crashed head on with a cattle truck earlier in the day on Harlem avenue about 200 feet south of 14th avenue, Berwyn.

According to H. W. Dennis, farmer of Polo, Ill., who was driving nine cattle to the stockyards, Mrs. Novak was traveling south in Harlem road at a high rate of speed. He was driving north. The traffic lanes at that point are separated by street car tracks resting on a rough roadbed. The farmer said that the woman seemed to lose control of her machine, which left the road, bounced over the tracks and collided with his truck.

This death and three others brought the 1932 Cook county automobile toll to 523. The other victims:

Mrs. Laverne Edwards, 36 years old, 6803 Merrill avenue. Fatally injured when her automobile was struck and overturned by another car at Normal avenue and 70th street. Mrs. Emma Bonnell, 32 years old, 7829 South Peoria street, driver of the other car, was held.

Michael Cunningham, 44 years old, 4103 North Leavitt street. Died in the Washington Boulevard hospital of injuries he suffered Sunday when the automobile which he was driving collided with another at Washington boulevard and California avenue. Patrick Rowland, 3249 North Karlov avenue, was the driver of the other machine.

Unidentified man, about 65 years old. Killed last night in Lake Shore drive at Addison street by an automobile driven by T. J. Strauel, 36, of 1020 Lawrence avenue, a salesman. The victim wore pajamas beneath a brown coat and gray trousers and had apparently left his apartment for a stroll or an errand.

ICE COMPANY IS ROBBED.

Three bandits entered the office of the United States Ice company, 1113 South Peoria street, yesterday, forced six employes to lie down on the floor and made O. F. Betz, the manager, give them $600 from the cash register.

KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN.

An unidentified man was killed early this morning by a freight train on the Illinois Northern railroad tracks at 23d street and South Campbell avenue.

MRS. W. A. CONRAN WINS DIVORCE FOR DESERTION

Mrs. Harriet Conran was granted a divorce from Walter A. Conran, 2121 Dayton street, a real estate operator, by Circuit Judge Craig Hood afer a contested hearing which lasted two days. Mrs. Conran charged her husband with adultery and desertion, but Judge Hood granted the decree only upon the latter ground. He awarded her $200 a month alimony and support money for their son, Roger, 17 years old, who attends a military school.

Conran denied his wife's charge of adultery from the witness stand yesterday and asserted that the cause of their separation in March, 1931, was his wife's addiction to cocktails. He said that he had warned her to cut down her liquor expenses, but she refused. On one occasion, he said, she accused him and Mrs. Bessie Giles, 40 East Oak street, of adultery, but later apologized for her action.

Mrs. Conran testified on Wednesday that her husband's income amounted to $5,000 a month. He told Judge Hood that it never had exceeded $12,000 a year since he quit his job as a bricklayer and went into the real estate business. At the present time, he said, he has no income.

LOAN SEEKER CORRECTED; LOOP HAS 11 BANKS

Howard Sims, chief examiner of the Chicago Clearing House association, issued a statement yesterday to correct the impression that there are only four banks in the Chicago loop, made by a member of the Chicago delegation which addressed the house banking committee Tuesday in Washington in seeking a federal loan for Chicago. Chicago actually has eleven banks operating in the downtown business district, there having been no change whatever in the loop banking situation for a long period of time, Mr. Sims stated.

MRS. KEITH-MILLER, AVIATRIX IN CLARKE SHOOTING, ARRESTED

Miami, Fla., June 23. — (AP)—Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix and prominent figure in the recent mysterious shooting of her fiancé, Haden Clarke, was arrested by federal immigration authorities tonight on a charge of illegal entry into the United States.

"If the authorities will check up in Washington, they will find my entry into the United States, four years ago this month, was entirely legal and that I have every right to be here," she said. "When I was arrested tonight, the officers told me some one—I don't know who—had complainer against me."

The Australian aviatrix was lodged in the women's division of the jail, one floor above the tier of cells where Capt. W. N. Lancaster, her former fiancee is awaiting trial on a murder charge in the Clarke case. Lancaster is scheduled to go on trial July 5. Mrs. Keith-Miller was exonerated of all knowledge of the affair by State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne.

5 STATE BANKS AND 1 NATIONAL CLOSED IN CITY

Auditor Nelson Acts to Conserve Assets.

Six Chicago banks, five of them state institutions and one a national bank, were closed yesterday.

The state banks were closed by State Auditor Oscar Nelson, in each case at the request of their directors, for the purpose of conserving assets. They were the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank, 1180 East 63d street, with capital of $600,000, surplus of $150,000, and deposits of $3,100,000; the Kenwood State bank, 1159 East 47th street, with capital of $200,000, surplus of $50,000, and deposits of $357,000; the Commonwealth Trust and Savings bank, 6847 Wentworth avenue, with capital of $200,000, surplus of $100,000, and deposits of $540,000; the First Englewood State bank of Chicago, 235 West 63d street, with capital of $200,000, surplus of $200,000, and deposits of $680,000, and the Chatfield Trust and Savings bank, 7936 Cottage Grove avenue, with capital of $200,000, surplus of $25,000, and deposits of $300,000.

Closed by Federal Examiner.

The Jefferson Park National bank, 4784 Milwaukee avenue, was closed by A. P. Leyburn, chief federal bank examiner for the Chicago district, at the request of the directors. It had capital of $300,000, surplus of $60,000, and deposits of $1,100,000.

Gordon A. Ramsay, receiver of the Albany Park National Bank and Trust company, announced yesterday that a second dividend of 23 per cent has been declared and will be paid to depositors of the bank within a few days. The bank, at 3424 Lawrence avenue, closed on May 12, 1931. It had deposits of $2,399,520 and capital, surplus, and undivided profits aggregating $375,507 at the time.

$552,000 to Depositors.

A first dividend of 20 per cent was paid to depositors in January. The one declared yesterday will involve payments of $552,000 to depositors.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county announced yesterday that plans to reorganize a bank in Waukegan to take over the assets of the closed Waukegan State bank apparently had failed and therefore the first of the trials on indictments growing out of that bank failure will start next Monday. William H. Miller, formerly a director of the Waukegan bank and an official of a Chicago bank, will be sent to trial alone.

Hunt Bandit After Grocer Is Found Slain in Store

The Wabash avenue police yesterday were seeking a colored bandit who shot and killed Morris Rosner, 38 years old, in his grocery at 5919 South Michigan avenue earlier in the day. Rosner had been robbed of $8 which he had taken to the store when he opened it for business at 8 o'clock. The grocer's body, with a bullet in the head, was found by J. V. Green, a tailor at 5915 South Michigan avenue

You get the extra life, the extra endurance of patented Goodyear Supertwist in the carcass. You get a tire which millions have praised as the quality tire within the reach of all.

You can count six layers of cord here, but the first two under the tread in this tire (or in any so-called "six-ply" tire built this way) do not run from bead to bead. Some tire-makers count these as "plies," but they are really "breaker strips," so we call them that

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CHICAGO'S REQUEST IN WASHINGTON.

Spokesmen for Chicago appeared Tuesday before the banking and currency committee of the national house of representatives and the Reconstruction Finance corporation asking for a federal loan to meet the city's emergency. The city administration was represented by the mayor and the city's business by responsible men.

Too often in the past the city has been shamed by the appearance of political buffoons, performing bears, speakeasy quartets and shell sharpers in Washington. That era has gone. The representatives who laid the city's case before the federal authorities were citizens of the highest caliber who have been honest, public spirited and self-sacrificing in their efforts to bring recovery to a gang wrecked town.

They explained that it was with great reluctance that they were in Washington on the mission which required them to be there. It is not the fault of the present day that the city is in the predicament which needs a federal loan. It is partly the fault of the authorities to whom the Chicagoans appeal.

Some congressmen who have freely voted the federal taxes of Chicago into their own states looked sourly at the men who asked them for compensation in the form of a loan, offering collateral and a certainty of repayment. Subsidy money so carelessly thrown about by congress will never return to the treasury. The federal processes, even now unchecked, have drained out the resources of productive states and in their emergencies they turn to the available source of credit, the federal government.

They do not like to do it, but the federal government has left them no other recourse. The doctrine governs in Washington. Exhaustion forces temporary submission to it.

PRESIDENT FRANK BELIEVES IN GOD.

Students of the University of Wisconsin and their parents who attended the commencement exercises this year heard an astonishing disclosure. Glenn Frank, president of the university, made his baccalaureate address the occasion for professing and defining his belief in God and in the religion of Jesus of Nazareth.

It is a startling thing and significant that the president of the University of Wisconsin has to make a speech explaining his belief in God. It is generally accepted in America that college presidents are Christians. It is significant and amazing that the president of the University of Wisconsin is in a position where he has to establish his Christianity. It is a distinction that is little for Wisconsin to be proud of.

The reason is that the University of Wisconsin harbors and encourages a ring of professors who are known atheists, bolsheviks, and who approach too close to the preaching of free love.

Frank's own writings are so ambiguous that they can be taken to mean almost anything. They have been taken to indicate that he leans strongly to the radical, politically, socially, economically, and theologically.

He was willing that they should be so taken. Now he finds it necessary to explain. He explains that he believes in God, although in the very address in which he discloses this belief he is still so ambiguous it is impossible to determine and understand his interpretation and acceptance of Christianity. At least one studious alumnus left the exercises wondering what it was all about and just what had been said.

The radical element in the University of Wisconsin is not doing the university any good. It has been abhorrent to parents, many of whom have sent their children to Madison in reluctance and apprehension or have sent them elsewhere. They have not known to what extent their alarms were justified, but they have known that through Wisconsin there has been a general belief that the university was a cradle for doctrines that were not in accord with the opinions and beliefs on which the state and the nation were founded.

Even if the university were innocent this belief harms it. John B. Chapple of Ashland, a not so recent graduate from the university, has served to bring this vague fear to a focus. He found, he believed, conditions subversive to true Americanism and Christianity and he has gone through the state crusading against these conditions at the risk, politicians told him, of his own political future.

President Frank's announcement that he believes in God was wrested from him, it may be believed, by the disclosures of Mr. Chapple. It is a service to the people of Wisconsin who have pride and love for their state. It is something, but not enough.

There is evidence that Chapple has not exaggerated in many of his criticisms of the university. If President Glenn Frank has been put in the absurd position of having to announce his Christianity it was not Chapple that put him there, but his own dubious position on that and other questions and his tolerance of instructors and instruction that does constant violence to the accepted beliefs of true Americanism.

It is not too much for the people of Wisconsin now to exact a similar confession of faith from Prof. Max Otto, instructor in theology; an expression of approval from William Ellery Leonard on the simple and conventional estate of matrimony, and from Prof. Alexander Meiklejohn on the integrity of the representative American form of government.

WHAT FREED McGEOGHEGAN?

The dismissal of the prosecution of Daniel McGeoghegan, charged with bank robbery, certainly deserves the investigation of the special grand jury. The explanation offered by the state's attorney's office is in effect a confession of the inability of public authority to protect citizens from organized criminality, a confession that the state cannot protect its witnesses, a confession that public justice is under the dictatorship of crime.

We do not believe this is true. We know it need not be true if the authorities are doing or will do their duty. The suggestion that considerations of politics brought about the freeing of a notorious character therefore seems plausible. But, whatever the reason for the action taken, it should be ascertained and made public, for the evasion of justice in such a case is a public scandal the consequences of which must be serious. If the state cannot protect witnesses by the means adopted or the means it possesses, better means should be found. Certainly the community will not submit to the shameful condition pleaded as an excuse for the state's action in this case. And certainly if that excuse is a subterfuge it should be exposed.

IS THIS A CHAMPIONSHIP?

Mr. Schmeling won his fight from Mr. Sharkey, but neglected to whip the referee, Mr. Gunboat Smith; one of the judges, the Madison Square Garden corporation, and the radio narrators. This oversight proved his undoing and his title was taken from him, although Mr. Sharkey will use only one eye in reading the congratulatory messages he may receive. If the German had known what he had to do he would have had plenty of opportunity to knock the referee over the ropes in odd moments when Mr. Sharkey was not bothering him, and he might even have stepped out of the ring for a second or two to dispose of the judges.

It may have been, however, all for the best. Mr. Schmeling and Mr. Sharkey after this decision may fight again. If Max had retained his title Sharkey would have been returned to his petunia beds with nothing to interfere with his horticulture. Max took the big end of Tuesday's purse. Jack will take the big end of the next one. Max got the title on a foul blow, Jack on a foul decision. That makes it all square.

The only place the fight was a fight was on the air. The radio reporters made two jack rabbits ferocious. The radio faked it for the entertainment of its guests. The radio reporter is addicted to bedtime stories, not criticism.

The American swindle known as championship prize fighting has unanimous consent. Not only the customers but the performers like it. That is why Mr. Schmeling was defending his title in Long Island City, New York, where he could be framed but paid, and not in Berlin.

O, INDIANA!

Strike up the band. Indiana has come out of the wilderness. The Democratic state convention voted for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and of the state's own law, a master bit of saber tooth bigotry. The Republican convention did the same thing. The discomfiture and rout of the drys is complete. They had been unusually virulent under tonic drinking commissars and Ku Klux kleagles.

Any one who knew the real Indiana knew that Indiana would come out of it. Ten years ago the state was thrown into a daze by the sudden attack made upon its politics by unscrupulous or misguided individuals pretending a higher morality. The people of Indiana have a heritage of neighborliness, common sense, good humor, and shrewdness without meanness. It is not inherent in the stock to harass a neighbor because of religious belief, political opinion, or personal habit. It is not natural to Indiana life to peek under window curtains, prowl the highways at night in disguise, terrorize individuals, hound the neighbor, or nail ears to posts.

When these symptoms developed it was because the state had been infected by dishonest politicians trading with narrow minded and self-seeking zealots operating upon the instinctive decency and respectability of people bewildered in their efforts to do what they were told was the right thing to do.

The reaction was bound to come, and it has.

[New York Sun.]

There is a project afoot in Brooklyn to change the name of Shore road to Leif Erikson (or Ericson) drive. It is promoted by several respectable citizens, who wish to honor the navigator and have apparently convinced Borough President Hesterberg that this would be an appropriate way in which to do it. They promise to present to the aldermen a petition signed by 100,000 Scandinavians favoring the change. It is to be hoped that the aldermen will refuse the request, preserve the familiar and appropriate designation, Shore road, and advise the Scandinavians they should think up a way of honoring Leif that will not do unnecessary violence to the city map. Shore road is a simple, descriptive, historic street name; preserve it.

The United States forest service sets a good example in preserving old time place names. In the eighteen national forests in California are 1,252 camp grounds; wherever it is convenient names reminiscent of the pioneers and the Forty-niners associated with the camp sites and their surroundings have been bestowed on them. Among these names are Bacon Rind, Beaver Heaven, Dog Town, Graveyard, Hall Creek, Hog Pen Springs, Hobo Hot Springs, Murderers' Bar, Pie Canyon, Poison Meadow, Toad Wells, and Whisky Creek. In many cases the incidents, tragic, humorous, prosaic, that suggested these names have been forgotten, but the appellations persist and the forest service does well to endeavor to make them permanent.

Undoubtedly there will be efforts to prettify these bold and spicy names. Graveyard is not likely to escape the corrective impulse which would erase Gravesend from the geography; conscious daintiness will seek to delete Hog Pen Springs from the list of camps. May all such efforts end in failure!

OH, WHAT A CHEERFUL GAME!

Some mad wags have invented a new game which they play with hilarious laughter. To us it sounds as funny as a crutch or the measles. They play it this way: In the first place, the host mustn't know about it. If he's heard of the thing then the game's dead. But otherwise the happy souls who are invited to dinner wander about the rooms after the cocktails and before the soup and look everything over very critically, arguing sometimes quite earnestly over the merits or demerits of an antique or a picture. Suddenly the host finds little tags pinned on almost all his belongings. A fine Corot, for instance, will have a ticket reading "$5.45—Jeems Jenks." A pair of jade vases that cost thirty thousand dollars will have a card reading "6.89—Loulou Loulouer." An Aubusson rug that is priceless, but cost a fortune, will be marked "Fifty cents—Cuthbert Montague." Everything will have a tag on it bearing a sum and a name. Even the radio will be marked "Two bits—Sam Hustler." And then the host will ask what it's all about and one of the loveliest of the lady guests will gasp between merry peals of girlish laughter, "Oh, darling, when you go broke and your things are sold up, that's what we'll pay for them!" Aren't some people just too comical for words!

SURPASSING GIFT.

This out of all life's giving
Has been the surpassing grace—
That your arms, O love, have held me
And your eyes have loved my face.

This through the final darkness
Shall light my way like flame—
That your heart has called me often
And your lips have loved my name!

ADELAIDE LOVE.

"WHY, EVERYBODY ought to like the Republican plank on the liquor question," says Mrs. Dolly Gann. Ah, what a perverse world! We are reliably informed that there are a number of people who do not care very much for it. Tsk, tsk, tsk!

ONE OF THE LADY CONGRESSMEN at Washington is zealously teaching budget making to her brother congressmen. What we need down in congress is not so much a teacher of budget making as a professor of budget paring. Or an instructor with a butcher knife, a couple of axes, and a ripsaw, who gives lessons in budget slashing, would be a great help.

How Long the Days Are Getting.

Sir: I read some dry propaganda the other day that said if the breweries are opened it will close the mills. What mills? JAZBO OF OLD DUBUQUE.

FOR A LONG TIME the gals tried to make us believe they had no ears by draping their bobbed hair down over those useful appendages. Ears became most unfashionable, and if the wind blew a gal's tresses back and exposed an ear she blushed crimson. Oh, it was indeed almost immodest for a nice gal to be caught having ears. And now the gals are going strong for a new style straw hat that hangs way down on the side so as completely to cover one eye. It is said to be very ladylike for a gal to have one eye, but to have two—oh, it's perfectly respectable, y'understand, but awfully old fashioned, almost mid-Victorian.

ZASU PITTS, one of the scintillating queens of the silver screen, testified in court yesterday that she never attended the movies, not even her own. Which makes us for the first time in our long and storm beset career wish we were a movie star.

THE HON. ETAOIN SHRDLU, the Line's candidate for the presidency, yesterday came out flatfootedly for the immediate repeal of the 18th amendment, the Volstead act, the Jones 5 & 10 law, the tax on dill pickles, and increased price on red suspenders. "My announcement," said the Hon. Shrdlu, "is not such a bombshell as the proclamations of other eminent statesmen, because I have never been a dry. I drank beer from my little bottle while a baby, and ever since I have had an all consuming partiality for rum. It is the former drys who get all the front page when they take a vicious poke at the sacred 18th, while we who have been consistent for a lifetime are put over on the seventeenth page next to pure advertising matter. I am thinking of joining the drys for at least two days, and then they will make much whoopee over me when I come out once more for repealment of the 18th." The Hon. Shrdlu said, however, that possibly two days seemed quite a long time and that if he remained dry one day or say next Tuesday between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and 4 p. m. it might be amply sufficient.

NEPOTISTIC BLUES.

If I were a congressman's brother-in-law,
Or, better, a congressman's mother-in-law,
I could live at my ease out in Omaha
And still a munificent salary draw.

Or, if I were a senator's sister Mary,
I could be his assistant secretary,
With nothing the day's routine to vary,
But watch the clock and feed the canary.

Or the aunt of a representative,
With duties just social and tentative,
I'd go to Capitol Hill to live,
And, oh, the gay soirees I should give!

Or, best of all, the prime resident,
Sister of a vice president,
To agitate, wherever I went,
The querulous question of precedent.

EOLUS.

MR. ALFRED EMANUEL SMITH of New York City, New York, arrived yesterday, and from the tumult and the shouting one would think the entire Democratic convention and the whole Democratic party had landed in a body. And maybe it did.

HOT WEATHER CLOTHING.

A MAN'S comfort in both hot and cold weather depends very largely on the condition of the air trapped between the skin and the clothing. Until recently it has been supposed that this air was always moist and, therefore, it acted as does wet air in causing one to feel warm or cool. This opinion needs some modification. Air at 32 degrees is saturated when it contains but a few grains of water, while at about 85 degrees it will hold above five times as much.

When ordinary air comes to be trapped under the clothing it contains less water than it can carry. This is called moisture deficiency. The body heats it up and, at the same time, the sweat from the skin supplies it with moisture. These two additions—heat and moisture—mount at about the same rate.

Therefore, although air that has been trapped in the clothing steadily increases its content of moisture, it still acts like dry air. This is because the moisture deficiency, or thirst for water, remains about the same. To a degree, therefore, the trapped air cools the body and, incidentally, helps it to get rid of excess heat by evaporating perspiration as well as by absorbing heat.

There are exceptions to all rules, however. On a hot, rainy day the atmospheric air is both warm and so wet that it has little or no thirst. Any air that the clothing traps is about as warm as the skin, and carries all of the moisture it can pack. In those circumstances, trapped air does not promote comfort—quite the contrary. It is for that reason that hot weather clothing should have a very open weave, that it should not fit tightly, that there should be no tight bands, and that there should be the smallest possible amount of padding and lining. The Chinaman who wears a loose, light cotton shirt with the tail outside—a pajama jacket effect—shows wisdom. That a garment of this type is almost universal among the natives in hot countries is proof of their good sense, even though we may call them savages and pronounce them uncivilized.

When garments are saturated with sweat, particularly if they cling to the skin, they are not comfortable, however open the weave may be, nor however light in weight. In this circumstance the open spaces of the cloth are filled with water and no air can pass. In the second, the trapped air is so saturated with moisture that evaporation from the covered skin cannot go on. Whenever perspiration is abundant enough to run, the line beyond which sweating does not promote comfort has been crossed.

IT'S THE DEPRESSION.

S. H. writes:

1. An advertisement mentioned that a person up to the age of 45 can increase his height 1 to 5 inches in a few weeks without the use of appliances, drugs, or diet.

2. What possible way can there be for a man of 45 to do this?

REPLY.

1. These are hard times and that advertiser needs money. Would you rather pay him direct or board him in jail?

2. There is none.

SPOONFUL OF GAS.

A. M. L. writes: Would a teaspoonful of ethyl gasoline taken internally be likely to cause any trouble after four months? It is said to be poison and to contain lead. In draining the gas tank my husband accidentally swallowed some of the fluid and complained for a long time thereafter of feeling badly. He has a worrisome disposition naturally, and whenever he feels badly he thinks of this gasoline. I believe he imagines it, but he thinks he feels a little gnawing feeling right below the ribs in front.

REPLY.

No. Lead may be stored in the bones, from which location it may be absorbed and cause lead poisoning months or years afterward, but your husband took just one dose and he did not get much lead from that.

THANKS FOR SUGGESTION.

E. H. McI. writes: I want to thank your correspondent who advised using moleskin adhesive plaster for callus on foot. I was in misery and decided to try it, and must say it gave wonderful relief.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 23, 1916.

EL PASO, Tex.—Sinister details of the battle of Carrizal reached here in a special dispatch from Colonia Dublan. It is intimated that instead of a battle the encounter may have been a massacre. The small American detachment of two troops of Negro cavalry was attacked by a Mexican force numbering between five and eight hundred. The Americans were fired upon from ambush while they were respecting a flag of truce which had been sent out by a Mexican commander. When the senior captain commanding the Americans ordered his men to dismount and to answer the fire the Mexicans poured in a murderous volley from hidden machine guns. There is serious fear in Colonia Dublan that the entire force was wiped out.

WASHINGTON.—The first orders for sending to the border National Guardsmen called into the federal service last Sunday by President Wilson went out from the war department tonight. Gen. Barry at Chicago was directed to send the first 5,000 guardsmen who were mustered into service in the central department. A report from Gen. Barry indicates that troops should be moving from Springfield, Ill., to the border by June 30. Mustering in, it was said, would begin either June 25 or 26 at Springfield.

WASHINGTON.—While awaiting Gen. Pershing's report on the battle at Carrizal, which may determine the question of war or peace between the United States and Mexico, President Wilson continued making such preparations for the impending conflict as he deems adequate. In a circular note to the Latin-American republics the President referred to war between the United States and Mexico as an impending possibility. His purpose was to assure the Central and South American countries that in going to war with Mexico the United States would not be actuated by motive of conquest, suspicions of which are prevalent in those republics. His sole purpose is to end the bandit raids into the United States and protect Americans along the border.

PETROGRAD.—The war office announced the capture of Radauts with 1,022 prisoners. Radauts is thirty miles south of Czernowitz. The official statement also chronicles bloody fighting in the region of Radmiesto, on the Stokhod river. No prisoners were taken in this battle and this is explained by the anger of the Russians, who refused quarter to the Germans, who had been using explosive bullets.

PARIS.—Fierce fighting is in progress on both banks of the Meuse river on the Verdun front. The Germans stormed and captured French positions in the Fumin wood and Chenoie on the right bank, but counter attacks by the French recovered most of the ground lost. Preparations for an even greater attack are seen in the terrific bombardment which was opened by the Germans tonight on the front to the north of Thiaumont, the Vaux wood, Chapitre, and La Laufee.

CHICAGO.—"On with the dance" was the decision handed down by the highest tribunal in the state. The opinion of the Supreme court means that the city of Chicago cannot enforce the ordinance prohibiting public dancing in the restaurants and cafés. The court held the ordinance is unconstitutional because it is clearly an invasion of the property rights of individuals.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor is A. J. Carlson, professor of physiology.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What is the nature of consciousness and its relation to the nervous system?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

Of what value is reason?

ANSWER:

All animals are continuously changing their activity in response to changes in their environment. Even simple, one celled animals show this property. With the appearance of a nervous system, with special sense organs to make the animal more delicately sensitive to environmental changes, with special motor organs, such as muscle, to permit a rapid and skilled response, and particularly with complicated nerve pathways connecting these all to one another, like the telephone exchange between the phones in our houses, a far more adequate responsiveness is developed. Each of the more complex animals has its nervous system, with internal and external connections so set at birth and by inheritance that a great array of proper responses to particular stimuli is on tap. These are the simple, inborn reflexes. Except for vertebrates, more particularly mammals, and most especially the primates, these inborn reflexes cover practically the whole possibility of behavior. Complicated reflex sequences associated with mating, nest building, the social behavior of insects, etc., we ordinarily call instinct. But those animals with a large cerebrum, culminating in man, are able in addition to establish new responses to new stimuli and so vary to a greater or lesser extent the inborn possibilities. These acquired or conditioned reflexes or habits constitute the basis of the great bulk of human behavior. Reason, which enters only rarely, is not different in kind, but determines behavior of the future in terms of stimuli of the past, thus essentially lengthening the time between stimulus and response and decreasing the number of stimuli needed to establish a response.

UNIMPROVED ALLEY.

Chicago, June 15.—[Friend of the People.]—The unpaved alley between Broadway and Magnolia, Almalis and Argyle, has been in poor condition all winter. A few loads of cinders were unloaded and some generous person tried to complete the job by dumping plaster, broken bottles, etc., resulting in two punctures for me. The "no dumping" sign here is unheeded and one usually finds anything from a medicine bottle to a box couch in the alley. C. F. M.

Report is made that the alley referred to is unimproved and below grade. Dumping referred to was done by unknown persons and as it is impossible to locate the offenders all objectionable debris has been removed and the alley graded, and is in the best possible condition for an unimproved alley. This alley should be paved by special assessment at the earliest possible date.

She has three children. 2. What is a fair attorney's fee? 3. Is it necessary to have an attorney?

1. Depends on whether the will contains the usual provisions excusing her from giving bond.

2. About 4% of the personal property is common.

3. Yes, in the ordinary case.

WANTS MARRIAGE ANNULLED.

Chicago, June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is a marriage in Indiana, performed by a justice of the peace, legal in Illinois? 2. If it is, what procedure would I have to take to get it annulled? I am only 17 and now realize the mistake I made. I have never lived with my husband and I didn't see him for six months. I have no money and would like to be released from this marriage. Please advise me what to do. H. D.

1. Yes.

2. No clear basis for annulment appears from your letter.

SALOONS THEN AND NOW.

Chicago, June 13.—Personally I have never given prohibition much thought. When I want a glass of beer, or perhaps a shot, with a little more kick, I go over to the corner saloon. The only difference is I pay two bits for a glass of beer instead of a nickel, which takes most of the joy out of it, as I'm out of work at the present time.

Now, after taking my drinks all these years, something has happened which makes me shudder for the young, inexperienced boys and girls who are growing up surrounded by the evils of prohibition.

A friend won a considerable amount on the races and invited me out on a little party. Being broke and out of work, I gladly accepted. We made a start by going over to the corner saloon, ordering a shot of booze and a beer for a wash. Almost immediately everything took on a brighter look, and being out of work didn't seem so bad, at least as long as I had a friend with plenty of money. Our little party lasted three days and nights. During this time we consumed innumerable drinks of booze, beer, and home brew. We drank in roadhouses, saloons, and beer flats, paying from 10 to 75 cents for a shot of booze, which graded as moon, cut alcohol, and the so-called bottled-in-bond. By the pint we could buy it as low as 50 cents and as high as $6.

In our neighborhood my friend took me into beer flats which formerly were respectable homes, but are now run by the most disreputable foreigners. In many of these places we found women and girls who openly were soliciting business from the patrons.

But here is what almost floored me: In one of these beer flats I found a young high school girl so drunk and so sick I thought it advisable to call a doctor. But we at last brought her out of it by cold towel applications, after which she fell into a sleep, and a few hours later was in shape so that her girl friend was able to get her home. I have known this girl and her family for a long time. Her reputation has been of the best. She has the background of a very fine family. I talked to her a few days later, and after her promise that it would not occur again I gave her my promise not to mention it to her mother. She confided in me that they had bought a pint of gin from the corner druggist and then went to the beer flat, where she drank one beer and became deathly sick. Perhaps this might have ended differently had I not appeared on the scene. She told me that at least two out of three in the senior class in high school drank.

To the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation you state that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE revealed that 14,000 women and girls frequented the back rooms of saloons on Madison, Clark, and Cottage Grove before June, 1914. Yes, I remember those days myself. I also remember the type of creatures they were, hard boiled prostitutes. They have now left their former haunts and some of them now are my neighbors. But I haven't any memories of young high schoolgirls frequenting these places prior to 1914, and I ask myself, Were these 14,000 worth driving from their haunts only to open new doors for the young and innocent?

If any drys really believe that we now have prohibition let them take a day off for a little trip with a fallen brother who takes a drink. They will find that conditions such as I mention prevail all over the city and over any other city. So let's have beer and light wine under federal or state control. Let us all pull together to run these dives out of our cities.

A HAS-BEEN.

TAXPAYER'S PROTEST.

Chicago, June 14.—I sincerely hope the parents of children in the upper grades will rise up in arms over what is planned for the schools in September. The upper rooms are to be crowded full and the manual training and cooking periods are to be doubled, which means that the children of the seventh and eighth grades will spend what amounts to more than a day a week on the manual arts and that there will be just that much less time for the academic subjects. And the load will not be lightened any. In addition, the upper grade teachers will be required to teach two floating rooms. What utter nonsense! I've had children in schools where there were floating rooms and what they learned there—well—the less said, the better. Discipline becomes lax, and the teacher's frazzled nerves break under the load. Is this the way to save? Ye gods!

ANOTHER DISGUSTED TAXPAYER.

A FEDERAL DOLE STATE.

Chicago, June 14.—The gentleman from Georgia who stood up in the house of representatives during the bonus debate and let out his now famous blast, "Is there no one here who will come to the defense of his country?" is not informed as to the affairs in his own state. Georgia at this moment is actually living on a government dole. Between $40,000 and $60,000 per county has been distributed in feed, seed, and fertilizer loans this year. There are more than one hundred counties in Georgia. Since this is a purely agricultural state, the money is sufficient to sustain life for a considerable period.

Moreover, a government owned and built postoffice or addition is under construction in every county seat in the state of Georgia. The people of Georgia have been receiving carloads of the flour milled from government owned wheat and distributed by the American Red Cross. The flour not only provides biscuits for the family but a pair of pants for the baby.

The southern patriot in congress should be better understood by a newspaper celebrating a birthday well beyond the age of puberty. J. W. TWYMAN.

GOVERNMENT AND OPINION.

Evanston, Ill., June 14.—One day in February, 1848, Sir Robert Peel was sitting at his "bench" in the house of commons when a fellow member came to him and informed him of the overthrow of the government of the French king, Louis Philippe. "This comes," said Peel, "of trying to carry on a government by means of a mere majority of a chamber without regard to the opinion out of doors."

That was more than eighty years ago. Are we doing any better now?

WHALING ANNALS RESURRECTED IN MORRISON TRIAL

Lawyer Attacks Foulkes' Claim to Estate.

Pictures of young Chicago of the late '50s, and of the New England whaling industry which attracted the adventurous youth of America in those days, were drawn yesterday in the quiet courtroom of Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor Jr.

Attorney Lawrence Jacobson presented in evidence letters, sailing records, and United States Customs reports of that period in an effort to prove that William E. Foulkes, 4216 Langley avenue, is not a son of the late Capt. Edward W. Morrison, and should not share in the $3,500,000 estate of the eccentric "millionless millionaire."

The lawyer represents the Chicago Title and Trust company and 14 heirs who are contesting Foulkes' appeal from the probate court which ruled that he had no claim against the estate.

Also Hears Sisters' Appeal.

In this same case Judge Taylor is hearing the appeals of two sisters, Mrs. Alice Schenker and Mrs. Margaret Brown, of Dearborn, Mich., who say they are Capt. Morrison's adopted daughters. Probate Judge Horner held that their adoptions were void.

Foulkes, whose snowy mustache and full beard give him a striking resemblance to Capt. Morrison, has asserted that he was born on April 15, 1859. Attorney Jacobson introduced Foulkes' marriage certificate dated Mason county, Illinois, 1882, in which he gave his birth date.

Photostatic copies of the records of the collector of customs at New Bedford, Mass., for 1857, disclosed that a youth of 23 years, E. W. Morrison of Chicago, sailed upon a whaling schooner, the Levi Starbuck of New Bedford, on a four year voyage to the Pacific on Nov. 2 of that year. This youth, according to Attorney Jacobson, was Capt. Morrison, who had not at that time won his way above the rank of able seaman.

The lawyer then read from testimony given by Capt. Morrison himself during one of the trials over his estate, which were continuous for 16 years before his death in 1929. This testimony was that Morrison had gone east from Chicago and sailed on a whaling ship in 1857.

With copies of old whaling journals Attorney Jacobson traced the course of the Levi Starbuck around Cape Horn, to Honolulu, to ports in China and Japan, and finally, two years later, back to Honolulu. A photostatic copy of the records of Abner Pratt, American consul to the Sandwich islands in 1859, showed that E. W. Morrison was discharged from the ship on Christmas eve that year, and was paid $86.

Then a letter written in July, 1859, by J. M. Morrison, father of the late captain, was produced by Attorney Jacobson. It was received by the son in Honolulu immediately before his discharge and explains that his father had bought his release from a contract for two more years of whaling.

A Touch of Civic Pride.

After accounting for the family health the elder Morrison wrote, obviously with civic pride, the following paragraph:

"My son, Edward, you won't know the city of Chicago when you get back. It has grown very much, they have torn down the old Methodist church and built a splendid block, and they are filling up Clark and Madison streets and paving them in front of the Row. They have got a horse railway on Madison street out beyond the Bull's Head. They have torn down the old saloon building on the corner of Clark and Lake streets and are building a splendid block stone front four stories high."

With Capt. Morrison at sea in November, 1857, and at Honolulu before the end of 1858, it would have been impossible, Attorney Jacobson told Judge Taylor, for him to have been the father of Foulkes.

The heirs of Capt. Morrison will be called to the stand to testify today, Jacobson informed the court.

PAST LOVES AND DIVORCES BARED IN HUTTON CASE

Mystery Woman Offers to Aid Defendant.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 22.—[Special.]—The past loves of Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, the $200,000 breach of promise accuser of Dave Hutton, became a matter of concern for the jury hearing her case against the robust husband of the Rev. Aimee McPherson-Hutton in Superior court today.

The good looking 30 year old nurse proved a calm witness as Hutton's attorneys began their quest for dates, names, and incidents in her career.

Later on she frequently asked for water and once called on her attorney for smelling salts.

Insists on Her "Rights."

While she was being questioned regarding her acquaintance with a number of men she admitted she knew and was told they would be called as witnesses she sprang from the witness chair and exclaimed:

Hutton, who is scheduled to testify in his own behalf tomorrow if his attorneys finish cross-quizzing his brunette accuser, broke the courtroom silence at one time during a pause which followed one of Miss St. Pierre's "I don't remembers" to remark: "There goes her old ball game."

Under questioning by Attorney Mark Rose, Miss St. Pierre dispassionately recorded her first marriage as taking place Jan. 26, 1926, to H. H. Harrington, son of a wealthy Pasadena, Cal., business man. She ended this with a divorce six months later, she said.

Next in her life was an engagement to Edgar Eden, a music teacher, "but that romance never developed into marriage," she said.

Her second husband was George Street Jr. She married Street in July, 1927, but lived with him only one month, and a divorce ended this alliance. The next time she was engaged was her betrothal to Hutton in January, 1931, she said, which occurred three weeks after she met Hutton, and resulted in her charges of betrayal upon which the case in court is based.

When the subject of her meeting with Hutton came up the churchman's attorney drew from Miss St. Pierre the testimony that she was introduced by her butcher to a man whom she knew only as "Mr. Cæsar," who drove her in his car to a dinner party, where she met Hutton. The dinner was held at the home of a woman friend, she said. In answer to questions by Hutton's attorney Miss St. Pierre said, "I have the utmost confidence in my butcher."

Mystery Woman in Case.

A mystery woman entered the case today. Pulling two little girls and a boy after her, she shouldered her way through the crowded courtroom to the defense attorneys' table.

As the woman pressed her way forward she told spectators that she had a "sensational story that would throw this whole case out of court," and that she had come "all the way from New York to help Mr. Hutton."

After the woman had been closeted for a time with Hutton and his attorneys Hutton emerged and declared: "The information she has is marvelous, but I won't pay her a dime for it."

From Miss St. Pierre's lawyer came this comment when he saw the woman: "She has been trying to sell us a story for three or four days."

CALL ON HOOVER TO STOP MONEY FOR FARM BOARD

Grain Leaders Cite Loss and Low Prices.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A committee representing the leading grain and other farm commodity exchanges of the country last night wired a petition to President Hoover from Chicago asking him to withhold further appropriations of funds to the federal farm board or "any of its so-called subsidiaries."

The communication, signed by Siebel C. Harris, chairman of the grain committee on national affairs of the commodity exchanges, called the President's attention to the fact that "the farm board has definitely proven that it cannot stimulate consumption and its efforts to sell on credit have invariably been followed by lower grain prices."

Foreign Buyers Intimidated.

The petition further pointed out that "foreign buyers have been intimidated by the fear of concentrated selling and this fear has acted as a further price depressant." Had it not been for this factor in the governmental attempt at price control, the committee declared, "it is reasonable to assume that prices would be substantially higher today."

As an alternative to financial aid for farmers through the medium of the farm board, the exchange committee suggested that government relief for agriculture "be distributed direct to the needy," and expressed the fear that with appropriation of further sums, directly or indirectly to the farm board, barring a crop catastrophe, "even the present extremely low prices of grain cannot be maintained during the early movement of the new crop."

"As grain merchants and as American citizens," continued the petition, "we believe that you and congress should do all in your power immediately to restore to the farmer the open, free and competitive market which was his previous to the advent of the farm board.

Open Market Heeded.

"We feel that only the free workings of the law of supply and demand, and the return of normal investment activities to our markets, will result in advancing grain prices, without which we believe the return of prosperity will be indefinitely delayed."

The public stand taken by the exchanges last night, coming on the eve of the Democratic party's consideration of farm relief, was regarded in agricultural circles as adding to the strength of a similar stand expressed a few weeks ago by T. R. Cain, president of the Farmers' National Grain Dealers' association, with nearly a half million farmers elevator stockholders in its membership.

Wilson and Parker were placed on probation after they had been sentenced to prison by Judge Williams for robbery. They held up several drug stores.

ELEVEN JURORS PROTEST FREEING OF McGEOGHEGAN

CRIMINAL COURT.

Stanley Wnukowski, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Ralph Root, bigamy, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

WALKER BUTLER.

The eleven jurors who voted to convict Daniel McGeoghegan, gangster, at his first trial for the robbery of the State Bank of Clearing of $60,000 in December, 1930, joined in the protest yesterday against the action of Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler in entering a nol pros in the case. The jurors stood 11 to 1 for conviction at the time they were discharged by Judge John Prystalski after 24 hours of deliberation. The judge indicated a willingness to start a second trial promptly.

Several of the jurors expressed themselves as of the opinion that a guilty verdict would have been obtained at the first trial if the assistant prosecutor had used a little more care in the selection of the men to make up the jury.

Mistake, This Juror Says.

"It seems to me that it was a sad mistake of the state to enter a nol pros in the case," said George Jahn, 4132 North Claremont avenue, one of the jurors. "The selection of the jurors could have been a little more careful. Men from certain districts, who are always prejudiced against policemen and courts, should not be taken on juries."

"It was an injustice to the people of the state to have the case dismissed," said Alfred T. Lavigne, 5015 Cullom avenue, another juror. "I felt that Judge Prystalski did everything he could. He impressed me as being fair and level headed."

"I cannot understand why he could not convince one of the jurors in that case," said Carl Frey, 7639 Eastlake terrace. "No reason, logic, or argument could sway him. The state had a good case against McGeoghegan and there is no reason why he could not have been convicted. I can't understand why the state dropped the case. The only thing that occurred to me is that the prosecutor may have been intimidated or something."

Seeks to Reinstate Case.

While State's Attorney Swanson, who says that his assistant took the nol pros action without consulting him, was waiting for the result of conferences before he would decide what to do, Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission, took the initiative yesterday in trying to get the case reinstated. He appeared as the friend of the court.

"It seems to me that it could be better in the interests of the administration of justice to try this case on its merits," said Chamberlin in court. "I understand that the complaining witnesses do not care to continue the prosecution, but after all this is a case of the people and their protection is of greater importance than the convenience of witnesses.

Judge Prystalski told Chamberlin to file a proper petition and to serve notice on the state's attorney's office and then he would consider the matter. Chamberlin did not say what he would do.

Henry Isham, president of the Clearing bank, could not be reached yesterday to be asked whether he would be at the state's attorney's conference today to urge Lampert Bere, vice president and cashier, and John Gamphouse, manager of real estate for the bank, to agree to become witnesses against McGeoghegan again.

SOVETSKY GOES ON TRIAL FOR STOLEN GOODS

JOHN SOVETSKY.

John Sovetsky, known as the "million dollar fence," went to trial yesterday before a jury in the federal court of Judge John P. Barnes on charges of receiving and possessing goods stolen from interstate shipments. A co-defendant with Sovetsky is Sam Ginsberg, a partner in his store at 6284 South Western avenue, where part of the stolen goods were found. Federal statutes provide a maximum punishment of 10 years on each of the two charges.

The jury was selected rapidly, but five veniremen being excused—four by the defense and one by the court because he had served in a similar trial. Assistant United States District Attorney Benjamin M. Landis opened for the government. He said that testimony would show that clothing valued at $10,000 had been stolen and received by Sovetsky and Ginsberg.

Stolen from Freight Car.

One shipment was stolen from a Pennsylvania railroad box car at 35th street and South Chicago avenue on March 1, 1932, Landis said. The government will prove that two hours after the theft Sovetsky telephoned an expressman and asked him to bring a truck to the scene of the theft, Landis asserted. He said that witnesses would testify that the clothing was taken by the expressman to the Sovetsky store.

The other shipment of clothing was taken from a Great Western railroad car in September, 1931, the prosecutor said. For the entire lot of clothing stolen in the two thefts, Sovetsky paid but $1,600, Landis told the jury. He said that the government would produce witnesses to prove that part of the loot was sold to a Wisconsin merchant for $500.

Clothing Used as Evidence.

Stolen clothing valued at $5,000 was brought into the court to be used as evidence. Employés of the Kuppenheimer Clothing company were placed on the stand at the start of the trial to identify bills of lading, shipment orders and invoices to prove that the clothing had been shipped by that concern.

Prosecutor Landis estimated that the case would last until next Thursday. Sovetsky first gained notice in 1925 when he was accused of being the fence to whom merchandise stolen from stores in Green Bay, Wis., was sold. Gov. Small refused to honor extradition papers at the time and Sovetsky did not have to stand trial. He was convicted twice in Cook county courts of receiving stolen goods, but the convictions were reversed by the Supreme court, the last one in April, 1931.

Prosecutor Landis announced at the close of court yesterday that sixty-seven witnesses will be called by the government. He said ten days would be necessary for the case.

YARROW FREED BY JUDGE IN SECOND BOOK CASE HEARING

PHILIP YARROW.

Philip Yarrow, reformer, won a directed verdict on technicalities yesterday in the second trial of the suit for $25,000, charging false imprisonment, brought against him by Walter L. Shaver, a bookseller. The verdict in favor of Yarrow was directed by Judge Michael L. McKinley in the Superior court. Attorney Cameron Latter took an appeal on behalf of Shaver.

George Brown, an investigator employed by Yarrow, entered Shaver's store on Dec. 15, 1929, and asked for a copy of "A Night in a Moorish Harem." Shaver did not have the book, but said he would get it for Brown. He delivered it to Brown the following evening, and was immediately arrested by police, who entered the shop, accompanied by Yarrow.

Shaver, charged with selling obscene literature, was acquitted, and soon afterward entered suit against Yarrow.

Yesterday Judge McKinley held that there was a variance between Shaver's bill of complaint, which charged that Yarrow had caused his arrest on a warrant, and the testimony, which showed that Yarrow had not got the warrant until the day after the arrest.

In the first trial of the suit, a jury awarded Shaver damages of $5,000. Yarrow refused to pay, and spent some time in the county jail before friends supplied bond for him. The first verdict was set aside by the Appellate court.

Woman Doctor Exonerated in Death of Girl Patient

EDELSTEIN SEEKS TO DODGE JAIL TERM FOR GRAFT

Question Put Up to State; Case Continued.

Martin Edelstein, brother-in-law of the late Michael Rosenberg and of Moe Rosenberg, both Democratic political leaders, went before Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court yesterday to ask that he be relieved of the three months' jail sentence imposed on him as one of the conspirators in the sanitary district graft case. The state's attorney's office said it would not oppose "anything" that Judge Fisher wanted to do in the case, and would not make any recommendations in court.

Judge Fisher took the stand that it was up to the prosecution to make a recommendation and said that he was ready to receive it. After almost a day of discussion as to who should assume responsibility, the case was continued until July 5.

Judge James J. Kelly, who was one of the three judges sitting en banc in the trial of Timothy Crowe and the other sanitary district officials and ex-officials, said he wanted to see "some evidence" as to why Edelstein should not be punished for using the public pay roll to pay for his household servants.

Edelstein, according to his attorney, will be ready to take the witness stand at the next hearing and testify that the maid and other employés of the Edelstein household actually did work for the sanitary district and that he cashed their checks for them merely as an accommodation.

In behalf of Edelstein a petition was filed showing that the large bank account credited to him was not his money but belonged to the late Michael Rosenberg and to political organizations. Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keele said he had investigated the bank accounts and found this to be true.

SACCO AND VANZETTI SYMPATHIZER NAMED TO STATE HIGH COURT

Boston, Mass., June 22.—(AP)—Prof. Felix Frankfurter, champion of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals, whose death sentences and executions for murder had reverberations throughout the world, today was nominated by Gov. Joseph B. Ely for a place on the Massachusetts Supreme court bench.

The nomination required the approval of the executive council which probably will act on it next week.

Prof. Frankfurter, widely known as a liberal and legal authority, was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of Justice George A. Sanderson.

Gov. Ely said after the nomination was made public that Prof. Frankfurter had the indorsement of such high members of the judiciary as Oliver Wendell Holmes, Louis Brandeis and Benjamin N. Cardozo.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday reversed the decision of Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick at South Bend, Ind., which awarded William A. Patten charged that the Dodge company ceased to pay him royalties on pulley patents which were due him under a contract.

Chicago Opera Abandoned for Coming Season

Present Company Will Be Liquidated.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THE Civic Opera company has lowered its final curtain. Its music has passed into the silence. A brief statement from the company's trustees, sent out after a meeting yesterday, tells the tale.

"After giving the matter most careful consideration, the trustees of the Chicago Civic Opera company have definitely but reluctantly come to the conclusion that, in view of the economic conditions now prevailing and the impossibility of determining what the future may bring, they would not be warranted in proceeding with arrangements for a season of opera during the coming winter.

"The resignation of Mr. Samuel Insull as president was accepted and no action was taken with reference to electing his successor."

The real crux of the situation, according to one of the trustees who asked not to be quoted directly, was the opera company's accumulation of debts, the deficit of last season, and fragments of deficits from foregoing seasons. No figures as to the amounts could be obtained from company officials, but a previous estimate set last season's deficit at something between $500,000 and $700,000.

Lacking the "magnificent angel," in the words of the same trustee, which means Mr. Insull, who had been able to divert something like $350,000 from his private resources to the aid of the company, and with no one able or willing to take his place, also with the guaranty drive practically at a standstill, the decision to cancel the coming season was reached.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, as senior vice president of the company, presided at the meeting, but the subject of his taking over the leadership of the organization was not touched upon. As the future business of the trustees will consist mainly of liquidating the affairs of the company, it was considered unnecessary to elect a new president.

The future of the opera house and its home, 20 Wacker drive, held in trust for the opera company but under two mortgages amounting to $17,500,000, was also left out of the discussion. It was considered a separate and by no means easy problem.

Nothing was said as to whether the cancellation of the opera season was to extend for one year, a term of years, or permanently, but several of the trustees expressed opinions after the meeting that some time in the future the project will be revived.

"This is only a temporary suspension," said Stanley Field, secretary-treasurer of the company, in whose office the meeting was held. "It does not mean that opera has been abandoned in Chicago."

According to the best information possible at the time, resumption of opera in Chicago will come after a complete reorganization, the wiping out of the present Civic Opera company, and the formation of a new operatic corporation.

Another Group of 90 to Go to Camp Algonquin Today

Another group of 90 mothers and children from the poorer districts of the city will leave today over the Chicago and North Western railroad for a two weeks' vacation at Camp Algonquin. The first visitors reached the camp on Tuesday. A third delegation of 100 undernourished children will be sent the first of July to spend the summer under the care of dieticians and nurses.

Yesterday the camp got down to business organizing the schedule for the next two weeks. Some of the mothers were elected housekeepers to see that their dormitories were kept in apple pie order. The older boys and girls started off on hikes to explore the hills surrounding the camp. The kindergarten children assembled in a wing of the nursery for their first lessons while the toddlers played in their enclosed play yard and the babies slept in their cribs on the screened porch.

Every one entered enthusiastically into the camp program, and not a few found time to voice to Mrs. Astrid Save, camp superintendent, their gratitude for being allowed to come.

It takes money to give these folks camp outings. It costs ten dollars to send one person to Algonquin for two weeks. Your gift may be directed to the fund in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE.

Crinkled Crepe Scores Hit of New Fashions

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THERE are probably scores of shoppers who never fret or worry about finding new things around the town to spend their money on . . . but for those pessimistic souls who are laboring under the impression that the summer doldrums are upon us, that nothing to get excited about will appear until much later in the season, a few startling and new hints will now be launched to whet their appetites.

Did you know that there is a very unusual and most successful new material being used for evening gowns, the sort of gowns that can be bought now and worn way late into another season with equal charm and chic? Remember the old fashioned deep crinkled crêpe silk that was an essential part of the mysterious drapings of a ravishing widow's weeds of long ago? Well, that's the stuff Schiaparelli, the youngest and most promising designer, has used in white for slinky new evening creations.

One model is fashioned with classic Greek simplicity, with long trailing skirt with just a suspicion of a train . . . the bodice goes into criss-cross formation with bands of shaded blue ranging from deep ultramarine to a clear cobalt blue. Other similarly interesting models are fashioned all in white.

There are new white hats which will either make you smile in derision or charm you instantly with the rakish skyline they effect . . . they look exactly like the tin helmets that the A. E. F. wore. The crown is copied faithfully and the brims are just as shallow and the model can be slapped on your head with all the cocky insolence that marked the best war time effects.

You can buy them in white linen, fine pique, silk crêpe, or rough weaves . . . you can choose very tailored models with a simple stitched band and perky bow, or you can find the silk crêpes daintily decorated with a wreath of tiny buds around the half of the crown and the other half tucked under the brim . . . and as an added bit of flattery a tiny wisp of a coarse net veil winks over the left eye!

You are going to see lots of dotted Swiss frocks around during the next few weeks . . . crisp, cool, little things for street wear, that you can really grap for your own for ridiculously small sums.

Navy blue affairs, dotted with white, are coolly sleeveless and have wide white organdy collars made of bands helds together with white fagoting . . . big pearl buttons in double rows decorate a scarlet dress of this white dotted Swiss with some exciting results . . . dotted Swiss is just about the coolest summer material which can be had, and it is especially interesting for the gals who like its fresh crispness far better than the cool but limp folds of the likewise cool chiffon.

There are all kinds of new blouses also made of dotted Swiss, smart little accents for white or colored linen suits . . . some newly arrived styles have surplice collars and cuffs [on the short sleeves] of colored dotted stuff as a contrast for the clear plain white of the rest of the blouse.

Sophisticated youngsters with plenty of appreciative imagination are going to buy brimmed hats for their afternoon organdies and Swiss dresses, also of organdy and dotted Swiss . . . the wide, floppy brims will flatter sun tan and even a few golden freckles just a bit better than any other kind of a sheer hat!

Regular Exercise Provides Needed Tone to Muscles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As said yesterday, you cannot beat the reducing game, permanently, with diet alone. That is, and feel topnotch and active. You can, of course, keep the weight at a certain figure by watching the scales and calories daily. But my observation is that the perfect reducing job has to be done with enough exercise to give the muscles tone.

Another thing, we're not an idle sex. We all have work to do, work of some kind. If we could loll around, be waited on constantly, suffer the state of inertia common to many of the dieted-only flesh reductions, we could worry along. But that sort of woman behavior is past history. And th. modern activity expected of woman demands good muscle tone and snap.

So, if you won't play tennis, golf, row, swim, ride horseback, or walk two miles daily, you must establish some morning calisthenics habit that will make the muscles work. It need not be a strenuous daily dosen. It needn't be a dozen even. It need be only one or two or three good, all round exercises—but something must be done every morning or every day. When you feel heavy and awkward that feeling comes from sluggish muscles. If you are constantly tired your muscles need stimulating.

You see, when women did conduct houses where there was much work to to be done, there wasn't the need of talking muscle activity to them. They got it running up and down stairs, up to the attic, down to the cellar. They got it swinging the old broom and getting up and down with the dusting cloth. Modern housekeeping devices have eliminated much of that form of muscular activity. Since an unused muscle must become a flabby muscle in time, you see yourself the dire need of some sort of daily limbering.

If you haven't been doing any exercise, don't go at it with that sort of hectic enthusiasm that leaves you sore for days. Take it easy for the first week or two. Choose one or two good exercises, and don't do them too vigorously as first. Easy—and gradually increase the vigor of the performance and the number of repititions. Thus you will avoid stiffness and early discouragement.

But, be reasonable with yourself about this constant muscle inertia, and try to realize how it is tied up with fat accumulation and real age signs.

Good Morning!

Another Amkino silent, synchronized movie, produced with the deadly earnestness for which the Russian cinemas are famous, is on view at the Punch and Judy.

In "The New Babylon," the background for rebellion has receded from present to past—namely the Paris commune of 1871, and in a spirit of fierce resentment and a bitterness from which, it seems, the Muscovites will never be free, is presented the drama in which the bourgeoisie of that day defeated the proletariat in the latters' desperate attempt at self-government. Here is propaganda at its most radical. A picture calculated to inculcate hatred and unrest.

The story deals with episodes having to do with the Franco-Prussian war, and, more especially, with the removal of government headquarters from Paris and the decision of the soldiery to surrender—after the loyalists, believing them staunch, had shared with the men in uniform their last food and money.

There are striking views of the retreating troops moving determinedly away through a welter of rain, mud and darkness, of the nationalists and their ladies watching the destruction of Paris from an adjacent hill—"as it it were a great show"—and of the last furious attempt of the communists to save their city from the enemy by a futile barricade of cobblestones and household furniture.

It is all very dramatic and drastic. "The New Babylon," which, by the way, gets its name from a Parisian department store in the days of the war and commune, might have been noteworthy had it not a garrulous, rambling quality that makes it wearisome. Photography is not of the best. People jerk. One of the leading ladies appears to have a perpetual case of hiccoughs—and she is NOT that kind of a girl.

Symbolism and fact are jumbled together so that it's hard to tell where one leaves off and the other begins. Titles are in English. Acting is sincere and types are splendid as in all the Russian photoplays.

See you soon!

Longer Skirts Chief Fashion Change at French Race Meeting

AUTEUIL, France, June 22.—(AP)—Longer skirts dropped a fashion bombshell at the grand hurdles race here.

Fashionable women wore crêpe frocks, wool suits, and coats from 6 to 8 inches from the ground, indicating the possibility of skirts, longer by several inches, for fall.

Most important millinery features were hats with front brims turned up and trimmed with bows, or wings, and cut out turbans revealing the coiffure. Hats were worn forward on the head. Velvet was the outstanding material.

Mrs. Joy Morton Awarded Gold Ribbon at Wheaton Flower Show

Many Beautiful Displays at Annual Garden Club Exhibit; Tables Win High Praise.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE judges at the Wheaton Garden club's annual flower show held yesterday afternoon and evening in the indoor riding arena on the George A Stroms' estate had difficulty in choosing which of the many exhibits deserved the gold ribbon as the outstanding exhibit, there were so many lovely ones.

But finally Mrs. William Karcher of Freeport, Mrs. Douglas Pattison, also of Freeport, Mrs. George Arbeiter of Joliet, Mrs. Henry Faurot of Riverside, Mrs. R. R. Hammond of Barrington, Mrs. Joseph Callender of St. Charles, Charles Hudson of the Garfield park conservatories, and David K. McMillan of Chicago judged that Mrs. Joy Morton's large basket of delphinium should have the coveted gold ribbon, and that Mrs. Frank O. Wetmore's large basket of the same exquisite flowers should be awarded the silver ribbon.

Mrs. Morton and Mrs. Wetmore both carried home with them last night other ribbons, too,—blue, red, orange and white ones—showing that they had received firsts, seconds, thirds or honorable mention in various classes.

Mrs. Morton's bride's table had the blue ribbon pinned on it in the special occasion tables section, and a gorgeous table it was with its handsome Venetian lace cloth, dead white Spode china bowl holding sprays of double syringa blossoms, candlesticks to match with white candles, white glass goblets, finger bowls, and glasses with silver monograms and edges, and large silver leaves holding white candles. Cupids appropriately decorated the bowl and the candlesticks.

Mrs. Pardridge Gets Red Ribbon.

The red ribbon in this class was won by Mrs. Albert J. Pardridge with a table on which yellow linen doilies and runner were used with raspberry pink and gold service plate, gold and white glassware and yellow and orange snapdragons in a china bowl.

Another attractive table which was awarded an orange ribbon was arranged by Mrs. Arthur Cutten—a large red and white checked cloth covered it, and on it was a pottery donkey with its pack full of fruit, Italian pottery plates, glass beer mugs, pretzels standing up on skewers [very decorative they were, too] and a bowl of bunches of radishes which were as ornamental as they were delicious looking.

One of the most stunning exhibits was Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III.'s arrangement of lilium umbellatum [flame color lilies] in an enormous brass bowl. This received a special award, as did a doll's tea table arranged by little Louise Hay and Jean Holmes, a cunning table at which the little girls' dolls were sitting.

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick's arrangement of vegetables received first prize as being the most artistic arrangement. Lettuce, peas, white radishes, a head of cauliflower, onions, carrots, and beets were used by Mrs. McCormick.

To list all who received ribbons would take much more space than we have, but most of the women who were active in planning the show received ribbons for their exhibits. In connection with the show six of Wheaton's most beautiful gardens were opened to the public, including those of Mrs. George Plamondon, Mrs. Pardridge, Mrs. David Ward, Mrs. John J. Bryant, Mrs. Wetmore and Mrs. Edward N. Hurley.

Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster were among the early arrivals, reaching the show quite a bit before the opening, but they went over to the Chicago Golf club for luncheon when Mrs. Plamondon, chairman of the hospitality committee, explained that the show was not to be ready until 2. Mrs. Henry Rademacher is president of the club, and Mrs. H. S. Cosley was chairman of the show committee.

Chicago Girls to Bow at Court.

This is the night that two Chicago girls, Miss Louise Dewey and Miss Marjorie Goodman, will make their bows to English royalty and I'm sure all their friends here wish that they could see these two young girls in their court finery.

Neither of them will have to go through the harrowing (I imagine it would be fun at first) experience of sitting in motor cars or carriages for hours waiting to enter Buckingham palace, for they and their mothers, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey and Mrs. James M. Hopkins, are sharing an apartment at Rubens hotel, just opposite the palace, and so they will sit in their own rooms and await their turns to be presented to the king and queen.

Mrs. Dewey and her daughter will go to France in about a week to remain until mid-August and Mrs. Hopkins and her daughter will return to Lake Forest the last of July.

Despite Col. Albert A. Sprague's active interest in plans for the Democratic convention, he and Mrs. Sprague are at Concord, N. H., today for the graduation of their son, Otho Sprague, from St. Paul's school. They will return this week-end. Other Chicago boys who will return this week-end with their diplomas from St. Paul's are Bruce Babcock, son of the Orville Babcocks, and Richard F. Baum, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Baum of Lake Forest.

Mrs. Howard Elting, who has been in New York for a fortnight, will go to Cambridge today for the graduation of her son, Byron Elting, from Harvard. Robert McCormick Ayer Jr. is also a member of the Harvard graduating class. The senior Ayers and their daughter, Miss Janet Ayer, are at the family summer place in Bar Harbor.

Jean McVoy on College Tour.

Any hopes that Miss Jean McVoy might come home to make her debut next fall will have to be dispelled now that the young lady has decided instead to join the 500 students who will sail next October on the American Floating University tour of the world.

Jean is the daughter of Mrs. Fortunato Jerace of Rome (the former Mrs. Eugene McVoy of Chicago) and has been residing with her sister, Mrs. John Holden of New York, formerly of Chicago. She attended St. Mary's of the Woods and Miss Harris' school in Chicago before entering Miss Bennett's finishing school at New York.

During the last year she has been attending Columbia university. She is to serve as a member of the social committee during the seven months' tour of the floating university.

Miss McVoy is at Pentwater, Mich., for the summer. Mrs. Holden will come on from New York to join her soon, and her other sister, Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham Jr. of 220 East Pearson street, will go up for week-ends with Mr. Gorham and their youngster.

At a recent meeting at the Lake Forest residence of Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy more than thirty prominent North Shore women were enlisted to work for the American Red Cross among the growing number of patients at the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

The women will work under the direction of the Red Cross staff at the hospital as aids and will render personal services for individual patients in accordance with the advice of the medical officers.

After a series of lectures in the Red Cross hut at the hospital the group will report to the Red Cross supervisor. When they have become proficient in the work a Red Cross Lady corps will be formed in Lake Forest and the nearby suburbs.

Among those who have volunteered to give their time to this splendid cause are Mrs. Charles T. Atkinson, Mrs. Allen Bell, Mrs. Henry S. Bunting, Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, Mrs. Willard N. Boyden, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. Thomas A. Conners, Mrs. Albert Black Dick Jr., Mrs. Edison Dick, Mrs. Eugene Fauntleroy, Mrs. Edward L. Hasler, Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Mrs. Robert Hixon, Mrs. Harry C. Holloway, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, Mrs. Richard Mabbatt, Mrs. Logan T. McMenemy, Mrs. W. Paul McBride, Mrs. Milton Milton Morse, Miss Madeleine Newell, Mrs. John C. Picher, Miss Marousea Russell, Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Miss Martha Sarver, Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart, Mrs. George A. Seaverns Jr., Mrs. Richard D. Stevenson, Mrs. H. Foster Straw Jr., Mrs. Stuart Templeton, Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker, and Mrs. Stanley L. Yonce.

They will meet on Monday for their first lecture on customs and practices at the hospital.

Myra Colburn Sets Wedding Date.

Myra Standish Colburn, whose engagement to Allen Thorndike Perry of Cleveland was announced early this month by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Standish Colburn of Evanston, has decided on Saturday, Sept. 17, as the date of her wedding. The ceremony will be performed at St. Luke's in Evanston and will be followed by a small reception at the Standish residence. The time of the service has not bene set, but it will be an afternoon wedding. The couple will reside in Cleveland.

Miss Katherine Schaffner of Ravine drive, Highland Park, is to be hostess this afternoon at a picnic lunch and beach party to benefit the Alumni Association of the University School for Girls. Guests have been instructed to wear old clothes and to bring their swimming suits.

All the lovely things made under the auspices of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins will be available to the public today at a sale at the Lake Forest residence of Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr. at 1050 Green Bay road. Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III. will be in charge of the corps of saleswomen.

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, a year older than Esmee, is mingling in bad company. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband. Jimmy Consadine, a crook-lawyer, forces Lew, whom he has in his power, to introduce his sister. Esmee is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a young playwright, imbued with the futility of life. It's love at first sight. Esmee feels his need of her is real. Claire Cowley, Michael's sister, tells Esmee that Michael is engaged. But Michael tells her his engagement is broken; that he can't live without her. And wants to marry her. Esmee tries unsuccessfully to break with Jimmy. He accuses her of double crossing him and threatens to have Lew sent to jail. Esmee drives out to the country with him on Sunday. He forces her to accompany him to a roadhouse, where his word is law. Michael, who has trailed Jimmy's car, breaks in and rescues her. Jimmy swears he'll have Michael killed. Esmee doesn't want to tell Michael about Lew. She's afraid of Jimmy's evil power. Michael takes Esmee to spend the night at Claire's and drives her to her office next morning. They go for a drive in the evening. Esmee sees a car following. As it comes alongside she throws her arms around Michael and receives the bullet intended for him. When she regains consciousness she is at Claire's. Her mother is there and Michael is safe.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

A THREATENED SCANDAL.

"But she couldn't help noticing he had a weak heart," said the nurse.

"It's outrageous," said Michael. "Don't you see how it would ruin anything? How do I know you're thinking now—about me?"

"O, you're all right," said she, disconcerted.

"I'd like to do a play about a nurse," said Michael. "A nurse in love—and the effect of her experience and her knowledge upon her emotion."

"But—nurses aren't different!" she protested. "Why, think of doctors."

"I never do," said Michael. "And anyhow, there's no possible way for comparing women with men."

"I guess you sort of look down on women," said the young nurse.

"Look down on them!" said Michael. "Merciful heaven! My dear girl, I'm afraid of them. They're——"

Esmee could endure no more of this.

"May I please have a glass of water?" she asked in a clear voice.

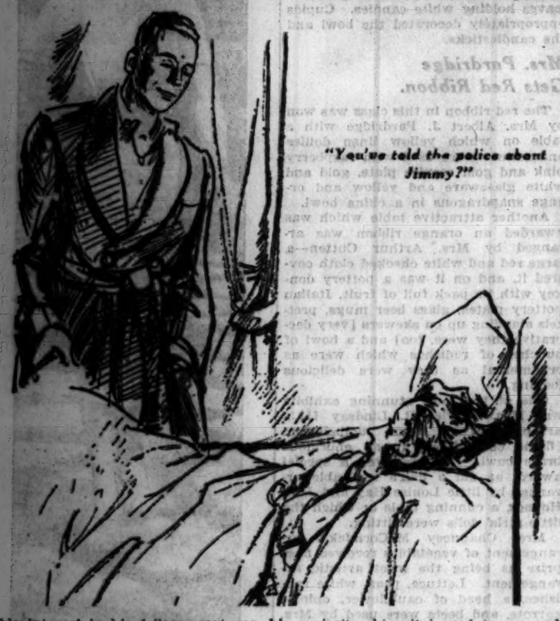
"Esmee—Esmee, darling. Better, Esmee?"

She looked to see that the nurse had gone out of the room.

"You weren't—thinking of me at all!" she said, in tears.

"Esmee—would it do you any harm if I kissed you? Wasn't thinking of you—? If you know—what the night's been—"

She could see now how haggard his face was. She did know, she did understand, what he had endured. And she understood, too, his unquenchable interest in his fellow creatures, his curiosity, his vital need to see and to know.



"You've told the police about Jimmy?"

"You told me," he said. "And I wouldn't believe you. And because I was such a damned, pig headed brutal fool, you nearly lost your life."

"I didn't, Michael. I'll be well again in just a little while. It's not serious, Michael."

"It's the most serious thing that ever happened in my life!" he said. "When that happened—when I held you in my arms, and I thought that you were dead——"

If she had been in Michael's place, and seen him white and lifeless——

"I took you to the doctor's," he said. "But—I felt sure it wasn't any good. It seemed to me I'd known from the beginning, that it was—too beautiful to last. As if I'd know—I'd have to lose you. And I thought that when he said you were dead—I'd take you away—back with me—and smash the car into a stone wall. So that I could go with you. Because there'd be nothing, without you."

"O, Michael, my boy!"

"I know how that fellow must have felt," he said, "to lose you. In a way, I hated telling the police——"

"You've—told the police?" she cried, and tried to sit up. But a sharp pain in her shoulder made her lie back again. "Michael"—she said in a voice that trembled uncontrollably—"O, can't it—be dropped?"

"I'd rather shoot the fellow myself, in a decent way," said Michael. "But as I've got life arranged now, I can't do that. I can't, on your account. There'd be too much of a row—scandal—all sorts of filth. Now I think it can be presented to the audience as a straight hold-up. I had to tell the police the fellow'd threatened me, but I hope that can be kept quiet."

"You've told the police—about Jimmy?"

"Had to, Esmee. And there'll have to be a trial—and all that rotten chicane. The police know him well enough. They've got nothing against him so far—and he's well protected. But as long as I can't wipe him out myself, he'll have to be handled according to the regulations. He'll go to jail—and probably he'd prefer a bullet."

"Nothing will happen to Jimmy," she thought. "As soon as there's any trouble for him, he'll throw Lew overboard. It's Lew who will pay. Will it be in the morning papers, Michael?" she asked.

"I'm afraid so."

Then before the law had seized him Lew would begin to pay. He would learn from the newspapers, if he had not known at the time, what he had done. Michael had spoken of a scandal. He had no faintest idea of what a monstrous scandal it would be. There would be not only Lew's agony, but her mother's. There would be disgrace and misery for Michael's people.

And nothing could stop it now. The police were already after Jimmy, and Jimmy would hand Lew to them. Jimmy would know how to protect himself.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Marriott," said the young nurse, "but Miss Sully will have to rest. She's been talking too much."

A complete change, there was now, in the young nurse. She was no longer the pretty girl who had been talking to Michael. She was a professional now, trained and disciplined to duty. She would say anything, do anything necessary, to protect her patient, at any cost to Michael.

He went at once, and the nurse drew up the shades, and turned out the lamp. It was day, another bright day. She bathed Esmee, and brushed her hair, and set the room in order.

"Would it tire you if Mrs. Cowley came in for just a moment?" she asked. "She's been so anxious——"

"O, no!" said Esmee, though in her heart she dreaded seeing Claire. But it was a different Claire who entered, pale, subdued, almost timid.

"I just had to see for myself," she said. "I—all last night Michael was—beside himself. I'd like to tell you—how we feel about your doing that for Michael. But I'm afraid I can't. I'll try to show you." She bent and kissed Esmee's forehead. "I'll try—the rest of my life—to show you."

After she had gone, Esmee dozed a little, and waked, to ask for her mother.

"She's downstairs at breakfast with Mr. and Mrs. Cowley," said the nurse. "Do you want her?"

"No, thank you. Only, it seems to stay early—for such a long time."

Later on the doctor came and changed the dressing on her shoulder.

"You're doing splendidly!" he said. "But you'll have to take it easy for a few days."

He smiled at her and she thought that in his face, and in the nurse's, and in Claire's, there was an almost intolerable kindness.

She was drowsy that morning, and dozed often. Her room was filled with flowers, but she did not note who had brought them, and did not trouble to ask. Her mother came in from time to time, once with Claire, who treated her with deference. Magnificently at home here, was Mrs. Sully, tranquil, amiable, almost august. Twice Michael came to the doorway and Esmee smiled at him. She wanted to talk to him, to hold his hand, but evidently he was not permitted to enter.

At noon the nurse brought her a light lunch, and Esmee ate.

"Now then!" said the nurse. "You've been so good about your lunch—I've got a little surprise for you. There's some one here I guess you'll be glad to see!"

"Who?" asked Esmee.

"Your brother," said the nurse, cheerfully.

Esmee lay back on the pillows and tried, deliberately, almost desperately, to make her breath come more slowly. Her heart was racing. It seemed to her that her lungs could not obtain the air to keep her alive.

Miss Spencer Writes Story of Mad Artist

Second Novel Disappoints Critic.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Quick and the Dead," by Claire Spencer. [Harrison Smith.] Published today.

CLAIRE SPENCER'S "Gallows' Orchard" created a sensation when it appeared two years ago—the first novel of a writer whose name had not already been known for short stories, the first published creative work, so far as I know, of its author. Rarely has a first novel had the critical acclaim and the international praise which it elicited. Whatever Claire Spencer might do in her second novel would be critical news to readers of reviews.

CLAIRE SPENCER.

What she has done in "The Quick and the Dead" is, to this reviewer at least, a keen disappointment. It is the life story of a young man whom the creative urge to paint drove to distraction. Born of his mother's gruelling hatred for love and love making he was foredoomed to neurasthenia, to maladjustment to life, and his major passion was to be alone in the world, alone to do the work which cried out in him to be done, jealous of every human touch which took his eyes even for a moment from his goal.

Miss Spencer chose in the character of her hero not only the embodiment of the so-called "artistic temperament" with its most savage virus, but the embodiment of the unloved child's adult fear of life and human contacts. Her hero is a spiritual mechanism of the most complicated sort, verging always on the slightly mad.

Says Author Mixes Methods.

It is not with her choice of material that I am disappointed. If an author chooses the most difficult possible task for himself all the more glory to him if it is brought off. But she does not seem to me to bring off "The Quick and the Dead." There are two ways in which a book about neurasthenics may be written—coldly, calmly, omnipotently from the point of view of the observer, or passionately, breathlessly, stabbingly realistically, from the point of view of the participants in the madness.

Miss Spencer has mixed up her methods. The book is written objectively in a style wholly subjective. If she had chosen to record the events in the book from the perspective of the hero, her style would have been an artistic reality, or if she had used her imagistic phrases only when they might have been the natural expression of the mental reactions of her characters. But the whole book is written in complicated, intricate imagery.

Like this for instance: "Peter's head wavered; his eyes rattled heavily after, following his head's movements like two marbles in a slanted box. Then his head chiddering with the hurt that the dry rattle of his eyes had made on his bones, bobbed softly up and down, like a soft, half-tethered balloon."

Or, "Her name tore up from his throat. It came jagged, like the screech of a saw when it tightens on a knot in a piece of wood. She caught the sound as it came toward her, sucked it in as a lizard does a fly. She closed her sharp, even teeth on it . . ."

Writing Is Too "Ecstatic."

It is possible that Peter might have been receiving the sight of a woman in these images: "He watched the slow drip of her legs as she sank down the stairs; each foot pat made a different colored sound, like notes of music. Her dress had a length of train that crawled distastefully after her. Her soft, heavy hands hung dangling by her sides; they brushed her flowing thighs, like half wilted lilies on a moving stream." But it is not Peter receiving that impression, one feels as one rereads it, but the author creating it.

Miss Spencer is, to my way of thinking too "ecstatic" in her writing. She has, to be sure, to deal with a super-ecstatic creature in her hero, but the other characters of her book are far from too tensely strung humans, a loud mouthed "artist" who lives with a bulbuous, dirty, oversexed woman who should have been the mother of twelve children instead of the mistress of one overgrown one, another oversexed woman who loves luxury more than she loves love, and a "mother" type of girl who mistakes her maternal concern for love. Not one of them has any ecstasy in his or her nature but the hero. And yet the book is almost jittery with overcharged emotion in every paragraph. Occasionally the prose is charged with a definite poetic rightness, but most of the time it seems to me to be mannered, without relation to the content, a kind of "modern prose" straining for an effect.

Also published today is "The Pilot Comes Aboard," by Will Levington Comfort, the story of an aristocratic southern youth with the lure of the sea in his blood. Unable to resist its call, he goes down to the sea in ships and takes the whole globe as his playground.

Can Husband Be Freed of Drink Habit?

Young Wife Brings Her Problem to Doris.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Is there a cure for drunkeness? Have any of you readers found a way of combating a husband's strong liquor taste? Do you know how family responsibility can be reëstablished in him? In the name of Mrs. P., we're asking you to volunteer your successful experience in handling a drink loving man whose faults are those directly allied with the liquor habit.

Mrs. P. and her husband have been married two years. There is a baby girl. Before her marriage, Mrs. P. knew he drank, but presumed that a man of his intelligence would know how to control the habit. She admits a broadminded viewpoint on the liquor subject, believing that moderation in all things is the ideal state of affairs.

When the man is sober, he is the most reasonable of beings and above the average in intelligence. He comes from a fine family and has a splendid education. He is a lawyer, and a good one, and should go far, but he is neglecting his work and ruining the fine mind and body that he has with the excessive use of liquor. It breaks his wife's heart to see him in such a position, to see him throwing away the money needed to pay bills. If she remonstrates with the man, he calls it nagging. He is out late night after night, and finds it necessary then to sleep late in the morning, rarely getting to his office before noon. The woman's father helps out financially.

"Ordinarily," she tells, "he loathes the idea of having to accept financial aid from me, but what can I do? We must live and eat. If it were not for this degrading weakness of his, I should have no need of advice, but should go on aiding him and be glad that I had the means to help.

"I have no thought of leaving him because I love him, and we have a little girl to think of. It's true that I can go on paying the bills, but I'm afraid that it is only making him weaker. I think he needs the responsibility, if he would only shoulder it. I have no doubt of his ultimate success if he would but 'swear off.' Moderation is a word that he cannot understand."

"Is there any cure? Is there any way I can help my husband over this weakness of his?" Mrs. P. pleads. "Would you ask your readers if among them there are wives who've been through this mill and brought the man out with flying colors? I would be eternally grateful."

Cardinal Hits Soft Living by Jolts on Chin

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

FALSE standards of soft living drawn from stories and movies that "glorify" social outlaws not only will be "taught" out of Catholic youth in parochial schools and churches, but also "knocked out" in a boxing ring in a great new Catholic athletic center.

The opening of such a center was announced yesterday by Cardinal Mundelein. It will occupy four of the seven floors of the Congress building, Congress street and Wabash avenue.

Speaking for Cardinal Mundelein on the project, Bishop Bernard J. Shell declared the announcement of the opening of the Catholic Youth Organization Athletic center, which follows that of the Holy Name Technical school, Lockport, is the church's second major effort within the last 30 days to meet needs brought on by changing social conditions. He stated that the new loop center is but the first step in a greater athletic project that will "make Chicago the greatest athletic center of the world."

The new center, a portion of which was occupied by Bensinger's bowling alleys, was obtained on a long term lease from Philip F. W. Peck, and is fitted with 52 bowling alleys, rubbing rooms, showers, gymnasium and all the refinements of a completely developed gymnastic club. Patrick [Packey] McFarland, former world's light weight champion boxer, has been engaged to head the fistic department, which, with bowling, will be major athletic enterprises. Bowling will be in charge of James C. [Jimmie] Archer, Cub catcher in the "Tinker to Evers to Chance" days. Archer is now the president of the Illinois Bowlers' association. Jack Elder, former Notre Dame football star, will assist McFarland, and Tim Timmons, secretary of the Holy Name Bowling association, will assist Archer.

In the cardinal's announcement it was said that the church is not interested in turning out professional boxers, but that "we are going to teach boys how to 'take it on the chin' if necessary, so that they also may face the world and its knocks bravely and with self-assurance.

"I know of no better method of combating present day indifferentism and false standards of soft living and easy money, as reflected by innumerable stories and movies glorifying gangsters and social outlaws, than by developing added interest in and greater appreciation of athletics."

Bishop Shell explained that the center will be available for boys and youth from all the parishes of the city. The expense of the center will be maintained by the Holy Name societies and other agencies, so that "it will not cost the boys who use it a cent." Bishop Shell pointed to the youth organization's development during the last few years. He said that more than 200,000 boys and young men of the archdiocese last year participated in its athletic program.

"The fact that 1,600 boys took part in the organization's boxing elimination contest last year," said Bishop Shiel, "makes it apparent that the science of gloves is scheduled to be one of the most popular sports taught. The center will be equipped with a regulation boxing ring and a large number of outstanding boxers of the youth organization will train there regularly."

The new center will be ready for the youth organization's occupancy within two weeks, Bishop Shiel said.

Maggy Rouff Buttons Summer Frock of Dotted Silk Crepe Down the Front

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—It is getting to be a real habit of the French dressmakers to supply women with a means of getting into their clothes other than the familiar slip-over-the-head method. In fact, it is snobbish and elegant to get into summer dresses by grandma's means of the button and button hole.

Schiaparelli and Maggy Rouff were the first to show this kind of dress in many years. Now Chanel has a lot of dresses that button up and down the front. It is claimed for them that they come off easier. I don't know about that, but they seem novel, and that is sufficient reason for the chasers after the chimera of style.

Schiaparelli buttons her frocks down the side back. Maggy Rouff makes her closings straight in front, as you can see by looking at the accompanying sketch, which represents a summer frock of blue and white dotted crêpe from this house. The buttons of this tailored frock are blue bone. The boyish collar is blue linen and so is the bow that fastens the crush belt. The ragian sleeves are three-quarters length and loose, a good cut for hot weather. Four set in pockets decorate the front of the frock and the skirt is flared by plaited godets.

In the background the artist has sketched the little waistline length jacket that makes this an ensemble. This jacket closes surplice wise and the loose sleeves are tucked at the top.

Young Chaney Gets Title Role in R.K.O. Movie

Lon's Brother Pens Story of Actor's Life.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 22.—George Chaney, brother of the late Lon Chaney, is in Hollywood from Colorado collecting data for a book about his brother's life.

Creighton Chaney, Lon Chaney's son, is cast for the main rôle in the Radio-RKO photoplay serial, "The Last Frontier," a Courtney Riley Cooper story, which makes the tenth film group to be working for this one company in the foremost summer attack on the depression in the film industry.

Radio has so many companies working now that the overflow has been assigned to the reopened Pathé industry in Culver City. Dorothy Gulliver, Francis Bushman, Yakami Canute, a former film cowboy star; Bill Desmond, Joe Bonomo, one time wrestling headliner, and Judith Barry are in the cast which supports young Chaney.

Sam Mintz has been borrowed from Paramount by Radio to sponsor Orphan Annie's movie adventures. He will weave the cartoon waif's life story into film plot form and John Robertson will be the director. Mitzi Green is expected back soon from a stage tour to appear as Annie.

Vicki Baum has been placed under a writer's contract by MGM and the authoress of "Grand Hotel" will arrive with her typewriter in three weeks.

Lily Damita's romances keep coming and going. She and Gilbert Roland, her new regular escort, were posing on the beach in the stylish Hollywood summer shorts. Some one asked if Lily and Gilbert were engaged. "No, we are good friends," Damita beamed. Pretty soon some one else asked about the status of her formerly much mentioned engagement to Sidney Smith. "O, we are good friends also," she said.

Lionel Barrymore has presented his brother John with a unique gift. It's a sketch of John's yacht, which Lionel drew from the yacht club anchorage at San Piedro.

As a witness in a court suit brought by Alma Rubens' mother here Zasu Pitts testified: "I cannot remember names of Miss Rubens' films, but that is not strange because I do not attend movies. I have never gone to my own and very seldom to any of the others."

First Class of Motley School Will Honor Their Teacher

Thirty years ago this June Miss Kate Ford, the assistant principal of the Motley elementary school, awarded diplomas to 31 pupils, the first class ever graduated from the eighth grade there. Tomorrow night members of the class will give a dinner for Miss Ford at the Knickerbocker hotel. Mrs. Helen Simonson Teven, 6973 Sheridan road, one of the pupils, will read the same class prophecy that she read at the graduation exercises in 1902. Miss Ford retired from the teaching force in November of 1928. She lives at 6120 Wayne avenue.

Seattle, Wash., June 22.—(AP)—Rotary was described by Mrs. James W. Davidson of Vancouver, B. Did you ever try serving beef gravy on ice cream?

Or cream and sugar on sardines?

Or mustard on chocolate pudding?

Let us hope not! For, while each of these accompaniments is delicious in itself and utterly delectable served on exactly the right food, we would no more think of spreading them indiscriminately over the dishes respectively mentioned than we would of appearing on the golf course in oxfords and a satin evening gown or at a wedding in tweeds and velvet slippers.

Some things are simply born to go together—and other things do well to stay far, far apart.

And yet, heartily as you will agree with me on these perfectly obvious points, I wonder if you are not making combinations just as incongruous without realizing it—namely, in salads and salad dressings. There are simply countless different dressings clamoring for a chance to enhance and complement the flavors of cool crisp salads this summer. And yet in nine cases out of ten it is either plain French dressing or plain mayonnaise with which every salad—meat, vegetable, fruit, and seafood—is drowned, while an utterly tempting array of appropriate dressings mourns on the sidelines.

For instance, in my estimation a hearty tuna fish luncheon salad would simply die of mortification if it found itself served up with boiled dressing, no matter how good that dressing might be on vegetable or fruit salads. But Ravigote Dressing—ah, that's a different matter! Here is a most delicious recipe for this most aristocratic of dressings:

RAVIGOTE DRESSING.

4 hard cooked egg yolks
¼ cup salad oil
¼ cup cream
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mustard
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Dash of paprika
1 tablespoon cider vinegar

Mash the egg yolks until smooth and blend with the oil and remaining ingredients. If desired, stir in two tablespoons of minced hard cooked egg whites and one tablespoon of minced parsley. Pour this flavorsome mixture over tuna salad—and hark to the applause.

And don't forget that any recipe, and especially a simple basic one, is merely a starting point. An endless assortment of pleasant variations may be produced by a little venturous experimenting. For instance, when your mayonnaise formula calls for powdered sugar—use honey instead. It makes a most scrumptious companion for a simple apple and nut supper salad. Thick fruit sirups, conserves, or thin jellies provide equally tantalizing opportunities to vary the flavor. Or a change of vinegars—tarragon, wine, or apple cider—will lend tangy interest.

Mayonnaise becomes a perfect accompaniment for fruit salad if beaten lustily with whipped cream and currant jelly. Use one cup of the dressing with two tablespoons each of the cream and jelly. For that very pale potato or other vegetable salad which needs brightening, blend two tablespoons of sieved cooked spinach with one cup of mayonnaise and serve.

The following table gives you in tabloid form the very latest news on what the well dressed salad is wearing this season. Those marked with asterisks have been included (among many others) in a TRIBUNE booklet of simple salad dressings. "No laundry bills for handkerchiefs!"
now we're all using KLEENEX
disposable tissues

"I CERTAINLY cut down our laundry bills when I started using Kleenex for handkerchiefs!" What a joy to find a way to economize without hardship!

Kleenex is a real pleasure to use. It's a handkerchief-size tissue, made of rayon-cellulose, and is far softer than any handkerchief made of linen, silk or cotton.

Kleenex is many times more absorbent, too—therefore is a great comfort during hay fever or colds.

But here's the big thing about Kleenex. Once used, you simply destroy it! No washing. No laundry bills. No storing away in laundry bags, to scatter germs through clothing.

Kleenex costs so little. You can use many tissues for the price of having one handkerchief laundered! Kleenex is handy in other ways, too—for polishing spectacles, for a quick shoe-shine—for shining bathroom fixtures. And ideal for removing cosmetics.

'KERFS

HOOSIER EDITORS MOVE TO INSURE PRESS FREEDOM

Wabash Man Leads Fight for Legislation.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wabash, Ind., June 22.—[Special.]—Freedom of the press in Indiana has come so dangerously close to being no freedom at all that some editors in the Hoosier state have been demanding protective measures.

Laws governing contempt of court and libel have been so interpreted by the Indiana Supreme court as to render a newspaper publisher in peril whenever he essays to attack judicial or other official corruption.

The latest victim of Indiana's constricted "freedom" of the press is Don M. Nixon, publisher of the Wabash Plain Dealer, who is appealing from a jail sentence imposed upon him for his published attacks upon a local judge who appointed an incompetent man as receiver for a large Wabash bank. Mr. Nixon announced today that in view of the previous decisions of the Indiana Supreme court, some of which have been cited as notoriously subversive of constitutional rights, he believed an attempt should be made to obtain legislative relief.

Wants Legislative Action.

"The legislature should take steps to restore that privilege for citizens and press to speak and print their views, a privilege which the courts of Indiana have about canceled," Mr. Nixon declared.

"I believe every Indiana editor should join in the preparation of legislation which will repeal the present gag laws, and which will restate the constitutional rights of free speech and free printing which have been taken away arbitrarily by the judiciary.

"I will propose such legislation at the next conference of the Indiana Republican Editors' association, and I am confident that with the united support of the Hoosier press behind it, such a program would be adopted by the legislature.

"But even if we should fail, I am convinced that these issues should be taken before the United States Supreme court, for they are violative of our federal constitution as much as they are violative of the Indiana constitution."

Constitution Is Quoted.

The Indiana constitution contains the following article intended to establish freedom of speech:

"No law shall be passed restraining the free interchange of thought and opinion, or restricting the right to speak, write, or print freely on any subject whatsoever; but, for the abuse of that right, every person shall be responsible."

The courts have relied on the last phrase of the article as establishing their right to punish for contempt, but some lawyers have argued that if an editor abuses his right, and publishes false or scandalous matter, he may be indicted for criminal libel and be brought to trial, not before a judge, but by a jury of his peers.

SEEKS TO OFFER EVIDENCE HITTING WEST PK. BOARD

J. W. Harris, state representative from the 21st district, announced yesterday that he will appear before Chief Justice Fisher of the Criminal court this morning and ask permission to present to the special grand jury specific complaints against the west park board.

"Taxpayers have sought my help," said Harris, "and we are ready to present the testimony of William Baumgarden, a discharged foreman, that the pay roll carried names of many men who did no work. I have records to show that a good carpet was taken out of the administration building and was laid in the 37th Ward Republican club headquarters. And the board has failed to comply with the act of 1929 requiring all municipal corporations in Cook county to file their pay rolls with the county clerk, the city clerk, and the public librarian."

"Politics!" was the only comment of W. R. James, president of the park board, when he was found at Springfield. Harris was defeated for renomination in April. The James organization opposed him.

NEW ALDERMAN SWORN IN

Henry Sonnenschein, elected to fill vacancy in 22d ward, being given oath by Peter J. Brady, city clerk. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BOY'S ARM IS CRUSHED, BUT HE FAILS TO CRY

Washington, D. C., June 22.—(AP)—It took 31 minutes for a rescue squad to free 17 year old Jim Perley as he hung by a crushed arm caught between an elevator and a jammed door, but all he said was: "Hurry up, or I'll miss supper."

The boy, carrying newspapers to an apartment house, was caught between the inner and outer doors of an automatic elevator, as it started to an upper floor. His left arm tangled and he was dragged swinging to the fourth floor before the car jammed.

They got him loose with ropes and crowbars at last, without ever hearing a moan. At a hospital doctors said his arm probably will be saved.

Only One Salary

Henry Sonnenschein, secretary to Mayor Cermak, who on Tuesday was elected alderman of the 22d ward, was sworn into his new office yesterday by City Clerk Brady. Afterward Sonnenschein announced that he will take only one salary from the city, that of alderman. Although stating that he will not take a salary from the city for his job as the mayor's secretary, he said that a decision as to whether he or some one else will hold the secretary's job is for the mayor to make. Before running for alderman Sonnenschein resigned from his nomination for state representative.

BRAZIL CABINET QUITS; PRESIDENT SIGNS IT UP AGAIN

New Air Revolt Is Quelled in Chile.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, June 22.—The entire Brazilian cabinet today presented its resignation to Getulio Vargas, provisional president. President Vargas, however, refused to accept the resignations and the cabinet members agreed to continue to serve. Vargas also announced that he had filled two posts already vacant.

Gen. Flores da Cunha, prominent as a mediator in the revolt in April this year in the state of Rio Grande do Sul, was named as minister of justice. Morraes Barros was appointed minister of agriculture.

Although the underlying reasons for the day's maneuvers were not divulged, it was understood that the resignations were offered in order to give President Vargas opportunity to reorganize the government as he wished. The reappointed cabinet members agreed willingly to continue in their posts.

Led Revolt in 1930.

Vargas was swept into office by a revolution originating in Rio Grande do Sul in October, 1930. He previously had been an unsuccessful Liberal candidate for the presidency.

His first move was to announce that as soon as the people of Brazil showed they were able to take the responsibility for constitutional elections such elections would be held. He used this as justification for his retention of the power in 1931, in which year he was forced twice, in April and in October, to use his army to suppress revolts.

His rule was last endangered in April of this year when the southern republicans, impatient, demanded that he set a date for a constitutional election. Finally, on May 14, he set the date for May 3, 1933.

Martial Law Quiets Chile.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 22.—Santiago was in unusual repose tonight as a result of strict application of martial law. All traffic was suspended and the populace was not allowed on the streets on any account unless a special permit was given by the authorities. Officials were prepared to take drastic steps against disorders.

Schools and other activities in Santiago were suspended until the month-end and other measures were adopted for the safety of the people. Denying insistent rumors of mutinies in army units, the commander officially stated he has full confidence in regiments within and without the cities. The governor's palace at Valparaiso is well guarded by cadets of the naval academy.

Railroads, under army control, are operating with the exception of night services. The sale of alcoholic drinks has been totally suspended for sixty days outside the center of the city, where business is obliged to close at 9 p. m., together with theaters and restaurants.

WIFE IS GRANTED DECREE; ARREST OF MATE ORDERED

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday granted Mrs. Kathryn Nelson Read, 1019 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, a decree of separate maintenance from Fred J. Read, former cashier of the Central Republic company. Then he issued a bench warrant charging Read with kidnaping his daughter, Carol Elizabeth, 9 years old.

Read and the child are still missing. He took the girl on Mother's day and fled after a preliminary hearing of the separate maintenance case.

Mrs. Read was granted alimony of $140 a month, $500 solicitors' fees and a judgment for $460 for alimony arrears owed by Read under a temporary order. She separated from her husband in June, 1928. Her suit named Mrs. Ethel Much, who was formerly her husband's secretary.

WHY BE UPSET ABOUT ROBBERY OF SCHMELING?

Fight Racket's That Way, You Know.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—Now there is a demand for an investigation of the New York prize fight commission and, though I am all for investigations, as tending to contribute to the gayety of nations, nevertheless they are an expensive luxury and all this one could prove is that the members of the New York commission are unfit to govern the prize fight racket.

This indictment would not be as serious as it might sound and, anyway, it would not take an investigation to find the indictment, for their record is sufficient proof. It does not seem wise at this time to spend money proving the obvious.

Who Would Govern It?

I do not know who would be fit to govern the prize fight racket which, to paraphrase Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, is by politics out of burglary, by no means a crossing of breeds, and just generally incorrigible. Efficient, conscientious commissioners would bar out all ex-convicts, all known fakers, and all known magnates of the laundry, milk, dry cleaning, slot machine, brewery, and other rackets.

If that were done the commissioners would discover that they had governed the racket to death and themselves right out of their jobs. There are few key men in the industry who have never been convicted of some social error, from stealing an automobile to shooting a friend, or who have kept innocent of fraud in one or more of its phases, in the ring.

It's Just a Business Reverse.

Undoubtedly Max Schmeling was robbed of his title of heavyweight champion of the world by the decision of Gunboat Smith, the referee, and George Kelly, one of the judges, who concluded that Jack Sharkey had won. But robberies of this kind sometimes are inspired by nothing more sinister than personal prejudice, stupidity, or incompetence, or a combination of these three elements, and the upshot of an inquiry into this particular offense might be nothing more than a finding that the boys made a dumb but honest mistake.

The fact that Schmeling's two managers, Joe Jacobs and Uncle Will McCarney, had wind before the fight of some vague conspiracy to wrong their fighter need not have any relation to the fact that their fighter actually was wronged. Such is the nature of the prize fight racket since William Muldoon purified it by posing for his pictures for the papers and issuing his reflections on his birthdays, that heavyweight championship bouts always are preceded or followed by poisonous rumors and misgivings. But it is seldom that the Boo Boo Hoffs turn up with signed agreements and consequently these matters generally are forgotten in a short time.

Why Wait Two Years?

It should not be thought that the injustice wreaked on Schmeling was in any sense an offense against sport, however. If Schmeling had wished to receive sporting consideration he should not have waited two years to fight Sharkey again. It will be remembered that Schmeling won by a foul when they met in 1930 and a sportsman would not have been willing to enjoy the prestige of a title thus clouded any longer than just long enough to crowd Sharkey into another ring and settle the matter decisively. But Schmeling, on the contrary, spent most of his time in Germany, and after a year of waiting fought Willie Stribling instead of Sharkey, who wanted no crowding to get into another ring and settle it.

So Schmeling, though he may enjoy boxing as a sport, figures in the present case not as a sportsman wronged but as a business man who met with a sudden and unexpected business reverse. As such he is entitled to a certain degree of sympathy, but hardly as much as a business man who invested in stocks, went broke on the same and discovered long afterward that the directors of the corporation whose stocks he had bought were playing tricks on him in Wall street. THE GUMPS—NOT A DRY EYE IN THE HOUSE

Who will represent Chicago in the international amateur boxing bouts against the champions of Germany at Soldiers' field July 26?

The coaches and officials of the Chicago team now are diligently searching the records of the best amateurs in order to pick the squad which will commence preparation at Lake Wawasee, Ind., July 10. The 1932 Chicagoland champions, of course, will be extended an invitation. That is their due, but it is by no means certain that all the champions will step into the ring on the night of July 26. They must prove their prowess in camp against contenders in each class.

Perfect Condition Is Aim.

Johnny Behr, athletic director of the Illinois Athletic club, who has been associated with Golden Gloves for three years, again will have charge of the conditioning of the Chicago team. A two weeks period does not afford opportunity to teach many fine points of boxing, but the primary purpose of the training camp is to assure physical perfection so that no Chicago fighter will lose because of lack of endurance.

"An outdoor camp several miles from town is an ideal arrangement," Coach Behr said yesterday in approving the selection of Lake Wawasee as Golden Gloves headquarters. "The schedule of work probably will be no heavier than that at the Illinois Athletic club last winter, when the team prepared for the intercity bouts with New York. But the out of town arrangements will eliminate factors which handicapped training in Chicago.

Ideal Spot for Recreation.

"Lake Wawasee offers proper recreation during nonworking hours. Moreover, such a camp will make possible more strict supervision of training. Our boys must be in top condition if they are to have any chance against the older and more experienced German team. And you may be assured they will be in condition."

The 1932 champions are:

Flyweight—Albert Soukop, Chicago.
Bantamweight—Leo Rodak, Chicago.
Featherweight—Joe Roman, Joliet.
Lightweight—Henry Rothler, Davenport, Ia.
Welterweight—Johnny Phagan, Chicago.
Middleweight—Charles Neigo, Chicago.
Light heavyweight—Vernon Miller, Davenport, Ia.
Heavyweight—Adam Smith, Rockford, Ill.

Soukop cannot make the 112 pound class, even with the one pound allowance. He has been advanced to the 118 pound class where he will strive for the right to meet Hans Zmarski of Munich for the international championship. There is a possibility that Leo Rodak, captain of the 1932 team, will not be able to make 118 pounds. If, in the opinion of the coaches, Rodak should not reduce, he will be advanced to the featherweight division where he must defeat Roman to take part in the fights July 26.

Soukop's change bring Johnny Baltzer of Davenport, Ia., back as a leading flyweight contender. At least one other flyweight, and perhaps two, will go into training at Lake Wawasee.

Rothier also will have competition in the lightweight class. While Rothier weighed 135½ pounds for his

German Amateur Boxers Promise to Avenge Schmeling

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 22.—"Revenge for Schmeling" will be the slogan of Germany's amateur boxing champions when they fight the American Golden Gloves team in Chicago, their leader, Friedrich Burger, chairman of the German Boxing association, told THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE today.

"Our team feels that Schmeling's defeat was by no means a disgrace," Burger said. "He fought so bravely and with so much credit to Germany that the close decision was in no way a discredit to him or to us.

"But the fact remains that the decision was against him. Consequently the German team feels a greater responsibility than ever in the international match. They believe that a decisive victory in Chicago will blot from memory the impression left by the defeat of the world's champion."

While officials in sport circles accept the New York decision without question, the press echoes doubts of the fairness of the decision of the New York judges. Frau Schmeling is convinced that her son was the victim of unfair judges.

"I am prouder of my boy than ever before," she said. "He showed perfect sportsmanship, but I warned him against fighting in New York. He had no chance of getting a fair deal there."

150 TEE OFF IN NATIONAL OPEN TOURNEY TODAY

Sarazen Is Man to Beat, Players Say.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flushing, N. Y., June 22.—This green countryside was alive with flying golf balls today as a field of 150 contestants for the national open golf championship got in their last day of practice. With a weather forecast of cloudy and slightly cooler, championship play should start under ideal conditions tomorrow morning. From that time until dusk Saturday the turf of Fresh Meadow will be trampled by thousands of feet.

With champions from Japan and Argentina here to match strokes with the best golfers of the land, this should be one of the most colorful open championships in golfing history.

Jap Champ Popular.

Little knots of faithful fans followed their favorites down the narrow fairways all day and during the afternoon a gallery of more than one hundred trailed along with Tomokiki Miyamoto, outstanding golfer from Japan, who is a tight lipped, solid little fellow as silent as a Seabury witness when he is playing.

A huge gaily colored banner hangs across the road at the entrance to the club grounds advising all that this tournament is for the "championship of the world." Attendants in resplendent uniform are centered at every corner and the advance force of police as well as the ticket sale indicates a record crowd for the next three days.

One is greeted with plenty of "don'ts" at Fresh Meadow. The first warning comes from the guard at the gate who announced loudly, "If you ain't got a sticker, keep that car outa here or it'll cost you a dollar."

Jones Bangs a Few.

At the club office, where the reporter called, he was informed by a secretary:

"We have to be careful and we can't let every bum that calls in here."

Bobby Jones, the man who has held all the golf titles, was around for a time today trying out his driver for a charity match with Gene Sarazen, the new British open champion, next Sunday.

Jones, playing just for the fun of it with Gene Sarazen, as he is not entered in the open, found out how Sarazen won the British open when Gene clicked off a par 70. Jones, playing in a carefree manner, had a 75.

Play begins at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow morning when Henry Ciuci, Fresh Meadow professional, and Walter Kozak, of the Engineers' club, tee off. They will be followed by another pair every five minutes, the last two getting away at 2:45 p. m., if the schedule's pace is maintained.

Leo Diegel, one of the longest hitting of the American golf stars, entered this year from Agua Caliente, is the man most feared. He is at the top of his game and has been burning up the course.

Birdies for Sarazen.

Sarazen, who used to call Fresh Meadow his home course, reeled off four birdies on the last nine holes in his practice round this afternoon. Billie Burke, present titleholder, has been having trouble with his irons, but improved them some today. Walter Hagen is going strong. Tommy Armour had a gallery hand clapping today with several flashy iron shots. MacDonald Smith is another favorite and John Farrell is hitting his drives long and straight.

Fresh Meadow is a long course—6,815 yards. Almost every green is tightly trapped and the fairways are narrow. Accuracy and driving range will be demanded of the winner, but golfers expect the championship to be decided on the putting green. Right now Sarazen has the hottest putter in the field. Par for the course is 70, but the experts are predicting that even fours for the four rounds will win the title.

A TOAST TO THE DEPARTED

Members of the Knights of the Bath, an organization of old time Chicago Athletic association swimmers, drink a toast to the twenty members who have died since the club was formed in 1893. Yesterday's meeting was held at the home of Ira L. Couch at Golf, Ill., where the name of the late William Wrigley Jr. was inscribed on the silver cup which goes to the last surviving member. KNIGHTS OF BATH HONOR MEMORY OF WM. WRIGLEY

The name of William Wrigley Jr. was inscribed yesterday on the cup which he gave the Knights of the Bath several years ago, as seven of the surviving members of the organization held their annual reunion at the home of Ira J. Couch at Golf, Ill.

The organization, which started with 40 members, was formed from athletes who swam on the teams of the Chicago Athletic association in 1893 or before. About 20 of the members, all of whom are now 60 years old or more, still survive, but a number of them now live in California and were unable to attend the reunion. The cup given by Mr. Wrigley is to go to the last surviving member.

Those who attended the reunion yesterday were Mr. Couch, George J. Williams, Godfrey H. Atkin, Louis E. Burr and Joseph P. Hankey of Chicago, J. F. Porrill of Clinton, Ia., and Charles L. Bliss of Lake Geneva, Wis. The Knights left their swimming suits at home and spent the afternoon playing golf.

C. A. A. MAKES GIFT OF $1,500 TO OLYMPIC FUND

A gift of $1,500 by the Chicago Athletic association to the American Olympic fund was announced yesterday by Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic association and of the National A. A. U.

"The contribution is a very commendable gesture on the part of the Chicago Athletic association," Mr. Brundage said. "It is a reflection of the organization's interest in sport and particularly in American sport in international competition.

"It is the first large gift to be made to the Chicago division of the Olympic fund and we hope that many other organizations will follow the example set by the Chicago Athletic association."

The Chicago division of the Olympic fund drive has its headquarters at 130 South La Salle street.

Turnabout! Phils Operate on Ol' Doc Grimes and Cubs, 11-2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 22.—The Phillies returned to normalcy today by breaking out in a rash of home runs that old Doctor Burleigh Grimes couldn't handle. They defied the venerable spitball dispenser's treatment by running him off the case with four homers, each with a man on base, before the fourth inning was completed. After that it was just a matter of time before the Cubs gave up under an 11 to 2 defeat which, because of the Braves' defeat at Boston, didn't reduce their first place margin.

There was just one time during the afternoon that the Cubs seemed destined to make headway. That was in the second when Johnny Moore hit his eighth homer with Riggs Stephenson on base. The wallop must have reminded the Phillies that they were behind in their special line of endeavor. Anyway they tied it when Art Whitney helped himself to a homer in the home half. They added four more on long wallops by Don Hurst and Virgil Davis in the third. And in the fourth Chuck Klein appeared with No. 20. What suffering there was after this was undergone by Charley Root and Jakie May.

Rhem Baffles Cubs.

Flint Rhem, who seems to have taken a different slant on life since the Cardinals sentenced him to Philadelphia, was responsible for the dearth of Cub hits. In the second the Chicagoans unloaded three safeties and that proved about a day's work. Rhem promptly set out to prove Moore's homer was just a mishap and he proved it so well that the farther the game progressed the worse the Cubs appeared. They got only three more hits and two men to second base in the last seven innings.

The afternoon of long range firing began as soon as Stephenson opened the second inning with a single through short. Moore looked at one pitch and smacked the next over the right field wall. The two run advantage lasted just about that many minutes. Grimes walked Hurst to start the home second and Whitney promptly tied the score with his drive over the nearby barrier.

Here Comes Trouble.

The bad news in the third appeared when Klein singled with one out. He went home ahead of Hurst, who whacked the ball over the wall. Whitney singled to right. Lee was tossed out by Hack, but the storm broke again when V. Davis let go with his drive beyond the right field fence. When Friberg singled and Rhem walked it appeared as if Grimes might have to devote the remainder of his life to this one inning, but G. Davis was considerate enough to ground to Hack at third.

With the boys taking free shots at the fence Klein was bound to join them sooner or later. He did in the fourth. Bartell opened this inning with a single to center. Klein lost no time delivering No. 20 to some pedestrian in Broad street back of right field. Grimes went away to quieter surroundings and Root appeared to finish the inning in a strange fashion. He fanned Hurst and Whitney. Lee then doubled, went to third on a wild pitch, and V. Davis walked. They died when Root fanned Friberg.

Is This Any Way To Do?

The Cubs had the shakes in a violent form in the sixth and Root could not be blamed for the two runs resulting therefrom. Hurst led off and drew a second chance when Hemsley muffed a pop foul. He made use of the opportunity by singling against the fence in right. Whitney bunted in front of the plate and Hemsley pegged to second for what should have been an easy forceout, but the throw was wild. Hurst was forced at third on Lee's bunt, but in attempting a double play Hack threw the ball into right field, so Whitney scored and Lee went to third. Lee scored on V. Davis' infield out which Herman fumbled long enough to lose a possible play at the plate.

Just so that May wouldn't feel he had been neglected the Phils treated him to a few exciting moments in the eighth. Jakie did a good job of getting Klein and Hurst out of the way, the former on a pop foul and the latter on strikes. Whitney then doubled to right center and ran to third on an infield hit by Lee. V. Davis lined a single to center, Whitney scoring and Lee pulling up at third, but May put an end to this by whiffing Friberg.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The powerful White Sox yesterday made it two straight over the once great Philadelphia Athletics when they hammered four assorted pitchers for 13 hits to fashion a 9 to 4 blistering for the American league's fading heroes.

It wasn't that the A.'s have quit, understand. They fought hard and bravely, but yesterday, as on the day before, they simply were outclassed and outsmarted by our valiant seventh place boys who, incidentally, wouldn't be seventh place boys had they earlier shown more of the intelligence and agility they have displayed these last few hours.

The only solace the champions possibly could have derived from yesterday's licking was in Jimmy Foxx's No. 28 home run. Jimmy's large smack was made after the Sox had the contest well tucked in the bag, but it was none the less interesting in view of the young man's campaign to eclipse Babe Ruth.

Everybody Hit but Fat.

Vic Frasier pitched all the way to record his third victory of the season and win the satisfaction of his first victory over somebody besides the Boston Red Sox. Vic wasn't masterful, but he was smart. He allowed ten hits, but eight of them came after the A.'s were thoroughly whipped. It was much too hot to work for anything better than the ten hit tabulation, circumstances being what they were.

Everybody in the Sox lineup, except Fothergill, the hitless cleanup hitter, made at least one hit. Hodapp made a homer and a single; Appling and Sullivan each made a double and a single, and Hayes and Frasier made two singles. Fothergill, by the way, has been at bat seventeen times and gotten only one hit, a scratch off the pitcher's glove.

The trimming, in conjunction with the victory of the Detroit Tigers, put the A's back in third place, a half game out of fourth place, while the Tigers jumped from fourth to second.

Sox Waste No Time.

After retiring the A's in order in the first inning, the Sox stepped out to a one run lead in their half. Funk opened with a single to right and went to third on Hayes' single to center, Hayes taking second on the throw to third. Funk scored and Hayes took third while McNair was throwing out Selph. Hayes held third while Fothergill tapped to Williams and died there when McNair threw out Hodapp.

The A's gained a short lived tie in Boston, Mass., June 22.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds continued their winning ways at the expense of the Boston Braves by taking a free hitting game today, 14 to 8. The visitors got away to a big lead in the early innings and Manager Bill McKechnie inserted almost the entire Braves' roster in an unsuccessful effort to overcome it. In the Wake of the News

SHARKEY AND SCHMELING.

FOR the two years from the time he won the title on a foul from Jack Sharkey until Tuesday night, there was a question mark to Max Schmeling's world heavyweight honors. It was not entirely removed by his decisive victory over Willie Stribling a year ago. In short, there was general demand that Max prove he was Sharkey's master.

Now the situation is exactly reversed. Jack Sharkey is champion, but a large majority of newspaper writers and a fair majority of spectators present question the justice of the decision by which one judge and the referee voted for Jack and only one judge voted for Max. For the next two years, or until they meet again, there will be a question mark to the Bostonian's heavyweight honors.

This preponderance of Schmeling opinion hardly can be ascribed to partisanship. Sharkey was the American and Schmeling the foreign invader. Despite his one time offensive personality, softened in recent years, Sharkey might be expected to enjoy whatever partisanship there was. Yet a majority thought Schmeling won.

Undoubtedly there will be a return engagement, as both are comparatively young in a ring sense. Whether Jack will keep Max waiting two years in return for the two year wait he endured is likely to be determined by financial considerations. If Sharkey elects to take the champion's self-established privilege of defending his title only once a year, a new contender may arise in the meantime. If business conditions become better and a gate is promised, Max still may be cooling his heels and waiting a year from now. If Max looms as the only profitable drawing card he may be Jack's next opponent.

Sharkey apparently fought that good battle which his admirers long have been awaiting. Discarding his effective body attack which produced an uncalled foul against Phil Scott and a called foul against Schmeling, Sharkey directed the bulk of his offensive at the head and jaw. This hardly can be ascribed to caution, for the New York commission had ruled no more titles could be decided on fouls such as the last. Perhaps it was ultracaution.

Schmeling likewise failed to use the body tactics which wore down Stribling and opened the way for a knockout punch. Perhaps that was a mistake in strategy.

This battle evidently was a bit dull, not exactly uninteresting because of the title at stake, but lacking in punishment or thrills. It warranted our advance opinion it was not worth a trip to New York to view, although The Wake seldom misses a championship bout.

Sox Whip A's, 9-4; Foxx Hits Homer No. 28

the first half of the second inning on singles by Simmons and Foxx, a sacrifice by Miller, and an infield out.

Then came the bruising Sox second. Sullivan opened with a line double to right center. Appling singled to center, scoring Sullivan, and took second on the throw to the plate. Grube walked, whereupon Frasier nudged a single past Mahaffey, filling the bases. Funk flied to Cramer, Appling scoring and Grube taking third. Hayes beat out a roller to Foxx, Grube scoring and Frasier stopping at second. Selph walked, again filling the bases. Krausse relieved Mahaffey and Fothergill flied to Cramer, Frasier scoring and Hayes reaching third. Hayes scored and Selph went to second on Krausse's balk, McNair threw out Hodapp.

Johnny Busts One.

There was no more scoring on either side until Foxx busted his No. 28 with one out and none on in the fourth inning, and the next score was rung up in the first of the seventh when Dykes got credit for a double after Fothergill lost the ball in the sun and scored on Williams' single to center.

It was in the seventh that the Sox tried out the homer business. Selph singled with one down, paused on one of Fothergill's popups and trotted home ahead of Hodapp when Johnny knocked the ball into the left field grandstand.

The Sox made their last run in the eighth on a double by Appling and a single by Grube.

The A's scored one run in the ninth on singles by Dykes and Madjeski and a couple of forceouts.

Sox Face Grove Today in Final of Macks Series

The White Sox and the A's this afternoon will play the final of the first invasion of the eastern clubs and it will be a special ladies' day. Each gal must bring a dime—the tax, you know.

Connie Mack had planned to permit Lefty Grove to rest an ailing ankle until an impending series with the Yanks. But the panic was on after yesterday's Sox brutality and it was hinted that Mr. Mack might trot out his ace for the final here. Ted Lyons will go for the Sox.

No. 4 in the Sox batting order is becoming known as a jinx. It threw Kress into a slump that caused him to be benched, and now Fothergill, who had been hitting and hitting elsewhere in the batting order, has curled up to an unebelievable extent.

PARKER AND LOTT CLASH TODAY IN WESTERN TENNIS

Frank Parker, 16 year old Milwaukee school boy, will clash with George Lott, the ranking favorite, this afternoon as play in the western tennis tournament at River Forest goes into the quarter finals. Lott defeated Parker on Sunday in the finals of the tri-state tournament at Cincinnati.

Parker yesterday eliminated Doc Barr of Texas in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, while Lott swept through an uninteresting match with Frank O'Connell, Chicago, in similar fashion, 6-1, 6-3.

The remaining tournament favorites were called upon yesterday to overcome the opposition of a persistent group of seeded players to gain admittance into the quarter-final round. A blistering sun that beat relentlessly on the clay courts further added to the difficulties of the stars, but the day ended without an important upset.

Hall Defeats McDiarmid.

Gilbert Hall, who is seeded second, was pushed to the limit by John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., but he finally overcame the dogged persistence of his opponent and won, 11-9, 6-3.

Harris Coggeshall, defending champion, who will play Hall today, also was pressed before he emerged on the long end of a 7-5, 7-5 score in a skirmish with Lefty Bryan of Chattanooga, Tenn. Nearly every game in the match went to deuce. One of the hardest tussles of the afternoon took place when Scott Rexinger, University of Chicago star, forced Junior Coen to three sets before the Kansas City boy won, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Coen's opponent today, Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., survived another three set battle, defeating Edward McKnight of Springfield, Mass., 5-7, 6-2, 6-3. Wray Brown wound up in the quarter final bracket when he sent Edward Lejeck, Big Ten singles champion, down to a 6-0, 4-6, 6-0 defeat. Brown's opponent for today has not yet been determined, as Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, Cal., was given a holiday while waiting for his third round match.

Mrs. Stanley Hack Wins.

The important matches among the women saw Mrs. Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., defeat Mrs. Florence Wittleder of Chicago, 6-0, 6-4. Mrs. Stanley Hack, wife of the Cubs' third baseman and favorite to win the cup, got off to a flying start by blanking Margaret Anderson, 6-0, 6-0.

Cubs End Eastern Stay Today; Pick Bush or Warneke

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 22.—The Cubs will close the eastern part of their tour here tomorrow and then leap to St. Louis for four games in three days before returning home. Guy Bush or Lon Warneke will work against Phil Collins in the final with the Phils.

Guy Bush and Pat Malone are looking for the fellows who made the decision in the Sharkey-Schmeling scrap. They bet $160 on the German against Burleigh Grimes' $100.

Bill Jurges had to spend another day in idleness. The infected spot in his left shin didn't heal up as quickly as expected and now it is figured that he may not be back to normal before the end of the week.

When Stephenson singled through short in the second it made his fifth consecutive hit, the others having been produced in his last four appearances the day previous. He came close to stretching it to six in the fourth, but a hard liner to left center was grasped by Lee.

Johnny Moore furnished the fielding masterpiece in the seventh when he ran over to the score board and, with his gloved hand, scooped in George Davis' drive before it could hit the ground.

JOYNER PREDICTS MILE IN 1:34 AT ARLINGTON PARK

Veteran Trainer Sees a New World Record.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Andrew Jackson Joyner, dean of the American race horse trainers, turned a critical eye and a careful ear to the racing strip at Arlington Park yesterday morning. Then he gave the dirt a rather vigorous kick with his right toe. He picked some of it up and rolled it around in the palm of his hand.

This happened while Jamestown, the star of George D. Widener's stable, of which Joyner is the trainer, was galloping leisurely around the famous track on Chicago's north side. It was Joyner's first visit to a Chicago race track in many years.

It was shortly after daybreak and Joyner had just finished reading THE TRIBUNE's account of Gallant Knight's mile in 1:35 3-5 which the Knight ran at Washington Park some 14 hours earlier.

Mr. Joyner Predicts New Record.

"Huh," snorted Mr. Joyner. "Fast time to be sure," he continued. It was natural for Joyner to show interest, for he was the fellow who slapped the saddle on Jack High at Belmont Park the day Jack High ran a mile in 1:35 and established a world's record.

Then Joyner added a most startling statement. "Some horse will run a mile over the Arlington Park track within the next 30 days in 1:34."

Trainers Bill Knapp, Louie Feustal, Mose Lowenstein, Big Jim Healy, Frank Hackett and others lining the rail gasped. "We've got nothing in our barns that can run that fast," they said in chorus.

"I'm not saying Jim Town will do it," said Joyner. "But if the handicappers don't put too much weight on Equipoise he can run a mile in 1:34 over this kind of a track," he continued. "I don't know much about Gallant Knight. If the handicappers treat him kindly he might do the same thing."

And Here Are the Fractions.

"What'll be the fractions?" somebody asked the trainer of the Widener horses.

"Well they'll possibly run the quarter in :22 4-5, the half in :45 3-5, the three-quarters in 1:09 1-5 and round out the mile in 1:34."

Joyner didn't ask Jamestown for any speed yesterday. He let the big bay 4 year old son of St. James, which won a Futurity and the Withers, take things about as he pleased.

Trainer Joyner hopes to have Jockey Pony McAtee here to ride his Jim Town in the Arlington Inaugural on Monday. You can tell by the sparkle in Joyner's eye that he likes the way Jamestown is doing, and you might also suspect that he thinks the horse that will run that mile in 1:34 at Arlington will not be Equipoise nor Gallant Knight but his own Jim Town.

Is Polydorus Worth That 6 Grand? Is He!

Polydorus, from the stable of Mr. Abraham Bartlestein of Chicago, is one of the great race horses of the year in American racing. Scoffers may say what they please about him.

He won the Kappmeyer handicap at Washington Park yesterday, just as his rider, Johnny Maiben, pleased, by a length from Gold Step, with the fleet Don Leon third.

This was another warmup for the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap, which is to wind up Washington Park's racing season on Saturday afternoon. Polydorus didn't break any track records but he scored just as impressively as Gallant Knight did 24 hours earlier.

Makes Up Lost Ground.

The race was at six furlongs and Polydorus, after coming from far back and racing wide all the way, passed Gold Step a furlong out and was going away from there until the finish. He was one of the shortest priced favorites of the meeting but Mr. Bartlestein didn't care about that. He smiled when the price was hung out, for Abraham didn't bet on him in this encounter. The price was $2.88 for a $2 ticket.

Mr. Bartlestein rubs his hands and chuckles when he thinks of the bargain he got when he bought Polydorus from W. R. Coe. The horse didn't cost him a cent more than $6,000. He already has won that amount and considerably more and is now heading into a stake campaign that may net his owner $75,000 or $100,000 within the next six weeks.

Polydorus Likes the Coast.

Polydorus is a son of Friar Rock-Polyanthus, bred as stylishly as any horse in the country, but didn't seem to find his racing legs until Bartlestein bought him, then took him to the Pacific coast last winter and let him wade in the magic sands of the Imperial Beach, half way between San Diego and the Mexican border.

Polydorus had weak underpinning until he took those strange trips through the sands of Imperial Beach. Right now his legs look to be as strong as iron.

It is going to take a great horse to beat Polydorus. Maiben, who always takes the overland route, has been riding him. He likely will ride him in all his stake engagements in Chicago. The fur is going to fly when this fellow gets a chance at those which are rated as championship contenders.

Hilena, the winner of the Washington Park Debutante stakes, made a disgraceful showing in the Honeysuckle purse yesterday. She was out of the money when Jessie Dear showed up as an easy winner over Technique, with Cousin Nora third.

Hilena was an extremely short priced favorite, but never seemed to be able to get into stride. She was outrun all the way and the performance does not stamp her as much of a championship possibility.

Muskie, Pike & Co. Still Pays Big Dividends

BY BOB BECKER.

Reports from the north woods country indicate that the game fish in the thousands of lakes in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan are not allowing the business conditions of the country to affect their programs. The muskies, pike, and bass are paying dividends on the same old basis. Chicago fishermen who have tried their luck have been coming home with some nice strings of fish, especially in the muskie and walleyed pike class.

Some idea of how the fish fortunately know nothing about the word depression is found in the "counting room" of the fishway at the Rest lake dam in northern Wisconsin, where the finny tribes swim up from the Manitowish flowage and are hoisted over the dam so that they can get into the lakes. This new lock type of fishway lifted 2,098 good sized fish over the dam during the month of May, not counting the smaller ones that could get through the mesh.

Tourists who travel over highway 51 in Wisconsin through the Manitowish waters and Mercer should take time to inspect this unusual fishway which has proved to be so successful. The conservation department has installed a similar fishway in the Eagle river-Three Lakes country and more are being considered for other streams in the state. When game fish come up to a dam equipped with one of these fishways they are automatically lifted over the dam and released in the waters above.

The result is a perfect waterway connection between the parts of the stream separated by the dam. In the case of the Manitowish river it means the great producing area in the flowage, a natural breeding place for game fish, can send many of its muskies and pike into the lake country above where the anglers have a chance to connect with the finny tribes.

Although a number of Chicago men are in the list of successful muskie and pike fishermen in the north country the women also are connecting with some nice specimens. Mrs. R. L. Aage of Chicago hooked a 27 pounder in the Manitowish chain a few days ago. Muskies and pike have been striking well arond Hayward, Wis. Among the lucky fishermen in that neck of the woods was the Clinton F. Hicks party from Chicago, with several muskies and large strings of pike. One camp in that territory already has recorded 25 muskies so far this spring, the largest weighing 35 pounds.

The Wisconsin pike and muskie season has been in full swing since the latter part of May. The bass season, however, just opened Monday.

Giant Sailfish Is Captured by Miss Patterson

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—Miss Josephine Patterson yesterday landed a monster sailfish weighing 125 pounds and measuring 10 feet 5 inches in length, off Taboga island on the west coast of Panama in the Pacific ocean. The fish outweighed the angler by 17 pounds, and it required her 135 minutes to bring the fish to gaff. The sea was exceedingly rough.

Capt. Fred Whaler, who was guiding the party, attributed to Miss Patterson the honor of being the first woman ever to land a sailfish in these waters. Miss Patterson's sailfish is the second largest ever taken by a woman. Miss Constance Hoyt, daughter of Richard Hoyt, caught one weighing 130 pounds and measuring 10 feet 6 inches off the Cocos islands a few years ago.

Uses Regulation Tackle.

Miss Patterson was using regulation sailfish tackle and the fish struck at a feathered lure, which makes the catch all the more remarkable. Rarely is this species taken by an artificial bait.

Last summer Miss Patterson caught a number of large tarpon in the Gulf of Mexico off Sarasota, Fla., some of which weighed in the neighborhood of 100 pounds. This is her first attempt, however, at fishing for sails.

Is a Licensed Plane Pilot.

Miss Patterson is a licensed airplane pilot, a crack shot with both shotgun and pistol, and is an excellent dry fly trout angler. She was accompanied on the trip by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brooks.

The group made the trip from Roosevelt field, Long island, to Panama in three days, flying their own plane from New York to Miami, then taking the Panama Airways to the Canal Zone.

26 ATHLETES TO GET $2,333 FOR OLYMPIC TRIP

The National Collegiate Athletic association will give $2,333 in expense money to 26 athletes who will compete in the final Olympic trials, beginning at Palo Alto, Cal., July 16. The amount will cover only a part of the expenses, but as no more is available it will be up to the colleges the athletes represent to provide the remainder, it was announced yesterday by A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, chairman of the committee to select candidates for the trials.

The committee selected 26 athletes, winners of first and second places in the intercollegiate championship meet at Stagg field two weeks ago. Approximately $120 will be given to each champion and $70 to each runner-up.

OLYMPIC FINALS IN DECATHLON AT N. U. TOMORROW

Pick U. S. Team in Two Day Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The American finals, from which three athletes will be chosen to compete in the decathlon in the Olympic games at Los Angeles, will be held tomorrow afternoon and Saturday morning at Dyche stadium, Northwestern university. On Saturday afternoon the A. A. U. also is sponsoring a track and field meet of Olympic events which will qualify for the Olympic semi-final also scheduled at Dyche stadium July 2.

The A. A. U. meet is open to all amateurs. Most of the entries, however, will come from the group of college and university stars graduated in recent years. The first three in each event, or those who better the arbitrary standards laid down by the officials, will be eligible for the semifinals on July 2.

Decathlon Meet Final.

The best athletes in that meet will join the qualifiers from the National Collegiate A. A., the eastern meet held at Harvard recently, the qualifiers in the intercollegiates, scheduled at Berkeley, Cal., July 1 and 2, and the Pacific coast open meet at Long Beach, Cal., on the same dates. All will compete in the American Olympic finals July 15 and 16 at Stanford university.

Interest this week-end, of course, will center on the decathlon, for it definitely decides the makeup of the American Olympic team in this event. Eleven entries have been received so far. Of this group James Bausch, Kansas university student who will represent the Kansas City Athletic club, is the best. So far none of the 1928 American competitors in the Olympic decathlon has entered. Kenneth Dougherty, former holder of the American record, is ineligible because he has entered the coaching profession.

Mortensen May Not Compete.

The other members of the American 1928 team are James Stewart, Los Angeles Athletic club; Barney Berlinger, Pennsylvania's star who was graduated a year ago, and Thomas Churchill of the Olympic club, San Francisco.

Entries will not close until tomorrow afternoon. Those entered are: Ray Moncus, Denver A. C.; Wilson Charles Jr., Haskell institute, former national champion; Clyde Coffman, Kansas university; Joe Hall, University of Florida; George Munger, University of Pennsylvania; Wallin M. Bowen, unattached, Chicago; James Bausch, Kansas City A. C.; Carl A. Saxe, unattached, Bedford, O.; Graham Batchelor, University of Georgia; Wilbert Lambeth, Newberry college, Canfield, O., and R. P. Baldry, Rice institute.

The schedule for the decathlon competition follows:

TOMORROW 2 P. M.

100 meter dash.
Broad jump.
400 meter dash.
Shot put.
High jump.

SATURDAY 9 A. M.

110 meter high hurdles.
Discus throw.
Javelin throw.
Pole vault.
1,500 meter run.

Retzlaff Starts Training Today for Marriner Bout

Charley Retzlaff, Duluth [Minn.] heavyweight boxer, will arrive in Chicago from New York today to start training for his ten round windup bout with Les Marriner, former University of Illinois football player, at White City Tuesday. He will work out at the Arcade gymnasium.

Retzlaff whipped Hans Birkie of California in the semi-final to the Max Schmeling-Jack Sharkey bout Tuesday. He came out of the contest in good condition. Marriner boxed three rounds with his heavyweight brother, Scott, yesterday.

Marriner entered the University of Illinois in 1925 and the same year won the university heavyweight title. He won the Central A. A. U. and university championships in 1927. Les engaged in 25 amateur matches.

Following his graduation in 1928 Marriner knocked out Mickey Smith in two rounds in his first professional encounter. Since then he has knocked out 20 of 25 opponents. His only defeat was by Chuck Wiggins at Mills stadium four years ago.

The West Side Boxing club will hold five six round matches and a four rounder at Sparta stadium next Thursday night. Al Miller, the matchmaker, has arranged the following bouts: Mickey Patrick vs. Tait Littman, Paul Dazzo vs. Young Geno, Harry Paul vs. Jerry Crano, Harry Schuman vs. Jimmy Murphy, and Nick Scialaba vs. Harold Lambertson.

Sammy Levine, west side featherweight, and his manager, Harry Weiss, will leave today for Milwaukee, where Levine boxes Johnny Lombardo tomorrow. . . . EVANS CAPTURES HULLABALOO LOW GROSS BY STROKE

Whips Sweet on Extra Hole Play-Off.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Bob o' Link's eleventh annual Hullabaloo proved so successful at the conclusion of its two day play yesterday that it was prolonged far into the gloaming when two veterans, Chick Evans of Edgewater, and Arthur Sweet of Ridgemoor, set forth in a play-off for the 36 hole low gross prize. Both had 75 Tuesday and 74 yesterday for totals of 149. Chick proved the better by a stroke on the extra hole, taking a 4 to Art's 5.

The Hullabaloo, from the standpoint of attendance and scoring, was one of the best tournaments of the season in the Chicago district thus far. Forty-three foursomes battled through the two day play, and par on the Highland Park club's layout was endangered during both rounds. Chet Williams of the home club and Jimmy Miller of Exmoor both were right on the heels of Evans and Sweet with 151's for the 36 holes. This quartet was tied at 75 at the end of Tuesday's play.

Gallagher Wins Trophy.

P. J. Gallagher of Bob o' Link won the C. B. Irvin trophy for low net on 36 holes with a card of 202—60—142. He also was a member of the winning low net foursome, the others being L. J. Fight Racket's Still a Racket; Just Ask Max

Thrills? Try to Find One!

The thrills of the prize fight were largely imaginary, for both fighters were so thoroughly imbued with the business spirit that neither one took a sporting chance in the entire fifteen rounds. Always thoughtful of the business asset which he was defending, Schmeling fought in the cautious manner of a business man closing a deal with his lawyer at his elbow and Sharkey might have won the fight as well as the decision and the title if he had not been even more afraid to commit himself.

Even in the last five rounds, when Sharkey was weary and discouraged and fighting a jab fight with one eye shut, Schmeling remained wary of some mishap and, though he was the aggressor all the way, that only means that he was more aggressive than Sharkey, who was absolutely negative with the exception of one frantic minute in the final round.

The most thrilling factor in the entire show was the sudden bubbling of optimism among the 70,000 customers, including the honoraries, as they looked about them and realized that once again money was on the loose, if only for one evening. The fight, as a preliminary bout, would have been a great bore, but heavyweights in a championship bout enjoy a certain artistic license and a certain indulgence, as though the customers understand that they have more at stake than preliminary boys and concede them the right to avoid unnecessary risks.

Everybody's Happy.

But to realize that Will Carey, the president of the Garden, in a time of trouble and want had had the gumption to build a new arena and that 90,000 people had somehow managed to find almost half a million dollars for the opening fight, enabling the Garden to make $150,000, was to turn a back flip to the easy, crazy days of 1929 and the patrons were more heartened by this than entertained by the fight. The marine band was playing "Happy Days Are Here Again" and a party was almost ready to flip over to the market page for a hopeful peek at Goldman-Sachs.

THE MAN TO BEAT

Pick Chicago's Best to Battle German Team

New York bout, he started training at that time seven pounds over the limit. The alternates in all division are insurance against injury and failure to make weight as well as to fulfill the purpose of adding incentive to the daily workouts. Gene Higgins, 135 pound champion of the Catholic Youth tournament and of the Central A. A. U. meet this spring, is being considered as a member of the Golden Gloves squad.

Gene is 19 years old. He has been boxing for more than two years, during which time he has had approximately 130 fights, of which he has won 90. He is a great competitor. After fighting his way past seven opponents in the C. Y. O. tournament, Gene went to Los Angeles with the Catholic team and licked the coast champion in the intersectional bouts which Chicago won, 5 to 3.

German Champs Aggressive.

Gene attended Crane Technical High school for two years. His only other sport is baseball and at Crane he was a substitute infielder. He lives with his father in Chicago.

Reports from Germany describe the champions of the fatherland as aggressive fighters. To meet them it is important that Chicago develop a team which will force the attack. Superior boxing ability is offset easily by a couple of hard punches during the three rounds to which amateur contests are limited. Higgins conforms to this program.

Ernie Kratchovil of Racine, Golden Gloves lightweight champion of Wisconsin, who has beaten Higgins this year, is not a 135 pound fighter. Kratchovil's weight is approximately 140 pounds. He defaulted in the Tournament of Champions because of excess weight, and this prevents his consideration for the international squad.

DVONCH DEFEATS ADAM SMITH IN 3 ROUND BATTLE

Duffy Dvonch, Great Lakes heavyweight boxer, was awarded a three round decision over Adam Smith, Rockford, Ill., in one of the most interesting amateur boxing bouts of the season in the Chicago-Rockford match at Mills stadium last night. Chicago won the match, 5 bouts to 3.

Both fighters will go into training in a few weeks to reek the heavyweight berth on the Chicagoland Golden Gloves team which will meet Germany's amateur champions at Soldiers' field on July 26. Other results:

William Celebron, Rockford, beat Anthony Zale, Chicago [3].

Anthony Sutton, Chicago, beat Julius Denny, Rockford [3].

Italian Girl Loses at Wimbledon, but Shows Net Magic

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 22.—Today's competition in the Wimbledon tennis tournament was turned into first rate vaudeville on the center court by Louisa Valerio, Italian woman player. No championship often sees a player cut the ball so sharply that it takes a second bounce back into the driver's court, but that was the game the signorina played against the methodic Mme. Rene Mathieu of France, who won 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

Although nine matches advanced Americans nearer to next week's finals and rekindled the annually revived British hopes, Miss Valerio's trick shots drew the biggest crowd yet. She sliced and chopped shots in front of the bewildered Mme. Mathieu, who raced to the net four times only to find the ball back in Miss Valerio's territory.

But Mme. Mathieu plodded on, playing on the principle that as long as the ball returned to the opponent's court, she would win. She led, 5 games to 2, in the first set and lost it, but her steady pace was too much for the temperamental Italian.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, seeded at the other end of the draw from Mme. Mathieu, walked through her match with Mary Bower, 6-1, 6-0. Helen Jacobs beat Mrs. B. C. Covell by the same score and Betty Nuthall vanquished Sarah Mavrogordato, 6-1, 6-1.

Eileen Bennett Whittingstall defeated Mrs. S. K. Edwards, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0, and two other three set matches were won by Americans. Sarah Palfrey outlasted Edith Dearman, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1, and Mrs. D. A. Burke defeated Mrs. W. J. Dyson, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Three Americans won in the men's singles. Francis X. Shields won 6-3, 6-4, 6-1, over N. Taylor; John Van Ryn won, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5, from J. D. P. Wheatley and Wilmer Allison won another straight setter, 8-6, 6-3, 6-2, over I. Tloczynski.

In doubles Sidney Wood and Gregory Mangin won, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3, from H. Timmer, and J. H. Kottenbelt of Holland. Allison and Van Ryn won, 6-2, 9-7, 14-12, from Pierre, and J. G. Grandguillot, Egyptians.

TULLY'S 87 WINS HOLY NAME GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

J. C. Tully, shooting an 87, won low gross in the La Grange Holy Name society's tournament at Glen Oak Country club yesterday. J. E. Koch, B. A. McClain, and Harley McDonald were victors in the blind bogey with 85. More than sixty competed.

Winners in the best score on two par holes event were the Rev. J. E. Doyle, 6; Bill Cummins, 7; John Wieklinski, 7, and A. J. Flanagan, 16. Prizes for the highest score for eighteen holes were awarded to P. G. Hamilton, who shot 148, and James O'Connor, who scored 148. R. F. Schuester with 17 and Frank Framan with 18 won in the putting contest on nine holes. The highest number of putts on nine holes prize was won by R. J. Bayer with 32.

South Shore Polo Club Plays Shamrocks Sunday

The South Shore Polo club will play the Chicago Shamrocks Sunday in the White City Athletic field. The Shamrocks are composed of 1929 class D national champions.

DICK MARTIN'S 71 LEADS CHICAGO DISTRICT SCORES

Merritt Joslyn Wins Low Net with 69.

Young Dick Martin of Briergate, who has been playing 24 karat golf since his blond head reached slightly above a table top, stole the show in the third of the Chicago district golf associations handicap events yesterday at Exmoor, to win low gross prize with a count of 36—35—71, one under par, which baffled all the other contestants.

Dick went over par on two of the first nine holes and balanced his mistakes with birdies at the 4th and 5th to turn even par. Coming in, he went over par at the 11th, where he three-putted, but birdies on the 12th, 13th, and 15th brought him to the 18th tee two under perfection.

Misses Two Foot Putt.

His final drive was good but his second landed about 25 feet to the left of the pin. Dick ran his approach putt to within two feet of the cup and then missed the try which would have given him a 70. His card:

Out .....554 454 333—36
In .....453 243 455—35—71

Merritt Joslyn of La Grange played well into his handicap to take first low net prize with 73—4—69. Second low net went to C. C. Collins Jr., of Brookwood as a reward for a card of 86—15—71.

Anderson Takes 3d Low Net.

B. N. Anderson scored another victory for La Grange with 83—11—72 for third low net. The fourth of this series of district handicap events will be held July 13 at the Beverly Country club. Leading scores:

C. S. Lederer, a director at Ravisloe and a guest, shot a fine round of 39—36—75 yesterday at Calumet to lead a field of 150 members and guests in the annual tournament of the Central Manufacturing District club.

Lederer was over par on only four holes, bunkers and pits catching his shots at the fourth, fifth, and sixth holes, while at the 15th green he used an extra putt. A birdie dropped at the 16th, 365 yards, where Lederer was home in two and down with a putt. His card:

MISSOURI ROADS COST E. ST. LOUIS MUCH BUSINESS

State Highway Board Is Told of Conditions.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—[Special.]—The east side regional plan commission, representing the counties of Madison, Monroe, and St. Clair, in The East St. Louis metropolitan area, told the state road commission today that the superior highways in Missouri west of St. Louis were attracting population and industries from the Illinois bank of the Mississippi river.

JAMES O. MONROE.

A southern Illinois delegation, led by Senator James O. Monroe of Collinsville, pointed with envy to the four lane pavements built by the neighboring state and asked the Illinois department to allocate $1,500,000 a year for grade separations, widening, and municipal highway improvements through the cluster of cities that include Belleville, Alton, and Granite City, as well as Collinsville and East St. Louis.

Another Bridge Needed.

The delegation also asked that the Illinois highway department join with Missouri for the construction of another bridge across the Mississippi river. The cost was estimated at $8,000,000. There are now four bridges into St. Louis, three of them charging a toll.

B. C. McCurdy, St. Clair county highway engineer, cited as an example of the population influence of Missouri's superior roads that the National City Stock yards was opening a branch on the west side of the river because farmers were having difficulty in driving their trucks across the congested free bridge and over narrow Illinois pavements. He also told of an Illinois airport losing the government mail contract to a Missouri airport due to inadequate road connections east of the Mississippi.

Roads Influence Prosperity.

"Before railroads," he said, "water transportation was the main influence in the industrial and population growth of a community. Then railroads became of primary importance. Today highways have become as important as either water or rail, and the motor transportation is still growing rapidly."

HAROLD TEEN—SCOVY, THE DEMON LOVER

SHAFT UNVEILED TO CUSTER AT HIS OHIO BIRTHPLACE

Cadiz, O., June 22.—(AP)—A statue commemorating the achievements of one of Ohio's most illustrious military heroes, Maj. Gen. George A. Custer, was ceremoniously unveiled today in Custer State park at New Rumley, near here.

Custer, who died in the famous Indian massacre at the battle of Little Big Horn in Montana, was born at New Rumley, Dec. 5, 1839.

The memorial was made possible by a $15,000 appropriation by the state four years ago. It commemorates not only his Indian war achievements but also his leadership in the civil war.

Tribute to the great Indian fighter was paid by Col. Ralph Cole of Findlay, Gov. George White of Ohio, Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson, and State Commander Paul Herbert of the American Legion.

Gen. Custer and his command of five troops of the Seventh cavalry were slain in the Little Big Horn just fifty-six years ago next Saturday.

The Ohio memorial is latest of a series of monuments in his honor. South Dakota named Custer State park for him. Monroe, Mich., has a $25,000 monument in his honor.

NULLIFY NIGHT PARKING BAN, IS ALDERMEN'S PLEA

Committee Against Repeal of Law.

A council subcommittee of the traffic and public safety committee yesterday recommended nullification, rather than repeal, of the ordinance forbidding all night auto parking in Chicago. The subcommittee advised that the council be urged to repeal its recent resolution asking Police Commissioner Allman to suspend enforcement of the parking ban. While it was not embodied in its formal action, the subcommittee also urged upon Commissioner Allman that there be no city-wide enforcement of the ordinance except in localities where there are "obnoxious practices" in connection with night parking.

Although they did not bring up the subject at the subcommittee meeting, opponents of the parking ban pointed out privately that it might be very easy for police to imagine that "obnoxious practices" of night parking existed in the neighborhoods of favored public garages. An eight day drive by police to enforce the ordinance was halted by city-wide protests at the practice of hoodlums in slashing tires and otherwise damaging cars whose owners had not taken them to garages for the night.

Vote 3 to 2 for Repeal.

The vote in the subcommittee was 3 to 2 in favor of repealing the council resolution, which action would permit resumption of the anti-parking drive.

Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], Frank J. Corr [17th], and Frank Sloan [26th] voted in the affirmative. The negative votes, which, under the terms of the resolution, were interpreted as against the parking ban, were cast by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th] and George D. Kells [28th]. Ald. O. E. Northup [19th], being chairman of the subcommittee, did not vote and Ald. James B. Waller [43d] left the committee room shortly before the vote was taken.

The principal opponent of repeal of the anti-parking ordinance was Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard university, who is making a comprehensive traffic survey for the city.

McClintock Defends Ordinance.

"I believe it is a sound ordinance and should be left on the books," he told the aldermen, "so as not to leave the police helpless in combatting obnoxious situations. The police policy should be not to go after those on quiet streets, but to enforce the ordinance where complaints are made against parking, or where violations of other ordinances occur."

Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club, asked Dr. McClintock if it would not be possible to eliminate the vicious parking practices by enforcement of other ordinances. Dr. McClintock admitted that there are ordinances prohibiting parking in front of fire plugs, and against diagonal parking, but urged that the all night parking ban be retained as a "blanket" covering all violations. He urged that police carry out a campaign of education through distribution of warnings to all night parkers, without subsequent arrests.

STREET CLEANING BY CONTRACT PUT UP TO ALDERMEN

The 2,300 city laborers who were called on strike Tuesday in an attempt to collect their back wages were threatened with the permanent loss of their jobs yesterday in a letter which Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, sent to Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee.

The strikers were engaged in street sweeping, removal of garbage, and street repairs. Their walkout, called by John W. Garvey, international representative of the Hod Carriers' and Common Laborers' union, also threw nearly 2,000 truck drivers and other city employés out of work.

In his letter Col. Sprague pointed out that the 1932 budget provides that much of the work which the strikers performed, especially garbage collection, may be let out to private contractors. He asked for an expression of the attitude of the finance committee on giving the work to private contractors in case the strike persists.

Michael Carrozza is the Chicago boss of the striking unions. He will return today from New York. City officials believe he may call off Garvey's strike when he arrives.

TIDAL WAVE HITS MEXICAN RESORT TOWN; 34 DEAD

MEXICO CITY, June 22.—(AP)—At least thirty-four persons were killed and many more missing were feared to be dead in a tidal wave that virtually wiped out the resort town of Cayutlan, on the west coast of Mexico, after an earthquake early today. A great number of persons were reported injured. The mayor appealed for immediate relief.

The coast along that section, severely shaken recently by a series of earthquakes, was swept by the tidal wave, with heavy damage to property. It was feared many persons were washed into the sea.

Manzanillo, the largest city struck by the tidal wave, reported heavy damage, but no dead. The port of Colima, in which state the brunt of the disaster fell, also was damaged.

S. G. Hopkins, Diplomats' Legal Adviser, Is Dead

Washington, D. C., June 22.—(AP)—Sherburne Gillette Hopkins, 66, international lawyer and adviser to many foreign governments, died here today. EX-DRY AGENT IS HELD BY U. S. AS RUM DEALER

Herbert Reese, former prohibition agent in Chicago who was twice indicted on charges of accepting bribes from dry law violators, was himself held to the grand jury yesterday as a prohibition violator. He was charged with operating a speakeasy at 345 South Clark street, which agents raided Tuesday night. His bond was fixed at $2,000 by United States Commissioner Walker.

Reese was a federal agent from 1920 to 1928. In 1928 he was dismissed and was named in two indictments charging acceptance of bribes and conduct unbecoming a federal agent. Both charges were dismissed in 1930 by federal prosecutors without being taken to trial.

Commissioner Walker also held to the grand jury Peter Bachowski, John Cook, Robert Youman, Dan Fedowski, and Tom Baleski, whom prohibition agents caught dismantling brewing machinery in the old Standard brewery at 1225 South Campbell avenue. The brewery, once operated by Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, was padlocked by the government in 1924. A year ago the government took possession of the property on a lien directed against the two gangsters for unpaid income taxes.

APPROVE PLAN TO REORGANIZE THE "JUNELAND"

Castle Court Committees Sign Peace Pact.

If you have a defaulted real estate bond and haven't been able to get the desired information regarding it from the bondholders' committee or from other sources, The Tribune may be of assistance to you. Write to "The Tribune Real Estate Bond Service, Chicago Tribune." Don't ask for information regarding more than one issue at a time. Give name of underwriter and full title of the bond. Inquiries must be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

BY AL CHASE.

Holders of the six per cent first mortgage bonds of the Juneland apartments, at the northeast corner of Juneway terrace and North Ashland avenue, have been notified that the bondholders' protective committee, of which A. Frank Druley is chairman, has approved a plan for reorganization. Those who approve the plan and deposit their securities will receive a trust certificate representing one share of beneficial interest in the property which is to be placed in trust.

A. FRANK DRULEY.

"The committee will cause the equity in the land and building to be conveyed to a corporate trustee to be held by it in trust for the benefit of the bondholders who approve this plan," said Mr. Druley. "Upon the consummation of this plan of reorganization, the bondholders who have deposited their bonds with the committee and consented to the plan will, through their trust certificates, be the sole owners of the entire property.

"As such owners they'll be entitled to receive the entire net income of the property available for dividends and to the entire net sale proceeds of the property in the event of liquidation. The trust agreement will contain a provision that all or substantially all of the property may not be sold in the event the holders of trust certificates representing 35 per cent or more of the shares of beneficial interest object to such sale."

Plans a New Loan.

The committee states that it has reasonable assurance that a new loan may be obtained to finance the reorganization plan. It also submits a list of cash requirements for the reorganization. The complainants' attorneys' fees are placed at $11,175. The next largest item is the "committee's compensation," which is $8,044. The attorneys' fees for reorganization come to $4,022. The depositary's fee is $2,514. Master's fees are $2,000. The trustee's fees total $1,175.

The 1928 taxes are $2,463; 1929, estimated, $5,500; 1930, balance due, $3,911, and 1931, estimated, $5,900. The cost of acquiring title was $7,500. The total cash requirements for reorganization are given as $61,554. The original bond issue was $235,000, since reduced to $223,500. This was a Northwestern Trust and Savings bank issue.

A statement of income and disbursements furnished by the receiver for the Juneland apartments from April, 1931, to March, 1932, gives gross rental income as $30,643 and operating expense as $13,507. These figures do not include fees for receiver and receiver's attorney. The members of the protective committee, of which Mr. Druley is chairman, are: John P. Hooker, Arthur M. Tarman, William F. Leimert, Joseph Magdziarz, and Vincent Jozwin. Rudolph Gerding is secretary. Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin are attorneys.

Committees Sign Peace Pact.

Rival committees which have been trying to reorganize the Castle Court apartments, containing 63 suites, at Jeffery avenue and East 70th street, have joined forces and are now working together, it was stated yesterday by Avery Brundage, chairman of the M. O. Stone & Co. bondholders' protective committee. The other committee is headed by J. O. Trautwein, as chairman.

"Both committees agree that it's essential that the pending foreclosure proceedings be concluded and the property brought to a sale at the earliest possible date," said Mr. Brundage. "It's the intention of the committee at this sale to buy in the property for the benefit of the depositing bondholders who will then, at the expiration of the redemption period, own the property outright.

"At present the building is in the hands of the Cook County Trust company as receiver and the sooner the sale is held and the receiver discharged the greater will be the amount realized for the bondholders."

FOX THEATERS PUT IN HANDS OF RECEIVERS

Assets Are Said to Exceed Debts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—Judge Martin T. Manton, presiding justice of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, appointed William E. Atkinson and John M. Sherman today as equity receivers for the Fox Theaters corporation, $112,000,000 affiliate of the Fox Film corporation.

Mr. Atkinson is president of the corporation. The receivers were required to post joint bonds of $100,000.

Chicago Concern Sues.

The application was filed by Sullivan & Cromwell, counsel for the Chicago Title and Trust company, creditor of the corporation for $410,005. Judge Manton was sitting today as a district judge.

The petition states that the receivership action is brought at this time because the corporation, while not insolvent, lacks sufficient liquid assets to meet current obligations, and for the further reason that within the next day or two an individual creditor having a claim for $355,000 may file judgment against the corporation. The identity of this creditor is not revealed in the petition.

The claim of the Chicago Title and Trust company is an assigned claim dating back to the stock transaction in 1927. According to the petition, Herbert Lubin of California sold the defendant corporation certain stock on March 24 of that year for which the corporation agreed to pay the amount claimed by the trust company with interest by March 24, 1932.

After passing through several hands the claim was finally assigned to the present plaintiff.

Says Assets Exceed Debts.

The petition contains no itemized lists of assets and liabilities, but states that the assets largely exceed the liabilities and that the current assets in cash amount to $204,808. The allegations of the petition were admitted by the defendant corporation through its attorney, Henry Brill, and the company consented to the receivership.

In the brief list of assets and liabilities given unsecured claims were said to amount to $1,619,638; indebtedness to wholly owned subsidiaries, $1,160,946; to affiliates, $1,599,901, of which a part is secured; to the Fox Film corporation, $546,647, including film rentals; on certain stock, debentures, and other property purchases, $1,113,763, of which $400,000 is now due, and contingent liabilities, not itemized, $6,000,000.

In addition to the cash assets mentioned above, the petition states that the defendant has a total of $24,800,000 as investment in and advances to subsidiaries; in subsidiaries now in the hands of receivers or trustees and in real estate on which mortgages are in default, $21,360,000.

Other assets include $265,000 due from Loew's, Inc.; office furniture, leaseholds, etc., $450,000, and a cause of action against William Fox, former head of the corporation, which the petition states is worth many millions.

The American Power and Light company yesterday issued a consolidated income statement as of April 30 showing a balance of $16,980,832 applicable to interest, or 5¼ times total annual interest requirements of the company. Dividends on the $5 and $6 preferred stock were earned 1⅛ times and there was a balance of $4,878,011 available for the common, which was equivalent to $1.61 a share. After common dividends there was a balance of $477,387.

BID $5,300,000 FOR DIAMOND MATCH STOCKS

Offer Is Made for Shares Kreuger Pledged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—An offer of $5,300,000 for the 350,000 shares of Diamond Match company stock which the late Ivar Kreuger transferred to four banks as security for a preëxisting indebtedness has been received by the banks. This was learned today at a hearing before Oscar W. Ehrhorn, federal referee in bankruptcy.

When the hour for the hearing arrived, counsel for the respective banks, petitioning creditors of the bankrupt International Match corporation and other persons involved in the tangled network of Kreuger's financial affairs asked for adjournment. The hearing was delayed until noon and then adjourned until tomorrow, at which time it is understood that a finished stipulation urging the sale will be presented to the referee.

A conference of the interested parties was held this afternoon in an effort to reach an agreement.

Holds Working Control.

If an agreement is reached, which appeared likely, the stock, which represents a working control of this solvent American enterprise, will be sold and the cash will be placed on deposit in escrow.

Shares of the Diamond Match company were quoted during the day on the New York Stock exchange at 13¾. At this price the 350,000 shares involved would be worth approximately $4,800,000. The offer of $5,300,000 for this number of shares would make the value equivalent to about 15¼ a share.

The banks that hold the collateral as security are the Bankers Trust company, the National City bank, the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh, and the Continental Bank and Trust company of Chicago.

When Ivar Kreuger sought a loan of $4,000,000 from these institutions last year they pledged $1,000,000 each. The loan was unsecured and was for si xmonths. In the agreement was a stipulation that it should be paid without a renewal.

Puts Up Stock.

Before it became due, however, Kreuger, already in desperate straits, as subsequent investigations have borne out, informed Lee, Higginson & Co., his American agents, that money from a monpoly in Spain was not forthcoming and that he would be unable to pay the loan as soon as expected.

Shortly before the actual due date representatives of Lee, Higginson & Co. went to Kreuger in Paris and asked if he had anything that could be used as collateral for the renewal. Kreuger produced the 350,000 shares of Diamond Match stock.

Lee, Higginson & Co. then urged Kreuger to reduce the loan in so far as possible, and he eventually paid off $200,000. The rest was secured by the match company stock.

The protective committee, of which Bainbridge Colby is chairman and Samuel Untermyer, counsel, was formed in April to act for debenture holders of International Match and Kreuger and Toll. Today it launched a publicity campaign for larger deposits of such securities. It repeated in its advertising the charge that banking interests that had sold those issues to the American public were not the best qualified auspices under which to safeguard the victims of Kreuger's schemes.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 15,000; sheep, 14,000.

Hog receipts fell short of expectations again yesterday and the market responded in another rise to the highest level in exactly two months. Activity characterized trading all day, with the clearance unusually early for all good grades. The extreme top advanced 5c to $4.15, highest since April 22, while the general average showed 5c gain at $3.85.

There was a little more encouragement from the wholesale trade. Packers believe continued light supplies of hogs may have some influence on the price of fresh pork soon. Receipts are running far below normal at all leading points.

25 Per Cent Above Low.

Prevailing hog quotations are about 25 per cent above the low spot three weeks ago. The advance since then, which amounts to mostly 70@80c per hundred, has added $100 to $125 to the value of an average carload of hogs on the Chicago market.

In an attempt to hold top prices from breaking away to a sharply higher level, buyers are swinging more orders into the medium and weighty hogs to take the place of lightweights. This has resulted in a relatively higher price level for 250@300 lb averages the last few days. Despite the scarcity of lightweights, butchers are selling almost at the top prices. Some are 90c to $1.00 above the low spot three weeks ago.

Eastern houses are finding lightweights scare and are buying a bigger share of Chicago receipts than they were at this time in 1931 or 1930. During the first three days of the week shippers bought 21 per cent of arrivals, against 16 per cent a week ago and 12 per cent two weeks ago. A year ago 20 per cent sold to outsiders and two years ago they bought 17 per cent.

Cattle Trade Active.

All leading houses were aggressive in better grades of cattle again yesterday and prices went up 10@15c more with the top at $8.25, highest in eight weeks. Order buyers were eager for top kinds, but Armour, Swift, and Wilson took in a big share of the kinds eligible to $7.75 and above.

Wilson paid $8.25 for a load of fancy 904 lb Nebraska yearlings that had been fed in an Indiana feed lot.

Medium grades of cattle lacked the pep that featured trading earlier in the week, but the rank and file of sales were fully up to the preceding day's price levels and some showed additional slight gains. Grain fed cows and heifers were steady again, with grassy stock weak to lower. A few yearling heifers, feed lot mates to $8.00 steers, sold at $7.00, a new high for heifers. Calves ruled steady to lower.

Lambs Decline Again.

Larger supplies forced lambs to a 25c lower level yesterday and most stock sold under heavy sorting. Packers obtained most good grades at $6.00@6.25, while city butchers bought handpicked natives up to $6.50@6.75. Idaho range lambs were of unusually good quality and sold for local slaughter at $6.50 mostly. City butchers took one load at $6.75. Little change was noted in aged or yearling sheep. Late Tuesday a special order for light ewes advanced the top in this branch to $2.75, or 50c above the low point last week.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep, against 4,977 cattle, 18,226 hogs, and 12,722 sheep, the previous Thursday, and 5,523 cattle, 23,861 hogs, and 11,787 sheep a year ago.

NATION'S GOLD STORE GAINS $2,980,200 IN DAY'S TRANSACTIONS

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Gold transactions reported by the New York Federal Reserve bank today resulted in a net gain in this country's stock of monetary metal of $2,980,200.

The amount of metal under "earmark" for foreign account decreased $9,010,400, but exports aggregated only $6,030,200, which presumably indicated that some metal which had been set aside for foreign account here was used to pay off foreign obligations in this country. All of the exported metal was for Switzerland, save $30,000, which was shipped to England. These were the first important gold transactions this week.

Firmness of the Canadian dollar featured today's foreign exchange market. Increased demand for dominion funds, attributed partly to buying of Canadian wheat, lifted the Canadian currency to 86.75 cents, reducing by ⅝ cent the concession at which it was quoted in New York yesterday.

The American dollar lost a shade of its recent sharp gains to several leading European exchanges. The British pound sterling was up ⅛ cent to $3.62⅝; the French franc up ⅝ point to 3.93½ cents; the belga up 2 points to 13.92 cents, and the Dutch guilder up 4 points to 40.39 cents.

Strong Note Coverage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, June 22.—An unparalleled event in Dutch banking history was revealed in today's announcement that the Netherlands bank, by increasing its gold bullion to $400,000,000, is covering the Dutch bank note issue to the extent of 100 per cent. There has been an increase of $100,000,000 in the bank's gold holdings in the last year.

UNION PACIFIC MAY EARNINGS SUFFER LOSSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—Faced with a 30 per cent cut in gross revenues during May in comparison with 1931, the Union Pacific made heavy cuts in operating expenses, but, although much of the recession in total income was absorbed through such slashes in operating outlay, net operating income for the month was substantially less than half of that of a year ago.

Gross for the month of $9,051,091 was more than $4,000,000 below that of May, 1931, while net operating income of $577,323 was $759,000, or 57 per cent, less than that of the like 1931 period.

For the first five months gross revenue amounted to $45,749,028, a decrease of about $18,000,000 from that of the corresponding period of 1931, while net operating income showed a decrease of approximately $1,600,000 to $3,855,701.

The St. Louis Southwestern railway has been admitted to the group of railroads which are not required to report to stockholders in advance of annual meetings.

This was disclosed today in the final copy of the last listing application of the company, distributed by the stock exchange to subscribers to the listing service.

SEES ONLY HOPE FOR RECOVERY IN PRIVATE EFFORT

Public Works Little Help, Houston Says.

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—The major portion of depression relief must come from a renewed activity of private enterprise, George H. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive works, told the delegates to the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Advertising federation at a general session luncheon this afternoon.

Discussing the causes of the depression, he saw as the chief one the decline in the sales of capital goods—that is, those entering into production, transportation, power generation and transmission, and commercial and residential building construction. The output of these, he said, is now not more than 25 per cent of the 1929 peak.

Little can be done about the falling off in exports, in Mr. Houston's opinion, because the decrease is in large part due to American unwillingness to make foreign loans at this time, and nothing can be done in this direction "until the foreign economic situation clears up and we can again furnish them capital with reasonable safety."

Necessities Not Off Much.

Consumption goods, such as food, clothing, etc., have not fallen badly, according to Mr. Houston's figures, and this is secondary, arising from reductions in exports and capital goods output.

Public works as a relief measure are slow in getting started, and could not be undertaken on a large enough scale to combat effectively a 12 billion dollar reduction in capital goods output a year, he said.

He recommended that private enterprise undertake anticipatory expenditures for the modernization of present facilities.

He pointed out that it will be hard to get credit and that the process must be slow.

As for government aid, he said that the government cannot sell enough securities to help by direct use of capital, except with an attendant destruction of the security market.

Relief from a renewed activity of private enterprise, he said, will have the advantages of immediacy and of keeping workmen at the jobs they know.

Says Gangs Run U. S.

Lew Hahn of the Hahn Department stores decried "the supineness of business" in the face of present great problems.

"The plain fact seems to be," he said, "that the United States today is without responsible government. The country is run by gangs. You know them. There are the bootlegging gangs, the prohibition gang, the local political gangs, the buddy bonus gang, the tariff gang, the banking gang, the Washington gang. The gangs go out for what they want and they get it.

"In the face of these conditions, why should not business organize its own 'gang,' if you will, a gang of so much greater strength and importance than these others, arm itself with a practical working program for the restoration of opportunity and insist that its program be carried out without delay."

BUSINESS LOOKS TO RAILROADS FOR TRADE HELP

Effort Being Made to Start Buying.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Business looks to the railroads to break the vicious circle of deflation and lead the way toward restoration of values.

HARRY A. WHEELER.

How this is to be brought about has not yet been decided, but a number of suggestions have been advanced.

Yesterday while Harry A. Wheeler, newly elected chairman of the reb or n Railway Business association, was telling the purchases and stores division of that organization that in every depression from 1893 to 1920 the needed impetus to restore purchases was supplied by railroad purchases. It was learned that an effort is being made to find a way to repeat this performance.

The Railway Business association is made up of the big manufacturers of railway equipment and supplies.

Meet with Executives.

During the last few days there have been meetings of a committee of the Association of Railway Executives with representatives of Mr. Wheeler's group. Both the railroads and the big equipment makers realize that they are in the same boat and are looking for a way out together.

At yesterday's meeting Mr. Wheeler urged both railroads and general business not to impair the nation's recuperative power by going beyond the bounds of reasonable economy in curtailing purchases.

"And why," he asked, "should we not consider this an appropriate time for united action? Are not promising constructive conditions in sight? Let me name a few:

"Foremost among them is the corrective influence of time. The whole world is more ready today than ever before to face truth, abandon false hopes and ambitions, and to replace international diplomacy with the spirit of international coöperation.

"The foreign drive against the dollar has lost its force and the gold standard is safe at least for the present.

"A reasonably balanced budget insures national solvency.

"A beginning of government economies with an aroused public sentiment for further action will be reflected in reduced taxes.

"Commodity prices are lower than we had ever expected to see and present inventories are admittedly low.

Labor Has Its Say.

This rejoicing at the prospect of an early adjournment of congress is not shared by the Railway Labor Executives' association, which is composed of the heads of twenty-one railway labor organizations.

"A vote to adjourn is a vote to abandon a post of duty on a battlefield where the fate of the nation may be determined," declared a resolution passed by the association in session at Cleveland.

"There is ample evidence," the organization declared, "of a bipartisan conspiracy to compel congress to adjourn and abandon its constitutional duties, which will pave the way for a virtual dictatorship of international bankers and big business, as now being planned.

"It would be a betrayal of the worker of America for congress to run away in the depths of our worst depression. Adequate measures to relieve destitution, to increase employment, and to safeguard the future have not been enacted and cannot be developed to meet the grave emergencies of the next few months unless congress stays on the job."

Rail Buying at Low Ebb.

Not only the equipment manufacturers but the steel industry look to a solution of the railroad problem for a stimulus. Railroad buying is at low ebb, rail production has ceased in the Chicago district, and the rail mills at Pittsburgh and Ensley are inactive, according to the Iron Age.

Coincident with United States Steel common touching a new low since 1907 yesterday comes the news that both steel production and scrap prices have reached new low levels.

"Ingot output has declined at Pittsburgh, Chicago, Buffalo, Detroit, and in the valleys," the Iron Age will say today. "The national average is now barely 16 per cent, compared with 18 per cent a week ago. Operations are becoming increasingly intermittent and complete suspension by some of the smaller independent plants is now in early prospect. Similarly midsummer shutdowns of numerous steel consuming companies, as well as foundries, are imminent. In fact, the iron and steel industry is resigned to the possibility that there will be no marked change for the better before August at the earliest."

The suggested plan of enabling the railroads to increase their purchases heavily through loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation appears unlikely to materialize. Similarly, the proposed scheme of having the railroads borrow from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to buy in their own bonds seems to be out of the question.

Largest Cities Get Little in Wagner's Bill

BY SCRUTATOR.

Unless the Wagner bill, which now is before congress, is amended, its provision for poor relief through federal loans to the states will not meet the emergency for which it is planned, according to Chicago bankers and industrialists. In fact, several Chicagoans have gone so far as to charge that the provision as it now stands savors of "pork barrel" legislation.

The measure provides, among other things, that the government Reconstruction Finance corporation shall make loans totaling $300,000,000, on the basis of population, to the states that request them. It is on this basis that the bill is sharply criticized. It is contended that the agricultural states do not need relief in nearly the same degree that the industrial states, and particularly the large cities, require.

Expect Large Borrowings.

While the governors of the various states would be required to apply for loans and certify that state and local resources for extending relief had been exhausted, practical politicians have little doubt that most, if not all, of the states would seek to borrow their share of the fund. Even the agricultural states would have little trouble in finding use for the money they might obtain.

Let's see how this provision, as now drafted, would work out. First, assuming the present population of the United States to be close to 125,000,000, a pro rata distribution of the relief fund would amount to about $2.40 per capita. However, the urban population exceeds the rural and it is largely in the industrial states and cities that unemployment prevails. For example, recent estimates on the number of unemployed in the country range between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 persons. Yet New York City, which two weeks ago estimated its unemployed at 1,104,000 persons, and Chicago, which is estimated to have about 600,000 unemployed, account for nearly one-fifth of the total number of unemployed in the United States.

Provision Appears too Small.

Now, what could these two great cities get by way of government loans under the Wagner bill provision? New York state, with a total population of around 12,500,000 persons, would be entitled to about $30,000,000. But New York City, which has more than half of the population of the state, has expended more than $102,200,000 in public and private relief in the last eighteen months.

Illinois, with a total population of around 7,700,000, could get only about $18,500,000. But Chicago, which has nearly half the population of the state, has expended more than $25,000,000 in public and private relief in the last nine months.

Therefore, if New York City should be allowed the state's entire government loan it would meet requirements for only three or four months. And if Chicago were allowed the entire loan to Illinois it would suffice for only about seven months. However, if New York City and Chicago should get only their pro rata shares of the state loans, the period of relief covered would be only about half as long in either case.

Now let's see what would be the situation in other industrial states. Pennsylvania, with a total population of around 9,600,000, of which more than a quarter is in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, could get about $23,000,000. Michigan, with a population of about 4,800,000, of which more than one quarter is in Detroit, would receive $11,500,000. Massachusetts, with population of around 4,200,000, of which about one-sixth is in Boston, could get about $10,000,000.

Now, in contrast, let's see what some of the agricultural states, which have less acute relief problems, would receive. Texas, with population of around 5,900,000, could get more than $14,000,000, or nearly half as much as New York and more than three-quarters as much as Illinois, Alabama, with population of 2,600,000, would obtain about $6,240,000. Louisiana and Mississippi, with population between 2,000,000 and 2,100,000, could ask around $4,900,000. Kansas, with 1,800,000 population, could requisition about $4,320,000. Nebraska, with 1,300,000 population, might obtain about $3,120,000.

California, a semi-agricultural state with population of about 5,600,000, could ask for about $13,440,000. And California, in recent years, hasn't been backward about seeking—and obtaining—government largess.

CHICAGO MILL AND LUMBER CO. ANSWER CHARGES

Wilmington, Del., June 22.—(AP)—The Chicago Mill and Lumber company of Chicago denied in chancery court today that it is impossible for it to continue in business without the aid or intervention of the court, in answer to a receivership suit filed against it recently by David Shrader of New York.

The corporation operates lumber mills in North Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Illinois, Tennessee and Rhode Island.

The answer says the corporation's assets are greater than its liabilities and avers the concerns trade accounts have been and are being paid in full. The banks to which the corporation is indebted are not demanding payment of their claims, the answer adds, and none of the corporation's outstanding 6 per cent bonds are due and unpaid.

The corporation admits default in interest payments, but states that 74 per cent of its bonds have been deposited with a committee of bondholders and that the latter are not making any demands for interest payments.

No suits are threatened and no creditors are demanding any payments which the corporation might be unable to meet, the answer states, adding that no default has been declared under the terms of the indenture under which the bonds were issued in 1928 with the First Trust and Savings bank of Chicago as trustee.

URGE MATURITY VALUE BASIS AS TEST OF BONDS

State Insurance Chiefs Adopt Idea.

An action of great importance to insurance companies was taken at the meeting of the valuation of securities committee of the national convention of insurance commissioners at the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday. A resolution was adopted there recommending that amply secured bonds held by the various companies be treated on an investment basis so as to reflect par at maturity rather than the present deflated values.

The resolution was presented by George S. Van Schaick, superintendent of insurance of the state of New York. Its acceptance by the insurance commissioners of the various states will lift a considerable load from the insurance companies whose investments have been adversely affected by the slump in prices.

Security Prices Too Low.

"Whereas, the market price of government, state, municipal, and other amply secured bonds is widely," the resolution says, "at variance with their true value and intrinsic worth;

"Whereas, for many years life insurance companies have been permitted to treat such bonds on an investment basis so as to reflect par at maturity, which policy has proved to be wise, safe, and equitable to life insurance companies and to the public alike,

"Whereas, many states permit such amortization of amply secured bonds by insurance companies other than life companies in the sound discretion of the commission or superintendent of insurance whenever circumstances make such action appropriate.

"Resolved, That this committee on valuation of securities hereby indorses and recommends to the national convention of insurance commissioners the principle of amortization of amply secured bonds for all types of insurance companies under proper conditions."

Would Affect Other States.

The resolution further recommended the passage of legislation to make this action effective in such states where authority does not now exist.

Mr. Van Schaick made a statement outlining the situation in which he said:

"Questions as to the standard of valuation of amply secured bonds held by insurance companies must be approached from two angles. The public is entitled to a fair and accurate picture of the assets and liabilities of the companies doing business. At the same time the policy holders are entitled to have the company given the

Court Denies O. K. for 3 Insull Groups

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The three committees organized to represent the common stockholders of the Middle West Utilities company in the receivership litigation were denied recognition by Judge Walter C. Lindley in the federal District court yesterday.

Counsel for the committees appeared in court seeking the right to intervene in the proceedings. After hearing the pleas of the attorneys Judge Lindley tersely remarked that there was no necessity "for the entire population of Chicago and the middle west to join in the litigation."

"Each security holder does not have to appear in court, unless somebody fails to do his duty," the judge declared. "It is the court's duty and the duty of the receivers to protect every one holding an interest in the company."

Judge Lindley did, however, indicate that ultimately some representation would be allowed for the common stockholders. While taking the petition of the common stock groups under advisement, the judge granted similar petitions presented by committees organized to represent the company's noteholders and preferred stockholders.

Dewey Heads Noteholders.

The note holders committee is headed by Charles S. Dewey. The group was represented by Attorney Robert Golding who told the court that the Dewey committee represented holders owning notes with a par value of $6,200,000 or about one-seventh of the total outstanding serial debenture issue of $40,000,000.

The preferred stockholders committee, headed by C. Frederick Childs, was represented by Attorney Donald McPherson. In his plea for recognition, which was granted, Attorney McPherson stated that the Childs committee was working on behalf of holders of approximately one-third of the 607,000 shares of preferred stock outstanding.

A charge was made during the court proceedings by Attorney Samuel Ettelson that the Middle West company had been wrecked through the stock market gambling of officials. Mr. Ettelson appeared as attorney for the common stockholders committee which is headed by Burton Colbert.

Blames One Official.

"This company was wrecked by officials—one official, I may say—who used the money invested in the common stock for gambling in the shares of other companies," Attorney Ettelson declared in his plea for right to intervene on behalf of the Colbert group.

The attorney also said he had lost $150,000 and that his law partner, Edward C. Higgins, former assistant corporation counsel, had dropped $50,000 in Middle West stock, which they still hold.

Mr. Ettelson then asked Attorney Orville Taylor, who represented the Martin Lindsay common stockholders committee, if that committee was not organized by the banks that are large

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—Traders kept their fingers crossed and their carefares intact while the stock market went through the motions of another ring around session today. Volume was a little better than that of yesterday, approximately some 700,000 shares, but price changes were just as narrow and unimportant.

President Hoover's move for a reduction in world expenditures for armaments was dismissed with a shrug of the shoulders and the usual round of dividend deductions and omissions had no discernible influence whatever. Commentators were unable to see anything disturbing in the equity receivership for Fox theaters or the extension of the senate investigating committee's activities, either. At any rate such declines as took place seemed to be due more to lack of demand than to any pronounced selling pressure.

Brace Up Later.

Some of the leaders showed a disposition to brace up in the late dealings and in the absence of any other explanation some observers thought the turnabout might be due to a modest rally which took place in wheat. Previous to this demonstration, however, several of the customary pacemakers, including United States Steel, American Can, and American Telephone had either duplicated or violated their previous bear market lows. U. S. Steel at its day's low of 24 was selling at its worst price since 1907. The weakness in American Can was blamed on a report that the company is seeking to arrange temporary financing through banking accommodation.

Some of the selling, however, was undoubtedly influenced by expectations of a sharp reduction in the company's dividend when its board meets next week. The street heard that the present $4 rate may be halved. U. S. Steel was handicapped by the discouraging tenor of the week's trade journal reviews. Numerous shutdowns among smaller independents are foreseen unless conditions in the benefit of the real value of their assets.

"The closing of an insurance company which is well managed, having ample reserves and sufficient assets to pay its liabilities as they mature, not only causes sacrifice and loss to policy holders and investors, but the mere act of liquidation again depresses the security market.

When the Market Is Abnormal.

"The usual standard of valuation in normal times is the quotations on the stock exchange. When by force of economic circumstances exchanges become mere auction blocks reflecting for the most part compulsory sales they lose their import as a standard of valuation.

"The amortization of bonds for life insurance companies came into the New York law in 1909 during the administration of Gov. C. E. Hughes. It was based on the theory that amply secured corporate bonds which in all probability could be held to maturity would be paid at maturity. Such bonds were thus placed on the same basis as real estate bonds.

"The method of amortization provided by the New York statute is based on the original price of the bonds valued by computing their present worth under the usual rate of interest realized, if the bonds are held to maturity. The adjustment brings the bond exactly to its par value at maturity whether bought at a premium or a discount and whatever the contract rate of interest."

Time to Apply Rule.

Mr. Van Schaick said that if there ever was a time for the application of this principle by the various states it is now.

"The most intelligent financiers of the country realize and appreciate that the bond market has become a bargain counter," he continued. "Anyone having the slightest confidence in the future of the country and the country's fundamental securities must appreciate that this situation is a temporary one."

GERMANY TAKES OVER BIG STEEL INDUSTRY OPERATING IN AUSTRIA

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, June 22.—It was revealed today that in acquiring the majority of the shares of the Gelsenkirschen Mining company the German government also secured control of the Alpine Montangesellschaft, Austria's largest iron and steel works and, in fact, its largest industry of any kind.

The announcement had even greater political than economic significance. The Alpine company has long been the chief financier of the Heimwehr and other radical right movements in Austria, just as the German iron and steel industry patronized the Hakenkreuler and Hitlerite agitations in Germany. The connection between Austrian and German Hitlerism is open and notorious, and now the German government, which countenances the Nazis, seems also to be assured of the unity of their sources of funds.

Germany's Creditors to Meet.

New York, June 22.—Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank, sailed tonight on the Bremen to attend a conference of German creditors under the standstill agreement to be held in London about July 1.

PRICE CHANGES SLIM IN DULL STOCK TRADING

industry take an immediate change for the better.

The public utility group displayed a somewhat better tone on the whole than the other two important sections, namely the rails and industrials, being bolstered by a more encouraging set of figures in the regular weekly report on electric output. Such sometime trading favorites as Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, American and Foreign Power and Standard Gas contrived to hold within small fractions of their previous closing figures and two or three of them emerged displaying small gains.

Copper and amusement issues also displayed a firm tone.

Auburn was again a weak spot and losses of 2 to 3 points were suffered by the preferred stocks of American Chain, Electric Power, Fashion Park, National Lead A, Pacific Telephone, Vulcan Detinning and others.

In the railroad department Delaware and Hudson caused some surprise by slipping down a point in face of reports that the $2.25 dividend is to be maintained by the board at its approaching meeting.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Fifty cent wheat is regarded by most of the trade as the pivotal point. While there are many operators who reinstated their lines on the drop to new low price levels there is not enough outside business to hold bulges and it was said that until there is a greatly enlarged buying power the markets are not expected to get out of the rut.

Close observers say the wheat market has been well liquidated and is in shape to advance fairly with any decided information that black rust, grasshoppers and other plagues are damaging the crop. They look for moderate hedging pressure at times and are working to get up enthusiasm in inducing the purchase of wheat as an investment at under 50c. On the other hand it was said lower price levels are yet to be seen unless the stock market shows more stability.

One of the largest elevator operators says there is nothing but a storage proposition for the cash handlers in the wheat situation as he sees it.

COURT REFUSES PETITION OF 3 INSULL GROUPS

creditors of Middle West Utilities. Mr. Taylor replied that several of the banks that held Middle West stock had deposited their holdings with his committee.

Carey's Group Represented.

The third common stockholders group represented at the hearing was the committee headed by Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade. All three committees sought leave to intervene. In taking the motions under advisement Judge Lindley denied recognition to the committee for a second time. At a previous hearing he took similar action, stating that he was not interested in the fees that lawyers should collect in representing the stockholders. The court and the receivers were taking every means to protect their rights, he declared.

The auction of the Insull collateral, which was to have been held yesterday by four New York banks, was postponed again for the fifth time. The sale was continued until July 5. It is expected that the Court of Appeals will render a decision in the interim on the order of Judge Lindley restraining the auction. The banks proposed to sell large blocks of stock of the Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas, and Public Service of Northern Illinois to satisfy loans made to the two Insull investment trusts.

PRICES OF WHEAT HIT NEW LOWS; ADVANCE LATER

Apprehension of Black Rust Damage Grows.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

All deliveries of wheat in American markets dropped to new lows for the season yesterday as the result of scattered liquidation and a little hedging pressure early. Prices in Chicago dropped 1⅛c from Tuesday's finish to a low of 46⅞c on the old July, or within 2¼c of the inside figure at which any figure ever sold on the local exchange. Buying against bids and by commission houses checked the break and later the market bounced back on short covering and local buying and closed ⅛@¼c higher.

There was nothing in the general run of the news to account for the upturn in wheat toward the last, although a local professional was talking bullish and backed his opinion with buying orders. Old July finished at 48⅛@48¼c; old September, 50¾@50⅞c and December, 53¾@53⅞c. Winnipeg failed to break into new low ground, although it declined 1⅜c early, only to rally later and closed ¼@½c higher with July at 54⅛c in Canadian funds. Liverpool was ⅜@⅝c lower with July at 50½c, or 3⅛c over Chicago at the time.

Diseases Menace Wheat Crop.

Growing apprehension regarding the possibility of black rust damage to the spring wheat crop is being voiced by local and northwestern interests, and the disease was reported in a message to Clement, Curtis & Co. as having been found at Nome, N. D.

An epidemic of the black chaff disease of wheat has developed in the southwest. It is being mistaken in some cases for black stem rust, although there is no similarity in the appearance of the two diseases. Black chaff has not appeared in the northwestern spring wheat area so far. It is one of the blights often present and overlooked when disappointing threshing returns are attributed to premature ripening and other causes. Kansas and Nebraska recently have sent in numerous such reports.

Discusses Black Chaff.

R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Brothers & Co. expert, who was the first to identify the orange striped rust, which played havoc with the Argentine wheat crop several years ago, in commenting on the appearance of the black chaff disease, says wide spread infestation had occured by May 25 to June 5 from northern Oklahoma to the Platte river in Nebraska. Infestation was of varying degree, depending on local earliness of May drought relief and following rainfall, since the disease required showery weather for development. Recent rains have caused rapid development.

"Important damage has occured in northern Kansas and in Nebraska since this wheat was younger when attacked than southward," said Mr. Cromwell, "but scattered localities have shown noticeable damage south into Oklahoma." In his opinion black chaff and similar blights, together with the effect of frequent heavy storms, have fully offset the early improvement from rains or exceeded such improvement.

Foreigners After Wheat.

A little export business is reported as having developed in new crop hard winter wheat, with claims of 80,000 bu dark No. 1 hard being sold at the Gulf on the basis of 1c over Chicago September. Owing to the low prices bid for new wheat it was claimed in a Kansas City message to J. E. Bennett & Co. that practically no grain was bought by that market this week. No. 1 hard was quoted at ½c under Kansas City July, a figure that suggested 24@25c to farmers in central Kansas. Export sales of 500,000 bu Manitobas were estimated in all positions.

There was some increase in the volume of trading in wheat yesterday as compared with Tuesday when the purchases of all futures were 15,232,000 bu. The total was somewhat in excess of trade expectations and compared with only 12,256,000 bu on May 10.

Coarse Grains Dull.

Corn futures held within a range of ⅜@⅝c, with a limited trade. Action of wheat had some effect and the close was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with July, 29⅞@30c; September, 31⅞c, and December, 32¼c. Crop Observer B. W. Snow of Bartlett Frazier company, after a trip through part of central Illinois, said the new crop appeared to be in almost perfect condition, with the plant knee to waist high and 10 days to 2 weeks ahead of normal growth.

Oats finished unchanged to ⅛c lower, with July showing the decline, closing at 20¼c, while September was 20⅝c, and December, 22⅝c. Cash interests were fair buyers early.

Rye sold at a new low for the season yesterday, with the July touching 28⅝c, coming within ⅞c of the lowest figure at which the cash grain has sold in nearly 50 years. In August, 1895 the cash article was quoted as low as 28c. The market rallied toward the last, with wheat and finished unchanged to ¼c higher with July 29½c; September, 32¼c, and December, 35½c.

BUTTER AND EGGS EASY

A slightly easier tone prevailed in butter and egg futures at the close on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter was unchanged to ⅛c lower and eggs off ⅛c. Bearish reports continued to induce selling in the butter market. Production figures indicated a slight increase over last year and the four markets stored nearly 500,000 lbs more than last year. New selling was prominent, covering being the main supporting element. Eggs received better reports late in the session, the four markets storing 6,000 cases less than last year. Early selling slackened on this news. Sales: Butter, 82 cars; eggs, 36 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car. Prices follow:

COTTON WEEVILS SPREAD

Reports that the cotton weevil was spreading, as weather of late has been favorable to increased infestation, had the effect of inducing shorts to cover and bring in some new investment buying. Liquidation by July holders found buyers among trade interests, which absorbed most of the offerings. Lower grains and stock markets influenced sentiment in cotton, which failed to rally when the former markets turned strong. Cotton futures finished 2@6 points net lower, the latter in New York. Spots were 5 points off at 5.30c in New York, 5.20c in New Orleans, with Houston 5.10c and Galveston 5.15c. Prices follow:

TAKE PROFITS IN LARD

Selling of lard to take profits by recent buyers found plenty of support but prices yielded under the increased pressure and the close on futures was at net losses of 5 to 7½c. In bellies there was less interest and prices remained unchanged. Cash trade was fair to good. Prices are low and supplies ample and there is no great disposition among consumers to anticipate requirements. Liverpool lard was 3 to 6d lower. Export clearances were 9,375 lbs. Hogs were strong to 10d higher with lighter receipts at western points than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

INDEPENDENT PROTECTIVE COMMITTEE OF DEBENTURE-HOLDERS OF

Kreuger & Toll Company

TO THE HOLDERS OF 5% SECURED GOLD DEBENTURES:

The undersigned Independent Protective Committee was organized to protect the rights of the Debenture-holders and by way of protest against and in opposition to the Committee formed and sponsored by Lee, Higginson & Co., and their banking associates by or through whom the $50,000,000 Kreuger & Toll Secured Debentures were marketed.

The Chairman of that Committee, Mr. Grayson M.-P. Murphy, is a member and director of the Executive Committee of the Guaranty Trust Company whose affiliate Guaranty Company participated in the sale of these Debentures as members with Lee, Higginson & Co. of the underwriting and selling syndicate; others of the members of the Lee, Higginson-Murphy Committee were likewise concerned in the underwriting or marketing of these Debentures to the public. Until recently a member of the firm of Lee, Higginson & Co. was also a member of that Committee.

We hold it to be self-evident that the reorganization of Kreuger & Toll Company should not be entrusted to committees such as the Lee, Higginson-Murphy Committee, composed of members or nominees of the very same banking houses or institutions that were concerned in or responsible for the original distribution to the public of Kreuger & Toll securities and against whom causes of action may be found to exist in connection with the distribution and marketing of such securities.

We are compelled, in order to reach you, to resort to this public announcement in lieu of personal communication with you, because the Lee, Higginson-Murphy Bankers' Committee has persistently obstructed and thus far prevented access by us to the lists of debenture-holders which that Committee has been utilizing in soliciting deposits under its deposit-agreement.

The purpose of this communication is to invite you to deposit your securities with the undersigned Committee and to call attention to the opinion of our Counsel that the deposit of securities with the Lee, Higginson-Murphy Bankers' Committee may result in seriously jeopardizing if not wholly destroying important rights and causes of action that debenture-holders may be found to possess, due to the circumstances under which they acquired their original Debentures from Lee, Higginson & Co., or from the various other banking houses and institutions associated with them in marketing the securities.

Our Counsel advise that if Kreuger & Toll Debentures were purchased in reliance upon material representations which on investigation are found to have been false, a purchaser on discovering the falsity thereof may rescind or cancel his purchase and recover back the purchase price paid by him.

Your right to return the Debentures and to recover back your money would not depend upon your being able to prove that the banking houses from or through which your purchases were made knew the representations to be false—provided always that you have not exercised and did not after your discovery of the misrepresentation that induced you to make your investment exercise any irrevocable act of ownership or dominion over the Debentures—such as continuing their deposit under the terms of the Lee, Higginson-Murphy Committee deposit-agreement.

With the purpose in view of protecting these rights for you the deposit-agreement of our Committee, filed with our Depositary Title Guarantee & Trust Company, 176 Broadway, New York City, contains provisions specially designed, in the opinion of Counsel, to avoid any possible contention that such rights have been waived or prejudiced.

Inasmuch as we are advised that considerably less than 8% of Kreuger & Toll Debentures have been deposited with the Lee, Higginson-Murphy Committee, notwithstanding their means of reaching you, which have been denied us, and their many weeks of intensive solicitation, there is still time to safeguard the interests of those among you who have not deposited with that Committee against the risk of losing your rights of rescission, and possibly still time, by prompt action, to rescue those who have deposited.

This Committee is working in close connection with the Independent Protective Committee of Debenture-holders of International Match Corporation, under the general direction of Mr. Samuel Untermyer as Senior Advisory Counsel of that Committee, which is also in opposition to the Lee, Higginson-Perkins Banking Committee.

The following is the personnel of the undersigned Committee other than the Chairman who signs this notice below:

THOMAS H. HEALY, School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University

LINDSAY ROGERS, Professor Public Law, Columbia University

ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON, Pres., American Academy Political Science Professor of Economics, University of Pennsylvania

WILLIAM Z. RIPLEY, Professor of Political Economy, Harvard University

On your request the Secretary will forward you a copy of our Deposit Agreement.

SAMUEL UNTERMYER, SIEGFRIED HARTMAN, Counsel

BERNARD HENICK, Secretary, 46 Cedar St., New York, N. Y.

Men—Chicago South Side.

On account of the steady progress and growth of our company we are in a position to take on a few additional men from time to time; the requirements for these positions are quite reasonable so that the average man of good habits and clean-cut appearance living in the southern section of the city will stand a fair chance of being employed.

This company has been uniquely successful throughout this depression; in fact, 1932 will be our third successive record sales year. In line with our steady gains in business, the earnings of our men are higher; not only are more men earning $50 and $75 a week, but in recent months we have issued many weekly pay checks running between $100 and $250 throughout the entire country; these earnings, of course, are generally made by more experienced men, but there are exceptions where new men have very quickly advanced themselves to the higher incomes.

Similar positions are available in our local office to a few more men who are qualified to learn this work and who will be satisfied with earnings of $125 to $150 monthly while learning provided they saw opportunities for increases with experience. The men accepted for these positions will be given a very thorough course of training free of charge.

For personal interview call Thursday morning, 9 to 12, at Suite 430 Hyde Park National Bank Bldg., 53d and Lake Park-av.

WOULD LIKE TO TALK WITH FIVE serious minded West Side men and outline a program which, if carried out, should bring to you the same results it has to others, provided you can get along on $30 a week while learning our business for the first two months.

We will only be interested in applicants who can furnish good character references. There is no investment of any kind required. Twenty minutes spent in an interview between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. sharp might be the best twenty minutes you ever invested, if you qualify.

NORTH SIDE MEN.

We are expanding our operations and our progress calls for a number of new men of good character and adaptability. This is a permanent opportunity at substantial pay and a good future with a financially strong, old company.

Inasmuch as there is nothing similar to our product, we cannot get men experienced in our system of work, so we require ability to learn, as well as diligence and responsibility. No cost of any kind.

If you are selected you will be expected to start at once by attending factory branch school. Ask for Mr. Wright, from 9 to 12 only, Thursday morning, 215 McGraham Bldg., 1046 Wilson-av.
